Steel Firms Bar Peace by C. I. O. Stand, Say Arbiters

Secretary Perkins Gives Report on Mediation Collapse.

Withdrawal Offer By Lewis Revealed

Union Chief Willing to Quit Negotiations to Aid Parley.

By William V. Nessly.

The Federal Mediation Board, reporting to Secretary of Labor Perkins on its unsuccessful efforts toward settling the seven-State steel strike, last night criticized the independent steel concerns involved and held their refusal to enter any agreement with the C. I. O. union "is not the way to industrial peace."

Making public the report, Secretary Perkins declared that she has no evidence of "irresponsibility" of the C. I. O. or steel union leadership, the grounds on which the companies refused to enter any agreement with the labor representatives, and said heads of the United States Steel Corporation and Jones & Laughlin Steel Co., who have signed union contracts, do not share the independents' view that there is a lack of responsibility.

The board's report was a chonological review of its conferences with both sides in the dispute and its futile efforts to get officials of the union and the companies together in a man-to-man session. It revealed that at one time John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, backing the strike, had offered to withdraw from the negotiations, and did return to Washington, if it was objection to him personally that prevented the company heads from meeting with union officials.

Silent on Roosevelt Statement.

After all of its suggestions had been rejected, the board decided, it said, "in view of the attitude of the companies, that it could not accomplish anything further by way of mediation."

The report was signed by Charles P. Taft, chairman; Lloyd K. Garrison and Edward F. McGrady, members.

Miss Perkins said at a press conference she did not consider the report undertook to place blame for failure of the board's efforts but merely "stated the facts."

She declined to comment on President Roosevelt's statement that the attitude of most people regarding the strike has become "a plague on both your houses," but said she agreed that extremists on both sides "are not helping" to achieve peace.

"Sometime," she said, "the leaders of the two sides will meet, I think, and discuss their problems, and when they do they will reach a solution, for there are able men on both sides, with constructive viewpoints."

Meanwhile, the Secretary said she had no further moves in mind for the immediate future, so far as the strike is concerned. She has other courses in mind but is not certain that they are practical, she told newsmen.

"Restrains Exaggeration."

Asked if she favors legal processes to compel appearance of both sides in a dispute, the Secretary replied:

"I have seen a great deal of good come from having contrary witnesses testify in the presence of each other. It restrains exaggeration and misstatements."

She said that if the union representatives had been present when company officials uttered their charge of irresponsibility they could have reached a better understanding, perhaps, of the company "distrust" and "could have indicated ways by which they could give assurance of their responsibility."

In defending C. I. O. officials against the allegation of undependability she drew a distinction between the Automobile Workers Union, an affiliate of C. I. O., against which the steel men directed their criticism, and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, conducting the strike. She said the auto union was comparatively an old one, a separate organization which had simply affiliated with the C. I. O., while the steel workers' organization was actively sponsored by the C. I. O., which is doing the actual organizing for the union.

She said the auto union heads had always ruled against the "quickie"

Workers Cheer 'Armistice' in Steel Strike

Youngstown Plant Reopens Secretly as Inland Resumes.

By the Associated Press.

East Chicago, Ind., July 1.—A second break in steel strike lines occurred tonight when the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. secretly resumed partial operations at its South Chicago, Ill., mill while nearly 12,500 steel workers jubilantly hailed a "strike armistice" which reopened the Inland Steel plant here.

While East Chicago workers poured back into Inland's reopened plant, Police Sergt. John Cannon estimated 210 workers had slipped into the Youngstown mill in South Chicago, 10 miles distant, by boat and in Pullman cars in a surprise move, after Youngstown officials canceled a previous 8 a. m. "zero hour" for reopening.

The "zero hour" was canceled when Gov. M. Clifford Townsend refused to send Indiana National Guardsmen to protect workers.

Meanwhile C. I. O. leaders announced a "victory rally" to celebrate the truce pact at East Chicago tomorrow.

Inland spokesmen held a different viewpoint. Vice President Clarence B. Randall declared:

"We signed nothing. We made no agreement with anybody. The C. I. O. simply accepted through Gov. Townsend the provisions of our labor policy which we submitted to the Governor last Saturday and which restated the labor policy we announced to our employes May 25.'

The three other members of the strike-sieged "little steel" group, meanwhile, gave no sign of following Inland Steel's lead with a "third party" agreement.

Simultaneously, Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood decided at Columbus to call in two other Federal judges to decide whether a one-judge or a three-judge court should hear a C. I. O. suit to enjoin the use of Ohio National Guardsmen in the strike zone.

A hearing was set for next Tuesday on the C. I. O.'s appeal for a temporary order to restrain the Guardsmen from protecting strike-bound steel plants pending hearing on the injunction suit.

Thousands of men staged a midnight-to-dawn celebration of the East Chicago "strike armistice," and tonight Inland's paymaster, H. A. Fredenhazen, said a full force had been assigned to jobs.

C. I. O. picket lines were withdrawn, and smoke billowed from the stacks.

Full-blast operations started once more under the terms of a tripartite agreement reached through the offices of Gov. Townsend acknowledging recognition of the C. I. O. as bargaining agent for its

Bostonian Seized For Death Threats To Mr. Roosevelt

Boston, July 1 (AP).—Federal officers today arrested Morton D. Wainwright, 72, of Winthrop, and charged him with writing threatening letters to President Roosevelt. Text of the letters was not divulged, although officers said they threatened death to the President.

The arrest was made by Alonzo H. Rice, a Secret Service agent. The letters were written over a 16-month period, authorities said. Wainwright formerly was a deputy United States marshal at Seattle.

The Federal men disclosed they also were anxious to trace crank letters addressed to the former Ethel duPont, who yesterday became the bride of the President's son, Franklin D. Roosevelt's jr.

'Cavalcade of Scouting' Thrills 20,000 by Exhibitions of Skill

The stuff that Boy Scouts are made of was demonstrated last night in the Washington Monument grounds before a crowd of 20,000 who witnessed the premiere performance of "Cavalcade of Scouting."

Building tepees, playing games, massing flags, performing Indian dances and staging countless other stunts, the cast of 4,000 youths from nine States and the District thrilled the huge Jamboree throng.

The boys showed how they signal with flags, flashlights and smoke. They bandaged comrades in "distress" with their neckerchiefs, improvised stretchers and demonstrated the numerous ways of carrying an accident victim. In a matter of seconds they erected look-out towers and built fires by striking flint against steel.

The Constitution Avenue side of the Monument Grounds was transformed into a 50-ring circus for tugs-of-war, rope-twirling exhibitions, tilting on piggy back, rope-skipping, knot-tying, relay races and mock mine rescues.

Representatives of the 25 foreign nations at the Jamboree executed the symbolic golden arrow rite on a platform where stood Chief Scout Executive James E. West. China, England, Canada, Siam, Rumania, Poland, Lithuania, New Zealand, Sweden—these and all the others bore their national emblems into the arena to receive a thunderous ovation.

Pete McLaren, world champion woodchopper, demonstrated his skill on a 14-inch log. A similar exhibition was given by Paul Criss, who severed a log in 30 seconds.

Tonight will be New England's, New York's and New Jersey's night in the second performance in "Cavalcade of Scouting." Again Saturday night and on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights of next week the show will go on, with a different cast for every exhibition.

Police Clubbed Prone Strikers, Witness Avers

By Robert C. Albright.

Guns fired point blank at retreating strike marchers, crude weapons hurled by pickets, meals served in a steel plant to Chicago policemen, ax-handles augmenting police side-arms, and clubbing of prone strikers after the melee.

A 22-year-old "part time" reporter yesterday painted this picture of Chicago's May 30 police clash with steel pickets, in which 10 persons were killed, 7 of them shot in the back.

Ralph Beck, slight, curly-haired former University of Chicago student, who "covered" the South Chicago Memorial Day steel disorders for the Chicago Daily News, told his eye-witness story before the Senate Civil Liberties Committee.

Defends Shootings.

His testimony, conflicting on major points with the Chicago police version, followed a series of statements from police officers and patrolmen blaming "agitators" for the so-called riot and accusing the marchers of firing the "first shot."

"We maintain," William V. Daly, Chicago's assistant corporation counsel, had testified, "that this movement of the mob was illegal in its inception. . . . The right of free speech and the right of assembly was not violated by the police. . . . They were ordered to disperse and had no further right to be there. . . . The police were justified in shooting. The law gives them the right to do it."

Saw Policemen Firing.

Beck said a police captain had "apparently" persuaded the strike leaders to turn back after a "peaceful" conversation, when the branch of a tree was hurled from the rear of the marchers. Before it landed, he said he heard a shot from the rear of the police ranks and saw a policeman's revolver pointed in air.

Husband - Wife Trusts Created To Avoid Taxes

Treasury Lost $1,800,000 Through Joint Plan, Inquirers Told.

"The case of Mr. and Mrs. X.," a hypothetical situation in which a husband-and-wife income of $200,000 yearly could escape the payment of taxes to the Treasury, was related to a joint Congressional committee yesterday to demonstrate the Treasury thesis as to how wealthy Americans avoid millions in taxes through multiple trusts.

Paul Bruton, Internal Revenue Bureau attorney, who was the day's witness before the tax-avoidance hearing, said:

"Such a case as this might come unless some effective action is taken to prevent it. This will be the case of Mr. and Mrs. X., who each own securities yielding an annual income of $100,000 a year.

"They each execute 100 trusts for the benefit of the other, the income of each trust to be used to pay a $1,000 annuity to the beneficiary. The result: Mr. and Mrs. X would be receiving $100,000 a year each; the income tax paid—0."

None of the cases presented was quite that simple, but Bruton's testimony revealed the gradual but swiftly growing use of this legislative loophole to be so great as "to constitute a serious challenge to the effective administration of the income tax."

Seven persons who have adopted this method to reduce taxes payable to the Treasury were named, and their total taxes saved by setting up 154 trusts, with income split

Hating In-Laws May Cause Boils, Doctor Declares

Try your very best to like your mother-in-law. Otherwise you might get boils.

Dr. Karl A. Menninger, eminent psychiatrist, says so; the United States Public Health Service takes cognizance of his conclusion, and Dr. Menninger explains:

"I was once consulted by an intelligent young married woman who was distressed at her inability to be gracious to her husband's numerous relatives. She had managed by dint of great effort to conceal her feelings from them, but apparently only by a process of turning all the hostility which they aroused in her back upon herself.

"Three years previously, when her mother-in-law had come to visit her, she had developed 'an outbreak of frightful boils which resisted all treatment,' but which disappeared immediately after her mother-in-law went home. Precisely the same thing occurred several times thereafter—whenever any of the family came to stay with us I promptly had a boil.'"

Senate to Get New Bill on Court Today

Robinson to Offer New Deal Compromise for Reform.

By Sidney Olson.

Three days short of five months since the President exploded his court reorganization bombshell on a stunned Congress, the Administration's second bill for a revised judiciary will be unveiled in the Senate today.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Senate majority leader, will introduce today a court bill, he revealed. The square-jawed, heavy-set Democratic chieftain was reluctant to discuss the measure before its introduction, but Senator M. M. Logan (Democrat), of Kentucky, disclosing that he had prepared the bill, said it was an amendment "in the nature of a substitute" to the original Administration bill. It contains, he said:

Authority for the President to appoint not more than one additional justice per calendar year to the Supreme Court for each member of the court (four) who is past 75.

Permanent Court of Nine.

A permanent court of nine members, as vacancies of elder retiring justices will not be filled.

A maximum of 20 new lower court judges, with the increase temporary instead of permanent.

Speed-up of appeal to the Supreme Court on lower court decisions involving constitutionality of Federal laws.

The new bill, if passed, would grant the President two appointments this year and one in January, it was noted.

One of these is due to the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter last month. Some observers pointed out, referring to the Senate boom for Robinson's nomination as the new justice, this would allow the President to send up another name for Senate confirmation along with Robinson's, this pleasing conservatives, who believe Robinson is at heart conservative, and pleasing New Dealers with the selection of some lawyer indorsed by them.

Administration leaders yesterday claimed 54 votes for the compromise proposal. Opposition chiefs confirmed this number approximately, but countered with the statement that "about 43" and at least more than 40 opposition Senators will "stand like a rock" against any addition whatsoever to the Supreme Court, and are prepared to filibuster indefinitely.

Filibuster Feared.

Senator Edward R. Burke (Democrat), of Nebraska, an opposition strategist, revealed Robinson is "worried" about filibuster possibilities. He said Robinson had conferred with him for a half-hour yesterday, and the majority leader had said that while there should be a full discussion and general debate on the bill, "Don't let this thing go to the point of a filibuster."

Burke smiled. "They want a good quick vote. They have the votes to put it over, too, except that 43 of us will never let it come to that point. We'll join in the preliminary debate, and then when there are signs that the court bill proponents want to shut off debate and vote, we'll hold an opposition meeting and decide on the filibuster tactics."

"Presentation of this compromise," he added, "is public abandonment of the entire argument presented for the original six-judge increase.

"We saw this coming—this compromise proposal. That's why we wrote such a strong adverse report. We wanted to scotch the principle of the thing in its entirety, whether it's a one-judge increase or a six-judge increase."

Swallows "Sweet" Words.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst (Democrat), of Arizona, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and the man who introduced the court bill in the upper house, said he was going to read over the compromise bill tonight. Reminded of his repeated pronouncements of "no compromise—six or nothing," he laughed and said:

"I always utter the sweetest words in order that I may swallow them the more easily."

Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, opponent of the court bill in any form, in discussing the probable filibuster, said:

"I fear the debate will soon degenerate into a bitter, scathing and nasty criticism of the Administration."

Ashurst answered swiftly:

New Russian Invasion Of Manchukuo Border Charged by Japanese

Dr. Martin Niemoeller Seized for Defying Publicity Ban.

By the United Press.

Berlin, July 1.—The Reich church ministry of Hans Kerrl, striking boldly to crush its anti-Nazi critics within the evangelical church, today arrested the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, Berlin's best-known pastor, and sent him to Moabit Prison.

The tall, grim-visaged pastor, like 12 of his confessional followers who went on trial in Berlin's summary court yesterday for defying Kerrl's drastic church decrees, was charged with violation of an order prohibiting pulpit announcements of persons withdrawing from the church.

Niemoeller, called the "fighting submarine pastor" because of his World War heroism, is head of the Prussian fraternal council of the Confessional Church.

The Confessionals, in opposition to the "German Christians" of the Evangelical Church, have fought for more than a year against efforts to "Nazify" the church and bring it under complete domination of the state.

Niemoeller has been seized by Nazi secret police several times and held for questioning.

The arrest of the Confessional leader, who announced from his pulpit a week ago he was the only member of the Prussian council who remained at liberty, followed by only 24 hours two decrees by Kerrl which established complete state control over the Evangelical Church.

One decree prohibited the use of churches for election purposes and banned all meetings pending announcement of the actual date of the forthcoming church elections, which are expected to provide the climax of the Nazi-Confessional controversy.

Soviet Announces Plan to Recall Troops if Area Is Vacated.

Warning Is Issued By Puppet State

Tokyo, July 2 (AP).—Officials of the Japanese government declared today the tense Russo-Japanese crisis caused by alleged Soviet invasion of Manchukuo was "a matter for the supreme command (of the army) to decide."

New Japanese Threat.

By the Associated Press.

Hsinking, Manchukuo, Friday, July 2.—The Japanese army charged today Russia had repeated her invasion of Manchukuoan territory.

Authorities at this capital of the Japanese-inspired state immediately began discussion of forcible means to cope with the situation.

The Japanese army charged three Soviet airplanes circled low over Sennufu Island, disputed sandspit on the Amur River boundary between Manchukuo and Siberia, yesterday afternoon and disappeared in an unknown direction.

Simultaneously, the army declared, five Soviet gunboats illegally entered Manchukuoan waters near the scene of the naval battle Wednesday which brought the long-smouldering border trouble to a head.

Soviet May Withdraw.

Meanwhile, in Moscow, the Soviet government announced early today it would withdraw its armed forces from the disputed Amur River islands, if Japan agrees to do likewise.

The announcement, made in a foreign office communique, declared Soviet Russia claims indemnification for the Russian losses in the fight which created a situation described last night by Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu as "very strained."

Earlier, the Manchukuo government served a peremptory warning on Russia to keep to the main navigation route on the river or risk "drastic measures," it was reported in a dispatch from Hsinking, capital of the Japanese protectorate.

The warning said:

"If your country's gunboats deviate from the main navigation route of the Amur River in the neighborhood of Sennufu, Bolshoi and Shaizukoukuo Islands and operate on the waterway belonging to Manchukuo, we shall be compelled to resort to drastic measures of self-defense."

In Tokyo the influential radical Seisanto (or National Production) Party today demanded the Japanese cabinet break off diplomatic relations with Russia because of alleged Soviet invasion of Manchukuoan territory.

Huge Loan Floated.

The Japanese envoy in a dispatch from Moscow to his government had reported Maxim Litvinoff, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, refused to recognize Japan's protest against Wednesday's battle on the Siberian-Manchukuoan frontier and insisted Japanese-Manchukuoan forces were responsible.

The later compromise announcement came after Russia had suddenly floated a defense loan of 4,000,000,000 rubles ($800,000,000 at the official rate) to be used for "consolidation of national defense."

The envoy had intimated "very serious" consequences might come if the Soviet Union rejected Japan's demand for evacuation.

American official interest in the Far Eastern crisis was shown in a visit of Joseph E. Davies, United States Ambassador, to Shigemitsu. Davies expressed hope the trouble would not develop further.

Menace Manchukuo Ship.

Reports from Harbin charged two Russian gunboats trained their guns menacingly on the Manchukuo vessel Shanghai Maru, first steamer to navigate the Amur after Wednesday's incident.

Japanese officials reported there were 37 casualties in the shelling of three Russian gunboats Wednesday. In Moscow it was reported two men were killed and three wounded aboard one gunboat.

Reports that five more Soviet gunboats had arrived at Sennufu Island earlier last night had heightened tension at Tokyo.

France Assured Treasury Help By Morgenthau

U. S. Joins Great Britain in Pledging Co-operation in Money Crisis.

By Franklyn Waltman.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau yesterday joined with the British exchequer in giving formal assurances to the French government of "a continuation of close co-operation between our treasuries within the scope of the tripartite declaration."

The tripartite declaration cited as the yardstick of American collaboration in assisting financially troubled France, is the agreement reached last September 25 between this Government, the British and French committing each to use its stabilization or equalization funds to prevent fluctuations in foreign exchange.

Secretary Morgenthau and Sir John Simon, chancelor of the British exchequer, sent identical notes to French Finance Minister Georges Bonnet. They read as follows:

"Now that the French ministry of finance has been given the powers which it sought to meet the present situation, I look forward to a continuation of close co-operation between our treasuries under the tripartite declaration. May I express to you the sincere hope that France will soon emerge from the temporary difficulties with which she is now confronted."

This action was taken after the French Parliament voted to Bonnet wide discretionary authority until August 31 to take steps to defend the franc, combat speculation and restore financial stability. On Monday the new Chautemps government in France cut the franc loose from gold and temporarily suspended all financial transactions.

Trading in francs was resumed yesterday, with the new French "floating franc"—so called because it remains unpegged to gold—dropping to the lowest point in 10 years. At the close of market trading in Paris the franc was quoted at 26.06 to the dollar and 128.93 to the English pound.

In New York, according to the Associated Press, the franc bobbed about uncertainly, coming to a rest at the end of the day at 3.83¾ cents each. It had been as low as 3.75 cents during the day, somewhat below the value of 3.92 cents for the

Tydings Seeks To Tack Rider To D.C. Tax Bill

Would Attach U. S. Resale Price Measure; King Opposes Move.

By James D. Secrest.

The Senate District Committee yesterday considered tacking a controversial national bill on the District tax measure as a rider as it continued its debate over amendments.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, proposed attaching his resale price maintenance bill onto the local measure, although it has no relation whatsoever to District taxes. His apparent purpose is to bring the bill to the Senate floor, but he declined to discuss it.

Although it has been on the calendar more than three months, the resale price maintenance measure has never been acted upon because of its controversial nature.

The aim of the legislation is to remove all doubt as to the right of States to pass laws permitting manufacurers to require retailers to sell their products at stipulated prices. It is designed to end the practice of cut-rate drug stores, in particular, of selling loss-leaders to attract trade.

A report of the Judiciary Committee, which reported the bill, explained that there is some question now as to whether the Sherman anti-trust act invalidates such State legislation. The Tydings bill would assure States that it doesn't.

Chairman King stated that he opposed the Tydings amendment and that a committee vote will be taken today.

Only two of the five tax proposals adopted by the House had been tentatively approved by the committee yesterday, it was under-

'Too Many Police' Bring Suspension Of Traffic Fines

Because "too many policemen" were in Traffic Court yesterday to testify against Russell Stargo, he received a suspended sentence.

The accused man appeared before Judge Robert E. Mattingly on ten charges of overtime parking. He pleaded guilty.

When the clerk called the cases, six policemen arose and advanced toward the witness stand.

"Five dollars suspended in each case," Judge Mattingly ruled before he heard any testimony. "There are too many policemen for me to hear this morning."

Roosevelt and Bride in Hiding; May Sail for Europe July 10

By the Associated Press.

Wilmington, Del., July 1.—Their parents and a few Secret Service men held the secret tonight of the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., on their wedding trip.

Steamship officials in Montreal said they expected the honeymooners for the sailing of the Empress of Britain, July 10, from Quebec City, for Liverpool.

But where they planned to go meanwhile was merely a subject for conjecture. Some said Maine. Others said they couldn't even guess.

The couple was still at Owls Nest, home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene duPont, last night when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt left by special train for Hyde Park, N. Y., for a family reunion. Then they disappeared.

They were married yesterday afternoon at 4 p. m., Eastern standard time.

Capital Woman, 13 Others Make Bows at British Court

By the Associated Press.

London, July 1.—Fourteen American women made the traditional double curtsy before King George VI and Queen Elizabeth tonight at the third royal court of a whirlwind coronation season.

For 200 debutantes it was the high spot in their social year. Chic gowns and brilliant uniforms brightened Buckingham Palace in contrast to the garden party court last year, when the then King Edward VIII received guests in half mourning for his father.

Mrs. Alexander W. New Faces in Congress

LEWIS MARSHALL LONG.

Says Force Would Be Last Resort if Railroad Worker's Experience Were Regarded; Carries a Card Himself.

By Liam K. Lenihan.

If organized labor would only take a leaf from the experience book of the railroad worker, then force would be the last weapon it would resort to, according to Lewis Marshall Long, congressman-at-large from Illinois, who carries a card of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

"I do not deny labor the right to use force when every effort at mediation has failed. I am quite concerned, though when reason is abandoned in favor of the big stick from the outset," the 54-year-old former telegrapher said.

Thumbnail sketch: Long was born in Gardner, Grundy County, Ill.; was graduated from the local schools and completed two years' academic work at the University of Illinois before he went to work for the Burlington Railroad as telegrapher. In 1925, when stationed at Sandwich, Ill., he decided to become a lawyer and for four years he commuted the 60-odd miles to Chicago to attend night lectures at the John Marshall Law School. Graduating in 1929, he engaged in general practice in Sandwich. Five years later he ran for the county judgeship but the overwhelming Republican sentiment defeated him. In 1935 he became mayor of his home town, resigning when he was elected to Congress.

Member of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House, Long termed our neutrality bill "inadequate." He added though that he favored the "trial and error" method and that by experiment only can we hope for ultimate perfection.

Short: The "only knowledge" Congressman Long brought back from Jefferson Island's Democratic lovefest was that recess is at least two months away.

2 Players Chosen For Antietam Fete

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Hagerstown, July 1.—Raymond Snively, young Hagerstown business man, will portray the role of Jonathan Hager, founder of Hagerstown, in the historical pageant "On Wings of Time," to be presented for two weeks here during the national Antietam commemoration in September, the talent committee, which is selecting 2,500 actresses and actors for the various roles, announced.

Merritt Campbell, local manufacturer, will portray the role of Gen. Braddock, British general of the ill-fated expedition which passed through this country en route to Fort Duquesne, near Pittsburgh, where Braddock was killed and most of his army wiped out by French and Indians.

Painters Fall 3 Stories, Land Uninjured in Store

Winchester, Va., July 1.—Maurice Grim and Charles Carter, local painters, demonstrated this afternoon that "they can take it."

While working near the roof of a three-story building adjacent to a large drug store, one of the ropes holding their scaffold gave way. The men plunged three stories, going through a skylight and landing behind the counter at a soda fountain. Their buckets of red paint spilled over them. Grim was knocked unconscious. Carter did not lose consciousness. An hour after the accident inquiry at the hospital revealed that "Grim just walked out" and that Carter was preparing to leave after receiving treatment.

WPA Sit-Downs Staged in Capital

A series of minor "sit-in" strikes, protesting against WPA reductions and lack of relief appropriations for employables, were staged at four public assistance offices yesterday by about 100 members of the District Workers' Alliance.

According to David Dixon, head of the local alliance, offices at 2529 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, 1428 U street northwest, First and I streets southwest and the 1300 block of Florida avenue northeast were occupied by members of the organization. In each case, a spokesman for the alliance stated, the 20 or 25 strikers were evicted by police.

Only one arrest was reported, that of Charles Adamson, of 1812 N street northwest, charged with disorderly conduct during the eviction at First and I streets.

Many Return to Work In Trinidad Oil Field

Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, July 1 (AP).—A number of employes in Trinidad's oil fields returned to their jobs today as Gov. Sir A. G. M. Fletcher's mediation committee pushed efforts to settle wage and hour disputes.

Settlement of the strikes was believed near after a long conference between the committee and representatives of the strikers. Agreement was reached on most of the issues. Strike riots have caused 14 deaths in the last two weeks.

France Assured Treasury Help By Morgenthau

old Poincare franc. The value of the franc yesterday, in relation to the dollar, was approximately 16 per cent, less than the price of the so-called Auriol franc prior to the present French crisis. Thus if stabilized at the current rate the franc will have suffered another devaluation of about 16 per cent in addition to that which took place last September.

In New York there was talk of stabilizing the franc at around 3.92 cents, its value between 1928 when Poincare stabilized the franc, and 1933 when the United States departed from gold. There was no information available at the Treasury as to the rate, in relation to the dollar, at which the franc would be maintained, but officials undoubtedly have a figure in mind.

France Is Pleased.

The French officials, the Associated Press reported, declared that the joint action of the United States and Great Britain was "highly gratifying," adding that the accord would give France a chance to work out her economic difficulties with the assurance that her currency would be safeguarded internationally.

Although Morgenthau's message to Bonnet was the first specific expression of attitude of this Government toward the French crisis, President Roosevelt in his joint statement with Belgian Prime Minister Paul Van Zeeland on Tuesday indicated that the American Treasury would give what assistance it could to the French. Moreover Treasury attaches have worked all week toward the end now announced.

Flanked by Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the Treasury; Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wayne C. Taylor and Archie Lochhead, director of the $2,000,000,000 American stabilization fund, Morgenthau at a special; called press conference revealed his message to the French finance minister.

He said there was little that could be added to it, except that there had been no changes in any technical arrangements under the tripartite agreement. He explained that the tripartite agreement had been effective throughout the week and that this country had engaged in a small amount of trading francs for the account of France.

Tourists to Gain.

The Treasury chieftain pointed out that due to the existence of the tripartite agreement the French crisis had not been followed by any serious disturbance in foreign exchange. He left the impression that if it had not been for the existence of the agreement, sharp fluctuations might have taken place this week in foreign exchange with unsettling effects on trade.

Unless the further devaluation of the franc is followed by rapid price rises, Americans, now in France or planning to visit that country this year, will gain. So will importers of French commodities. For instance, on last Monday, francs cost Americans 4.46 cents. They could be bought yesterday for 3.837 cents. It has been ten years since francs could be purchased so cheaply by Americans. Early in the twenties the franc dropped to a value of approximately 2 cents, but in 1928 it was pegged at 3.92 cents. When the United States left the gold standard, the franc advanced to around 6.5 cents, remaining there—with some sharp fluctuations from time to time—until the French devaluation of last September when it had a value of around 4.4 cents.

Fireworks Blast In Drugstore Kills Three, Injures 15

Nampa, Idaho, July 1 (AP).—A drugstore fireworks window display exploded today, killing a woman and two children and injuring 15 others, some critically.

Mrs. T. C. Daniels, 29, was almost instantly killed. Katherine Miller, 6, and Ardyce Pavek, 9, died of injuries.

The entire front of the store, operated by E. L. Drake, was blown out. Skyrockets, roman candle, cannon crackers and thousands of packages of firecrackers were set off.

On Capitol Hill

THE RESETTLEMENT Administration "didn't settle anything."

Yet "it is proposed to spend only $10,000,000 to repair the Nation's social fabric."

Thus spoke Senator Tom Connally, in earnest accents, on the Senate floor yesterday, as he battled vainly for a $65,000,000 increase in the $85,000,000 three-year authorization for farm tenancy expenditures in the Bankhead bill.

His $10,000,000 reference was to the 1938 authorization the bill carries. The Senator of the curly locks and bow tie sought to persuade the Senate that it's "our duty to legislate."

"The President," he pointed out, "can veto this bill if he wishes."

Administration Senators declined to agree with Senator Connally; heard Senator Bankhead, the bill's author, declare the expenditure would be only "a demonstration, but at least a start," then overwhelmed the Connally amendment.

CAROLINIAN BANKERS attempted to demonstrate to the House Banking Committee the proposed two-year extension of the rights of States and political subdivisions to draw interest on demand deposits is "unfair."

Robert M. Hanes, of Winston-Salem, said abolition of interest on demand deposits had strengthened the Nation's banking structure.

A. L. M. Wiggins, of Hartsville, said competition among bankers for public deposits, as advertising stimulants, often led bankers to offer unsound interest rates.

An American Bankers Association spokesman, Hanes also said there should be no distinction between private and public deposits.

J. Butler Wright, present Minister to Czechoslovakia, was named Ambassador to Cuba, succeeding Jefferson Caffrey, nominated as Ambassador to Brazil.

Caffrey will replace Hugh Gibson, who was named Ambassador to Belgium.

Other nominations included William H. Hornibrook, of Salt Lake City, former Minister to Iran, to be Minister to Costa Rica, and Ferdinand L. Mayer, of Indiana, now Counselor of Embassy at Berlin, to be Minister to Haiti.

Along with the diplomats, the President sent the Senate, on the heels of his recommendation that such positions be placed under Civil Service, names of numerous experts and attorneys for the Social Security Board, as follows:

John J. Corson, of Virginia, assistant executive director; James S. Douglas, of Louisiana, technical adviser on motion pictures; Leroy Hodges, of Virginia, director of Bureau of Federal Old-Age Benefits; Jesse O. Irvin, of Georgia, chief, Press Service Division.

Edward J. McCormack, of Tennessee, special assistant to board; Jack B. Tate, of Tennessee, assistant general counsel; James Guy Tucker, of Arkansas, constructive accountant; Sue S. White, of Tennessee, senior attorney, and Edward B. Williams, of Arkansas, principal attorney.

While it was receiving a new batch of names for consideration, the Senate disposed of one pending nomination, that of Robert Fechner, of Massachusetts, when it confirmed him as head of the Civilian Conservation Corps. The confirmation recalled the House storm which resulted in a reduction in Fechner's salary.

A $33,687,000 bill for river and harbor improvements, the War Department's "nonmilitary" appropriations for 1938. Improvement of the intracoastal waterway, from Cape Fear to Savannah, of New York and San Diego harbors, and of the Columbia River between Vancouver, Wash., and Bonneville is included. A notable authorization is that for construction of a $500,000 seaplane base on tiny Midway Island, in the Pacific, available for transpacific airway service.

"Annihilation" for the coal industry lurks in the ramifications of the Norris regional planning bill, a Senate agriculture subcommittee yesterday heard from John D. Battle, secretary of the National Coal Association.

The bill is "first and foremost a hydro-electric promotion on a Nation-wide scale hiding behind the mask of flood control," Battle informed the Senators. He added that it is "inimical to the national welfare, a violation of our whole concept of democracy and contrary to every precept of sound economics."

New loan contracts negotiated by the Rural Electrification Administration with two Mississippi co-operatives were announced gleefully by aides of Senator Bilbo. The Southwest Mississippi Electric Power Association will receive $205,000, the city of Holly Springs $71,000. Together they will build 262 miles of line to serve 876 customers, it was said.

Mrs. Murray Wins Right to Children

A limited divorce and the custody of her two children were granted Mrs. Matilda C. Murray, 137 Kenyon street northwest, yesterday by Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue in District Court.

Mrs. Murray figured in the news recently when she defied the District Court, which had ordered her to place her two children, 8 and 4, where the father, Ray C. Murray, could visit them.

Mrs. Murray flatly refused to bring the children into the District because, she said, she was afraid they would be taken away from her.

U. S., British Delegates Back Free News Report

Berlin, July 1 (AP).—American and British delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce conference today succeeded in having tabled in committee a resolution they said approved handicaps to honest foreign news gathering.

The resolution, calling for protection of industrial property, included a clause prohibiting the "commercial use of press news gathered in an illicit way." American and British committeemen objected that in a country with a controlled press all news not obtained through government agencies might be considered illicit.

U. S. Gets McLean Option.

Appomattox, Va., July 1 (AP).—Final options on the McLean house, property on the Appomattox Surrender Grounds, the last acreage sought for the National Park, have been accepted and approved at Washington, J. Gasbag Robot Seen Ousting PlanePilot As Air Forecaster

Airplanes and human pilots, now making daily flights for the Weather Bureau, soon may be replaced by tiny robots, which record weather conditions far above the earth and radio them to the ground.

This announcement was made yesterday by Dr. W. R. Gregg, chief of the Weather Bureau.

Tests of these robots, known as radiometeorgraphs, will begin at Burbank, Calif., September 1. More tests will be conducted at Fairbanks, Alaska, September 15.

The robots are carried aloft by 5-foot rubber balloons. Those to be tested at Fairbanks will pick up first news of cold waves bound for the United States from the North Pole. Those at Burbank will provide upper-air weather news for forecasters throughout the Nation.

At the end of the trial period, the bureau hopes to substitute these balloon-born radiometeorgraphs for the aerometeorographs attached to airplanes that now make upper-air soundings at a number of stations from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast.

U. S.-Canadian Peace Secure, President Says

Northern Neighbor Saluted on Anniversary of Confederation.

By the Associated Press.

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 1.—President Roosevelt declared tonight that American-Canadian friendship was "secure from every hazard of destruction or misunderstanding," because it was based on a common aspiration to maintain the "democratic form of constitutional, representative government."

Saluting Canada on its seventieth anniversary of confederation, the President, in a radio address from his Hyde Park home, again referred to the "enviable record" of friendship and amity between the two countries.

Surrounded by members of his immediate family, President Roosevelt put in a full day of rest here following a busy eight hours in Delaware, where he witnessed the marriage of his son Franklin to Ethel duPont.

Temporary Office Set Up.

He intends to stay here until Monday night. White House headquarters were established in their customary place at nearby Poughkeepsie and a pouch of Government mail arrived during the day to await Executive attention.

The President, after spending several hours with his mother, wife and children about the estate following his arrival by special train from Wilmington this morning, went for a brief motor ride about the countryside in the afternoon. He inspected his mother's farm and his own cottage property several miles to the east.

Replying to the President's Dominion Day greeting, Lord Tweedsmuir, the Canadian governor general, said, "Canada is an old country; as a territorial unit she is older than the United States, older even than New England or Virginia, but the United States became a federated people nearly a century before us and thereby set us an example."

Both Have Same Goal.

Lord Tweedsmuir, who spoke by radio from the British cruiser York in Quebec harbor, said the United States and Canada were marching "in the same direction toward the same goal," and added he hoped "that more and more we shall come to pool our ideas about the problems of the road."

President Roosevelt mentioned, as the "outward and visible" token of mutual confidence between the United States and her northern neighbor, the "unfortified boundary of more than 5,000 miles," stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The Canadian governor general reminded the United States that "her (Canada's) destiny is not to be a mere territorial expression and not to be merely nine provinces but to be a single and indivisible nation."

American Youth Praised in Talk By Scout Officer

Deploring the fact that in some countries attempts are being made to "lockstep youth," Dr. George J. Fisher, deputy chief Scout executive, speaking at the weekly meeting of the Washington Kiwanis Club, voiced thanks that the democratic youth of America had resisted regimentation.

Taking for his topic "Our Youth in a Changing World," Dr. Fisher declared that the stressing of American traditions upon the minds of the youth of the country would prove a guarantee against the sad spectacle of the lives of youths in some countries.

Taking advantage of the Jamboree, which has brought all high Scout officials, the Kiwanians devoted their entire meeting to the Boy Scouts.

President George Mangan called on Kiwanian Eddie Pardoe to take a bow. Pardoe has the distinction of being Eagle Scout No. 17 in the United States.

Hunt in Same Cell With Snake-Slayer

Los Angeles, July 1 (AP).—John Hunt seemed happy though jailed tonight as he awaited sentencing tomorrow for a Mann act violation.

"You can't jail the spirit," said Father Divine's disciple, who faces a maximum of five years in McNeil Island penitentiary and a $5,000 fine. He was convicted of transporting Delight Jewett from Denver to Beverly Hills for immoral purposes.

Hunt's cellmate is Robert S. James, convicted snake-murderer of his wife. James said he is accepting Father Divine's cult teaching as relayed by Hunt.

U. S. Bans British Meat.

Mrs. Isabel Escobar Gest, prominent socially here and in Philadelphia, yesterday won an uncontested divorce in Reno from Sydney Grier Gest. Mrs. Gest, who was in Washington most of the winter, married the former foreign service diplomat in Paris in 1924. She charged cruelty in the divorce suit.

Health Leader Cites Dangers Of Fireworks

Dr. Parran Joins Safety Warning Campaign for July 4.

The United States Public Health Service, the Red Cross and various automobile clubs joined yesterday in a plea for people to save their lives during the July 4 holidays.

The Fourth of July destructives—automobiles, firecrackers and swimming—are taking increasing tolls, "but quoting figures of previous injuries and fatalities is an inconclusive approach to this annual problem," Surgeon General Thomas Parran said.

Automobile and drowning fatalities increase enormously over the holiday week-end, but it is the burns, with the resultant danger of lockjaw and eye injuries suffered by children which merit the most careful attention, he stated.

"The thought that many children will be sightless the rest of their lives because their parents gave in to their pleas to play with firecrackers is a sobering one indeed," said the surgeon general.

Warning Issued.

He points to the practices of holding firecrackers in the hands, indiscriminate explosions of torpedoes and standing too near high-powered rockets, as dangers apparent. "Certainly very young children should not be permitted to participate in these pyrotechnical displays at all, and older children only when very carefully supervised."

Harold F. Enlows, national director of Red Cross first aid and lifesaving, urged people to "apply common sense rules of safety while motoring, boating and bathing." He called July the most dangerous month of the year. He pointed out the holiday dangers and the fear that many people "will be too busy to be safe."

Past Casualties Recalled.

Each year there are nearly 7,000 Independence Day casualties, a score or more deaths and half a hundred persons who lose their sight, the Red Cross leader recalled.

Foreseeing a record number of motorists on the road this week-end, the Keystone Automobile Club says that "unless everyone surrounds his own activities with an awareness of the danger inherent in the occasion, the usual number of accidents is likely to be exceeded."

The police pointed out that the "safer" kind of fireworks can be used in the District, while the Alexandria Commonwealth's attorney explained that there is no Virginia law covering the sale or use of fireworks. It is incumbent upon the individual communities to regulate their use. At the moment, fireworks are being sold on the Maryland side of the District line.

Foreign Policy Chief Urges Positive Action

Detroit, July 1 (AP).—Raymond Leslie Buell, of New York, president of the Foreign Policy Association, urged an American course of "positive action with like-minded powers" tonight as "the only way to reconcile the security of the United States with the American sense of justice."

He spoke at the closing session of the National Education Association.

Spiritualists Record Words Of Dead Indian

'Moon Trail' Voices His Philosophy Through Medium at Mike.

By the Associated Press.

Lily Dale, N. Y., July 1.—Spiritualist leaders claimed tonight to have completed the first successful mechanical recording of a "voice from the dead."

While a railroad train whistled drearily through nearby hills last night, 25 spiritualists sitting in a hotel room said they heard the "voice" of a dead Indian address a microphone.

Today they listened in silence to the wax record of the seance. A voice intoned:

"There is no greater manifestation of God than in the beauty of a human hand clasped to help a human hand . . ."

Voice of "Moon Trail."

R. G. Pressing, editor of the Dale News, publication of this spiritualist summer encampment, explained the procedure and said it was the first spirit "recording."

"The spirit was that of an Indian who died 300 years ago," he said. "His name was Moon Trail.

"The seance took place in the brightly lighted lounge of the Maplewood Hotel (a small summer hotel). In one corner was the recording machine, brought here from New York by a representative of the manufacturer.

"Moon Trail's intermediary, Mr. Horace S. Hambling, of London, England, stood before a microphone 30 feet from the machine. When the people seated around him were quiet, he went into a trance."

Gained in Stature.

As soon as Hambling's "etheric body" was in tune with Moon Trail's, Pressing said, he took on the appearance of the Indian.

"Moon Trail's spirit," Pressing said, "then took control of Mr. Hambling's vocal cords. Mr. Hambling increased in stature slightly and through him Moon Trail began giving his message of philosophy in a foreign tongue not known to the listeners. Then Hambling translated:

"Learning is living . . . Every soul is a brick in the mosaic of the universe. If one were lost the universe would fall . . ."

The records will be sent to Spiritualist churches in England.

Visiting Family's Auto Recovered

A family of four was bound for their home in Cleveland last night happy despite the fact that their automobile had been stolen here and much of their belongings taken.

Detective John O. Curtis, ace of the headquarters automobile squad, recovered the automobile of Mrs. Zeccheo less than 20 hours after it had been taken from the Monument Grounds Wednesday afternoon.

On a tour of the city, Mrs. Zeccheo, with her daughter, Phrania Damico, and two other relatives, Theresa May, 25, and her brother, Nicholas, 13, were weeping when they came to the police for aid Wednesday night.

New Act to Tax Sugar Market Wins Approval

Levy of $65,000,000 on Product Reported by House Committee.

By the Associated Press.

Legislation which would impose a tax of approximately $65,000,000 annually on sugar consumed in the United States received the approval yesterday of the House Agriculture Committee.

It is the "compromise" Jones bill to provide a new quota system for division of the American sugar market among domestic and foreign producing areas. If enacted it will supplant the Jones-Costigan quota act, which expires December 31.

The Jones bill would authorize payment of cash benefits to domestic producers who comply with Federal production control regulations. Payments would be made at the base rate of 60 cents per 100 pounds on raw sugar.

The benefits would be paid from the proceeds of a tax of half a cent a pound on manufactured sugar.

In line with recommendations of President Roosevelt, the bill would deny benefits to producers employing children 14 years of age or younger.

The proposed quota system, said Chairman Jones, of the House Agriculture Committee, represents a compromise between demands of American producers and refiners on the one hand and Hawaiian, Philippine, Cuban, Puerto Rican and foreign producers and refiners on the other.

It would allot domestic producers 55.59 per cent of the American market, or a minimum of 3,715,000 short tons, and foreign producers 44.41 per cent, or an approximate minimum of 2,967,670.

New National Park In Va. Is Dedicated

Norton, Va., July 1 (AP).—Declaring the manner in which a nation's forest lands are handled vital to "its social and economic security," M. L. Wilson, undersecretary of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, dedicated the 450,000-acre Jefferson National Forest today to "the spirit of public service" which he said the life of Thomas Jefferson exemplified.

Speaking at High Knob, near Norton, Wilson said the Federal Government had designated a total area of nearly 2,500,000 acres in Southwest Virginia, but that a land-use survey showed some of the land better suited for purposes other than forests.

The same survey, however, indicated, he said, that more than one and two-third million acres were actual or potential forest lands, and as owners are willing to sell and the Government is in a position to buy, the forest would be expanded and administered for "the greatest good of the greatest number in the long run."

The dedicatory exercises were held in conjunction with the third annual Rhododendron festival, which opened here today.

Morrill G. Goddard, 70, Hearst Executive, Dies

Naskeag, Me., July 1 (AP).—Morrill G. Goddard, 70, long editor of Hearst's American Weekly, died here today.

A native of Portland, Goddard went to New York and began his newspaper career on the old New York World immediately after his graduation from Dartmouth in 1885. He became the Morning World's editor before he was 21, later became Sunday editor, and joined the Hearst publications in 1898.

Rescue Squad Revives Gas Fumes Sufferer

Mrs. B. S. Shapiro, 27, was overcome by gas yesterday afternoon in her home at 903 Concord avenue northwest.

Alone in the house at the time, she was found by her sister, Helen Whitten, who summoned police and the Fire Rescue Squad. Members of the rescue squad revived the woman and took her to Emergency Hospital.

The only person who does not think it strange that 15-year-old Irma Tennant is studying psychology and political science at Catholic University's summer school is Irma herself.

When her fellow-students at St. Cecelia's Academy, where she will be a junior next year, gleefully closed their books this month and prepared to let themselves go during their three-month vacation, Irma felt just as glad as they—for different reasons.

She welcomed the close of school because it meant she was one year nearer college and the career in the foreign service which she plans for herself. Last week she invaded C. U. and told the authorities she would like to take up political science, psychology and speech.

The professors were not worried about speech but confessed doubts as to whether she could tackle the other, more complex subjects. Refusing to be talked out of it so easily, Irma was turned over to Dr. Roy J. Deferrari, director of the summer school.

Convinced Director.

"When I convinced him that I was serious minded about it, he said that I could go ahead and that he admired my ambition," Irma explained yesterday. As a matter of fact, her intelligent face and complete self-possession probably were more persuasive than anything she could say.

Irma's classmates are nuns, priests and teachers, all twice or three times her age. "But they're just as nice to me as can be," Irma added.

Distinctly not a bookworm—a casual observer would class her as a popular coed of 18 or 19 with an unusually pretty smile—Irma's scholarly inclinations are based on purely practical motives.

"I'm interested in psychology because I want to know what makes people behave the way they do. Not just other people and not just myself. People are pretty much alike, I think," she said.

As for the political science, that's important for a person who wants to go into the foreign service. Besides, Irma's father, Alexander A. Tennant, was a field representative for shipowners for many years, during which Irma lived in England, Belgium, France and Brazil.

Curiosity Aroused.

"Living in foreign countries that way, naturally made me wonder about how they were run and about our relations with them. And my father is tremendously interested in politics and foreign affairs, so, at the dinner table—well, I just don't hear anything else," she explained with a grin.

As for the speech, everyone makes mistakes in pronunciation, Irma believes, and she wants to get rid of as many as she can.

She has just finished John Gunther's "Inside Europe," which she enjoyed for its depiction of famous characters. But books of that type are too sketchy in their handling of foreign relations to suit Irma. For real meat she prefers "The Life and Letters of Walter Hines Page" and "Woodrow Wilson—Life and Letters."

A curious coincidence marked the beginning of her psychology course. She looked at the flyleaf of the textbook she had been told to buy and saw the author of the book was Dom Thomas Verner Moore, the priest who christened her in Providence Hospital soon after her birth.

Irma lives with her parents and a 9-year-old sister at 2901 North Capitol street.

'Chained' for Kidnaping.

Havana, July 1 (AP).—One woman and four men were condemned to "perpetual chains" and two other men to four-year prison terms today for the $300,000 ransom kidnaping two years ago of young Eutimio Falla Bonet.

Cuban Budget Balanced.

Havana, July 1 (AP).—Cuba's budget for the 1937-38 fiscal year went into effect today with an estimated surplus of $700,000. Cuba closed her books for the year just ended with an estimated surplus of $3,800,000.

Workers Cheer 'Armistice' in Steel Strike

Youngstown Plant Reopens Secretly as Inland Resumes.

members only, and, among other things, acceptance by the workers of Inland's own "labor policy."

No actual contract with the C. I. O., however, was signed.

The other there members of the "Little Steel" group—Republic, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube—either remained silent on the Inland settlement or indicated their policy was unswerving.

Officials of all three companies said tonight that despite the continued siege of John L. Lewis' C. I. O. picket forces, few of their mills were now idle.

The most outspoken comment on the Inland pact came from Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet & Tube, whose East Chicago plant, normally employing 6,500 men, had planned to reopen at 8 a. m. today if guaranteed troop protection.

"My company will not make any agreement with the steel workers' organizing committee or the C. I. O. either directly or indirectly, and will not make any such agreement through the Governor's office," Purnell said.

"Our position remains unchanged," said a spokesman for Tom Girdler's Republic Steel Corporation.

"No comment," said Bethlehem.

Bethlehem's Cambria works at Johnstown, Pa., with a normal employment of 15,000 men, speeded up operations today after Tuesday's paralyzing dynamite blasts cut off two main water lines.

Sidney Evans, company official, said one of the explosion-shattered lines had been repaired and that conditions in the mills were "virtually normal, with the working force practically complete."

Only a few strikers manned the picket lines along the 7-mile Cambria works front as the strike-wearied city waited for developments in a call by James Mark, C. I. O. leader, for a "giant mass meeting" of union men July 4 "to show the Nation whether we can get 40,000 men into Johnstown."

Other Developments.

1. At Massilon, Ohio, nearly 2,000 nonstriking Republic Steel employes signed a petition stating their desire to return to work under prestrike conditions, the company said.

2. At Canton, Ohio, both C. I. O. and A. F. of L. leaders deliberated on calling a general strike in retaliation for Gov. Martin L. Davey's use of troops for what they described as "strike-breaking" purposes.

3. At Warren, Ohio, Gus Hall, S. W. O. C. paid organizer, surrendered to police and was bound over to the grand jury on charges he was the "brains" of a dynamite terror conspiracy aimed at Republic Steel. Hall called the charge a frame-up.

4. At Cleveland, Ohio, Republic Steel officials said they would "probably" attempt to open four strike-shut plants, normally employing 8,000 men, some time next week.

Throughout the Mahoning Valley, steel companies reported operations at near capacity with work rosters within 1,000 men of the 32,000 normal.

W. B. Gillies, vice president of Sheet & Tube, announced tonight the firm's East Chicago plant would not reopen tomorrow.

He said he could set no definite date for resumption of production.

Gillies said he met with Thomas Hutson, chairman of the Indiana Labor Commission, and J. E. Daily, Sheet & Tube district manager, at Chicago, for an "informal discussion" to learn Gov. Townsend's views on the strike situation at Indiana Harbor.

Hungary Offers Loan-Service Terms

New York, July 1 (AP).—Speyer & Co., American fiscal agents for the State loan of the Kingdom of Hungary, 1924, have received from the League Loans Committee, London, a communique stating the Hungarian government has offered a permanent settlement of the future service of this loan to provide for the payment of interest on the dollar bonds at the rate of 4½ per cent a year in dollars instead of the original rate of 7½ per cent.

Beached Submarine, Free, Off for Home

Boston, July 1 (AP).—Her shakedown cruise interrupted when she went aground on Cape Canso, N. S., in a dense fog, the United States submarine Permit tonight proceeded under her own power toward Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard for a drydock inspection.

The navy yard here reported slight damage to the submarine. The Permit was able to pull herself off from where she was grounded. One of the Navy's newest underseas craft, she will join the Pacific fleet.

Rajah Buys Necklace of Marie Antoinette

London, July 1 (AP).—An Indian prince paid $75,000 today for a diamond necklace which belonged to Marie Antoinette. The necklace, with 43 stones in a red morocco case bearing the coat-of-arms and initials of the French Queen, was purchased at auction by an agent for the Maharajah of Barbhanga.

It was sold by its joint owners, the Archduchess Blanca of Austria and Princess Beatrice of Bourbon, daughters of Don Carlos, late claimant of the Spanish throne.

Reporter Gives Eyewitness Account of Chicago Killings

Associated Press Photos.

The last witness called yesterday at the Civil Liberties Committee hearing of the Chicago police clash with strikers that resulted in ten deaths, was Ralph Beck (left) former college student who reported the happenings for a Chicago paper. Beck told how first shot came from police ranks and was immediately followed by a fusillade aimed at the column of marchers. At right, Senator Thomas as he looked from a photo of the Memorial Day riot in which it showed a policeman brandishing a club with sharpened end. Chicago police officials denied it was regular police equipment.

strikes that have taken place in General Motors and Chrysler plants despite contracts those companies signed with the union, and declared Lewis, Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, C. I. O. leaders, have advised the auto union heads not to permit such stoppages.

The United Mine Workers, Amalgamated Clothing Workers and others of the most powerful C. I. O. unions have long records of living up to their contracts, the Secretary said.

She expressed belief that incorporation of unions would not accomplish the ends sought by those proposing such a step.

The Secretary praised as "a very constructive act" the agreement reached by Gov. Townsend, of Indiana, by which the Inland Steel strike in his State was ended, pending a decision by the National Labor Relations Board and the courts, on the obligation, under collective bargaining, to sign a contract.

Reports Accurate On Lincoln Death; Brown Is Relieved

With a sigh of relief, Police Chief Ernest W. Brown yesterday said he is certain the copies of police reports relating to the death of President Lincoln now displayed in the Lincoln Museum are true copies.

Detective Sergt. Frank O. Bass was assigned to investigate the records after word was received here from George Bryan, of Pelham, N. Y., complaining the museum was displaying copies of police incidentals that were incorrect. The originals have disappeared.

Brass compared the handwriting of the policeman who made the original report with the copies in the museum. According to police, they are the same.

Sheriff Halts Strike On Government Project

Rockville, Ind., July 1 (AP).—Construction of a new postoffice building was resumed today after an hour-long strike of 50 WPA workers during which five carloads of labor organizers were escorted to the town limits by Sheriff Lawrence Smith. The men had come here from Terre Haute to present demands for higher wages.

Wife, 14, Awarded $17.50 Per Month To Support Child

Wartburg, Tenn., July 1 (AP).—Alma Ruffner Honeycutt, 14-year-old child-wife, was awarded a six-month legal separation from her 23-year-old husband, Harold, today after telling Chancellor A. H. Wallace: "I really don't want a divorce."

Chancellor Wallace ruled Honeycutt must pay his wife $17.50 a month for support of their child. The six-month decree gives Alma that much time to decide whether she wants an absolute divorce. Alma, who was married at the age of 12, won her decree on a cross-bill filed in answer to her husband's divorce petition. Honeycutt's petition, which had charged Alma with "cruel and inhuman treatment," was dismissed when he failed to appear in court.

Ireland Approves New Constitution

Dublin, July 1 (AP).—Ireland voted today for a new name, a new parliament and a new constitution—and did it quietly. First results were not expected until late tomorrow or the final result until Saturday.

The new name was "Eire" (pronounced airy); the new parliament was redistributed to have 138 members instead of 159, and the new constitution was designed to wipe out the last ties with Great Britain.

Supporters of President Eamon de Valera, seeking re-election, predicted they would "hold their own." Backers of William T. Cosgrave, presidential aspirant fighting for his ploitical life, said the De Valera party would not increase its parliamentary majority and might even receive a severe set-back.

C. I. O. Unit Executive Will Wed Lewis' Aide

Pittsburgh, July 1 (AP).—David J. McDonald, young secretary-treasurer of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, took his attention from the seven-State steel strike today long enough to announce his engagement to one of John L. Lewis' undersecretaries.

McDonald said he met Miss Emmy Lou Price, of Cleveland, at Lewis' Washington headquarters and added, "It was love right off the bat."

the police, followed almost simultaneously, he testified.

"I saw a few policemen in the front ranks firing into the crowd," said the youthful witness. "Later they put their revolvers away and started using their clubs. I saw none of the marchers fighting back. They weren't trying to injure the police; they were trying to get away, for their own safety."

"Did you hear anyone exhorting the strikers to storm the plant?" asked Chairman Robert M. La Follette, jr.

"No, not at all," said Beck.

"Did you hear any threats made, or see any hostility on the part of the strikers?" asked La Follette.

"No," said Beck.

Beck said about 40 of the officers had hatchet handles, in addition to their revolvers and regulation clubs. He said the hatchet handles "were the same kind the employes in the plant were armed with."

He said he counted "about 35 or 40" wooden clubs and pipes in the hands of the marchers, before they advanced toward the plant.

LaFollette asked where the police "ate" during their guard duty at the plant.

"For how long a period?" asked LaFollette.

"For a week or ten days," said Beck.

Officers previously had testified that orders were issued for police not to buy or accept food from the plant.

In a brief filed in District court earlier yesterday, Postmaster General Farley had charged the Republic Steel Corporation "with the object of provoking civil disorder and strife that would necessitate the use of armed Federal forces to restore order."

Older Children Killed 3 Girls, Police Suggest

Another Sailor Arrested; Murders Believed Work of More Than One.

By the Associated Press.

Inglewood, Calif., July 1.—The possibility that more than one person attacked and garroted three little Inglewood girls whose bodies were found in a ravine Monday was advanced by investigators today as they strove to justify several baffling aspects of the crime.

One official expressed a theory older children might have been the killers.

These developments came as Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz announced all suspects arrested up to this morning were free of suspicion. Those cleared included an ex-convict and the son of a prominent Los Angeles family, both once regarded as "hot" suspects.

Similar to "Eddie."

He was described as similar in appearance to "Eddie the Sailor," who several witnesses have said lured the victims, Madeline Everett, 7; her sister, Melba, 9, and Jeanette Stephens, 8, from a park Saturday to go on a rabbit hunt.

Capt. Clem Peoples, of the sheriff's office, said:

"The possibility must not be overlooked that more than one person was involved in this case. It might even have been the work of older children.

"There was the Loeb-Leopold case in Illinois, and when some psychiatrists say that it is unusual for two or more degenerates to work together, we must admit that unusual crimes happen out here."

Letters to Nancy Carroll.

Other investigators pointed out that County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner reported there was no evidence the little girls had been tied or rendered insensible by blows. Yet their bodies were found lying within a space of only about 100 feet.

One of the most puzzling features of the entire investigation has been the question of how one person could have attacked and slain all three girls so near the same spot without any of them fleeing.

Investigators absolved Luther Dow of connection with the crime, but Capt. Bert Wallis, of the police homicide squad, said the man would be questioned concerning a series of indecent letters received by Film Actress Nancy Carroll.

Capt. Wallis said the letters were signed "Luther Dow."

Hotel to Appeal Reinstatement Of 2 by NLRB

Willard Manager Declares Both Dismissed for 'Incompetency.'

The National Labor Relations Board's order to the Willard Hotel to reinstate two dismissed employes will be contested "in the highest courts in the country," Harry P. Somerville, hotel manager, said last night.

Earlier in the day the board ordered Garland P. Webb and Mabel Norman reinstated by the hotel. Webb was dismissed January 1, and Miss Norman February 28. The hotel stated that both of them had been "incompetent."

Yesterday's ruling by the board declared that the two had been dismissed for union activities. Miss Norman's dismissal led to the brief sit-down strike, staged by employes of the hotel, when dining room and cocktail room waiters remained idle at their posts for 12 hours.

The ruling ordered that in addition to reinstating Webb and Miss Norman, the hotel should pay them wages during the period of discharge, plus the tips they would have received. The hotel was further ordered to "cease and desist" from discouraging union membership and activities, from "discriminating against employes" who testified at the board's hearings, and from "interfering with, restraining or coercing its employes in the exercise of right of self-organization."

The board's order allows the hotel ten days in which to reinstate the two workers, both of whom had been employed at the hotel for eight years.

3 Arrested on Charge Of Stock Fraud Scheme

New York, July 1 (AP).—A Hollywood (Calif.) cabaret owner and three Brooklyn men were arrested today on charges of using the mails to defraud investors of more than $500,000 in fraudulent stock schemes.

Ernie Parker, 37, of Hollywood, and Harry Klein, 38; Rudolph Klein, 36, and Milton Klein, 40, brothers, were those arrested.

Vigilante Groups 'Fascism in Bud,' Says Glenn Frank

By the Associated Press.

Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, assailed the formation of national policy by "pressure groups" yesterday at a National Press Club luncheon.

"When I say this, I am not directing a thrust at any particular administration, past, or present," Dr. Frank said. "I am saying only that the attempt to formulate national policy by successive surrenders to this, that, and the other pressure group demand is a trend that has been growingly manifest in American political life for the last quarter century.

"But a nation can neither achieve nor maintain genuine greatness on the basis of mass blackmail of government by pressure groups or mass bribery of pressure groups by government."

Dr. Frank expressed alarm at the formation of vigilante groups as a result of the steel strike.

The Vacation Bible Schools throughout Arlington County closed yesterday with a record enrollment of 727 pupils. They have been conducted for the past weeks at eight of the county churches under the auspices of the Arlington County Council of Religious Education.

Coal, 48-Hour Acts Suspended in Md.

Annapolis, Md., July 1 (AP).—William S. Gordy, jr., State comptroller, today notified clerks of court that because of referendum petitions, the 48-hour marriage law and the legislative act to regulate sale of coal in Maryland had been suspended until the 1938 election.

Opponents of the two measures have filed more than the 10,000 names of voters required to force the laws on the ballots in the November, 1938, election.

The marriage law requires a wait of 48 hours between the issuing of a license and the ceremony. The coal bill requires licensing of coal dealers.

Mower Injures Bashaw.

Staunton, Va., July 1.—Muscles in a leg of William L. Bashaw, chairman of the Augusta County Board of Supervisors, were injured yesterday in a hay mower accident.

Wins Her Divorce

A Los Angeles court yesterday awarded a divorce to Lita Grey Chaplin Aquirre, former wife of Charles Chaplin, who sought a divorce two months ago from Henry Aquirre, jr., actor. Superior Judge Charles Burnell reversed his refusal to her plea at that time when he told her she had not given her marriage a fair trial.

Rules Imposed On Fireworks For Alexandria

Violators to Be Arrested Police Head Warns; Limits Listed.

Police Capt. John S. Arnold yesterday stated the fireworks ordinance will be strictly enforced this year, and in every case where violations are detected arrests will be made.

The ordinance provides that fireworks may be sold in Alexandria on July 3, 4 and 5 only and may be exploded on Monday, July 5, only. Sky rockets, roman candles, torpedoes, dynamite caps or fire crackers exceeding 2 inches in length shall be unlawful at any time. Also the sale shall be unlawful on and after July 6.

The ordinance further provides that in no instance shal any fireworks be used or exploded on King street, between Union Station and Russell road; on Washington street, between Jefferson and First streets; on Duke, between St. Asaph and Alfred, and on Columbus, between Prince and Wolfe streets. Any violation of the provisions of this ordinance is made subject to a fine of not less than $2 nor more than $100.

60 Years a Rail Man.

William R. Cline, 75 years old, of 117 North Alfred street, retired on Wednesday from work as a locomotive engineer with the Southern Railway Co. after 35 years of service. Mr. Cline will leave before autumn to make his home with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Cline, in Deland, Fla.

While Mr. Cline had been a locomotive engineer for 35 years, he had been in railroad work for 60 years, starting with the old Maryland & Cincinnati, working out of Chillicothe, Ohio.

Baby Shows Staged.

The various playgrounds of the city Wednesday staged special programs, a baby show at Washington school grounds, when honors were carried off by Ruth Reeves, 2 years old, and Frank Gallahan, 7 months old. Guam Delegate Admits Defeat On Citizenship

But People Won't Give Up Their Aspiration, Bordallo Declares.

With slight assurance that Congress will act on the plea of his native island for citizenship rights during this session, Baltasar J. Bordallo, chairman of the first "official" Guam delegation to the United States, will leave Washington this week.

"But the people of Guam will never relinquish their aspirations for American citizenship," he declared last night.

Francisco B. Leon Guerrero, vice chairman of the delegation, will remain in the city until Congress adjourns—just in case some action should be forthcoming.

"We have made every effort to have our bill passed, but the Senate committee has only reached the hearings stage. This is not due to opposition, but just to the general inactivity about such things."

The delegation arrived in Washington in January after almost a month of travel. Thanks to the advance in air travel facilities since that time, Bordallo will reach home in seven and one-half days.

People Pay Expenses.

Expenses of Bordallo and Guerrero on this trip were collected by public subscription in Guam, with every school child on the island contributing. No other American possession as "old and loyal" as Guam is without citizenship, Bordallo declared.

He made a special point of the citizenship rights of the Virgin Islands, which have approximately the same population as Guam and were acquired by the United States in 1917. Guam has been under American control for 38 years.

"America paid $25,000,000 for the Virgin Islands and spent another $1,000,000 to keep them from starvation, but Uncle Sam did not pay a cent to possess Guam in 1898 and has never appropriated moneys to clothe or feed our people, or helped them financially to promote or advance their economic life and welfare.

Loyal to America.

"We have learned to love America and are loyal and patriotic, but we are neither aliens nor citizens.

"If you can call a military government good, we have a good government; but we do not have the constitutional protection given all American citizens. Every citizen is entitled to receive a trial by jury. Are the 21,000 inhabitants of Guam not entitled to this protection?"

Bordallo said the possibility of the delegation returning next year would depend entirely upon the people of Guam, since only by popular subscription could the expenses of the journey be defrayed.

While somewhat disappointed at having no "victory" news to take home, Bordallo was not disheartened. "I have learned how Congress operates," he said, "and come to understand that it is very rare for such a bill to get through in one term."

Operation Saves Man Choking on Sausage

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., July 1.—H. H. Blackwell, of Spotsylvania, who underwent an operation yesterday to save his life, was well enough to leave the hospital today. A piece of sausage lodged in Blackwell's larynx during a heal at his home 3 miles from here. He was lying on the lawn of his home scarcely breathing when physicians reached his side.

Before doctors could make an incision and insert a tube in the larynx Blackwell ceased to breathe altogether. But after the incision was made the physician quickly restored breathing by artificial respiration.

Officials Attend Luncheon Held In Montgomery

A. A. A. Sponsors Affair to Speed Widening of Brookeville Road.

State and county officials attended a luncheon given yesterday by the American Automobile Association to speed widening of Brookeville road. The luncheon was held at Brooke Farm Tea House, with Washington Irving Cleveland, president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation and manager of the Washington Club of the association, presiding.

Cleveland told the gathering the widening and straightening of Brookeville road from Woodbine street to the East-West highway and construction of a sidewalk the entire length of the road was necessary for public safety.

Chief Engineer Irving C. Root, of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, showed plans for the proposed improvement and said a traffic count June 27 showed 1,183 motor vehicles using the road from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. and 1,253 in the same hours June 29. He said the necessary land is 99.9 per cent ready for dedication, with two small triangles the only pieces to be obtained.

Lieut. Comdr. O. S. Goff, president of the Rollingwood Citizens Association; Mrs. W. Kempton Crosby, president of the Chevy Chase Elementary Parent-Teacher Association; A. B. Dickinson, president of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Senior High P.-T. A., and Edward L. Hillyer, president of the Chevy Chase Land Co., urged the improvement.

Voters Club Formed.

A group of young voters organized the Montgomery County Jackson-for-Governor Club yesterday at a luncheon held at the William Penn House on Rockville Pike.

Jesse Frank Nicholson was elected president. Other officers are C. Allen Sherwin, vice president; Miss Margaret Dronenburg, secretary, and Earl H. Griffith, jr., treasurer.

Fight on Overhead Bridge.

Possibility of a court fight to enforce maintenance of the wooden bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks near the Rockville grade crossing where 14 Williamsport school children were killed, loomed yesterday.

State Senator Stedman Prescott and F. Barnard Welsh, counsel to the county commissioners, are expected to file such a suit within a few days. Dr. George Edmonds, town postmaster and chairman of the committee in charge of pushing the fight, said many townsfolk would have to travel a mile farther in order to cross the new overhead bridge. He said no court action would be taken to force keeping open of the grade crossing.

Holmead Heads Lions Club.

Edward C. Holmead has been elected president of the Silver Spring Lions Club to succeed John C. Livingston. Other officers are Merritt Douglas, first vice president; James Gill, second vice president; Capt. William Bullis, third vice president; Truman Dodson, secretary; Wilson Stewart, treasurer; Dr. Kermit Smith, lion tamer, and Donnell Masson, tail twister. Howard Waters, Laurence P. Johnston and Ray C. Williams were named to the board of directors.

Installation of officers will be held July 13 at the Indian Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Walter P. Harman, newly installed president of the Takoma Park Woman's Club, has appointed the following chairmen of standing committees:

Mrs. Edward L. Griffin, membership; Mrs. Eugene J. Hurdle, publicity; Mrs. Paul Burk, budget; Mrs. George E. Davis, ways and means; Mrs. Frederick L. Pratt, program; Mrs. Jesse L. Ramadell, hospitality; Mrs. Alfred D. Stedam, bulletin and printing; Mrs. Frederick C. Lincoln, parliamentarian; Mrs. John B. Mertie, legislation; Mrs. F. O. Johnston, housing; Mrs. Edmond L. Graham, year book, and Federation Directors Mrs. L. V. Lampson, Mrs. Fred G. Umhau and Mrs. G. Franklin Wisner.

Oppose Saratoga Ave. Stores.

Fearing a group of stores will be built along Saratoga avenue near the entrance of Sligo Park Hills, Md., the citizens association will oppose any rezoning of the tract at a hearing before the county commissioners July 12.

A large delegation of the organization will appear before the Park and Planning Commission as well as the county commissioners. Several residents living on Sligo avenue already have signed a petition for the erection of an apartment and stores.

The following members were nominated for delegates to the Montgomery County Civic Federation, three of which will be delegates and three alternates: Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Brewster, E. Paul Steigner, Stewart Lashley, Roy Green and Charles Huff.

2 Merchants Arrested.

Hagerstown, July 1.—An investigation by local police as to the source of a premature Fourth of July celebration here yesterday resulted in the arrests of two merchants, Samuel Shackelford and Bayne Six, charged with selling firecrackers before July 1.

24 Dairy Herds Tested in May in Fairfax County

The monthly report of Fairfax County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, No. 1, shows that during May there were 24 herds with 787 cows on test, 95 of them being dry.

The three high herds in the production of butterfat were Mason F. Smith, sr., 50.05; R. T. Harrison, 44.80 pounds; Rogers & Rogers, 42.00 pounds.

The three high herds in the production of milk were Rogers & Rogers, 1,124 pounds; Mason F. Smith, sr., 1,114 pounds; R. T. Harrison, 1,099 pounds.

The three highest cows ranked as follows: R. T. Harrison, Holstein-Guernsey, 2,480 pounds of milk, 106.6 pounds of butterfat; Rogers & Rogers, registered Holstein, 2,505 pounds of milk and 92.7 pounds of butterfat; Rogers & Rogers, registered Holstein, 2,238 pounds of milk and 82.8 pounds of butterfat.

The honor cows producing 60 or more pounds of butterfat during the month were owned by Mason F. Smith, sr., with 10; R. T. Harrison, 7; Rogers & Rogers and Middleton Brothers, 5 each; Hollywood Farm and Mrs. J. D. Thompson, 4 each; F. E. Peck, Marvin Perkins and Dr. F. W. Huddleson, 3 each; H. O. Peck, Crippen & Riley, W. M. Lohman and J. B. Armfield, 2 each; Mrs. Minnie Ellmore, Floyd Kidwell, Harrison Brothers, W. D. McNair, A. J. Cox and Kenilworth Farm, 1 each.

An apple-thinning demonstration will be held today at 2 p. m. at Chilcott Brothers orchard on the Chain Bridge road, between Vienna and Oakton, the demonstration to be conducted by county agent H. B. Derr.

Supervisors John T. Blincoe, of Lee District, and Miss Edith Rogers will meet today in the clerk's office at Fairfax to audit and pass upon claims against the county dog tax fund for live stock and poultry killed by stray dogs during the past year.

BORN IN AMERICA ON THE DAY AMERICA WAS BORN... July 4th

THE happiest fate that can befall a man is to be born an American and to be equal to an American's opportunities. And, if there is one day better than any other day to be born on, it would seem to be the Fourth of July.

Hiram Walker was born in Douglas, Massachusetts, forty years to the day after the Declaration of Independence was signed, born without the handicap of any special advantages.

We pay this tribute to his memory, not so much because he was a world-famous figure at 83, but because he was a failure at 41. For, like a true American, he never accepted defeat.

His first business venture was a tannery that was wiped out by fire, and his second was a grocery business that was wrecked in the panic of the '50's. But he remained true to the American tradition that failures are the most useful ingredients of success.

In 1857, operating with the faith and vision that survives limited resources, he laid the foundation of a distillery destined to become the largest independent business of its kind in the world.

A Life-long American

Hiram Walker, born an American, lived and died an American citizen. He couldn't forget he was born on the 4th of July... and when three years ago we completed the greatest monument to his memory, the opening ceremonies and the "old man's" birthday naturally came together.

For, the great nine million dollar Hiram Walker Distillery, at Peoria, Illinois, the largest plant of its kind in the world, was dedicated to the memory of the founder on the 118th anniversary of the founder... July 4th, 1934.

Now, it is true, as Emerson says, that a great institution is the lengthened shadow of one man. But it is also the composite shadow of many men, who carry on and perpetuate the heritage of one man's foresight and enterprise and thereby prove how well and true the founder built.

Today three great Hiram Walker organizations—one operating the largest distillery in the world at Peoria; one conducting the original plant at Walkerville, Ontario; and a third running two distilleries in Scotland and building another—all testify to the devotion and loyalty of succeeding generations to the faith and the principles of the founder.

HIRAM WALKER'S DISTILLERY at Peoria, Illinois, dedicated on July 4th, 1934, was built at a cost of over $9,000,000 and is the world's largest distillery.

Husband-Wife Trusts Created To Avoid Taxes

Treasury Lost $1,800,000 Through Joint Plan, Inquirers Told.

up among them, were set at more than $1,800,000.

Bruton told of the case of Louis Blaustein, Baltimore, an oil dealer for many years, pioneer in high-test gasoline development, organizer of the American Oil Co., of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co., and of Lord Baltimore Filling Stations.

Bruton was discussing the type of trust organized to reduce taxes on capital gains. A taxpayer, he said, who owns securities whose value has boomed, and who wishes to sell them to reinvest the proceeds in other ways, "can very conveniently transfer them in trust, have the trustee make the sale and hold the proceeds in trust. . . . In an irrevocable trust, the capital gain will be taxable to the trustee, rather than to him. . . . Add to this picture the possibility of splitting the gain among several trusts and the stage is set for unlimited tax saving."

Saved $400,000.

Bruton described the financing whereby Blaustein finally "compelled" Standard Oil Co. to buy him out in 1934 at a profit of $3,700,000. On October 30 of that year Blaustein set up 64 trusts, 19 for his wife, 14 for his son, Jacob, 17 for his daughter, Ruth, and 14 for his daughter, Frances, Bruton stated. Through these trusts Blaustein saved himself at least $400,000 in taxes, with $64,000 going absolutely tax free, and at the most, haved himself $570,000 in taxes over the actual tax paid of $109,114, Bruton said.

Denies Evasion Intent.

Baltimore, July 1 (AP).—Louis Blaustein, whose name was mentioned today before a Congressional tax investigating committee, denied tonight he had created trusts with any "intent of avoiding my moral or legal obligations to the Government."

In a formal statement, Blaustein said:

"I created the trusts with trustees in New York and Baltimore in the uncertain days of 1934, for the purpose of giving my large family some protection against the future, and without any intention of avoiding either my moral or legal obligations to the Government. I paid $556,000 thereon in gift taxes alone. I have no interest in the incomes, the trusts still continue and I have no power of revocation.

"And up to date, by my creation of these trusts, the Government has received more revenue than if they had not been created. It is true, as Representative Fred M. Vinson, a member of the Congressional tax committee, is reported to have said to a Government witness at the hearing today at which the allegation was made: 'It seems to me, as if he paid more than if he hadn't used the trust device.'"

Mgr. T. H. Waters Dies in Norfolk

Man Who Robbed Grocery Hunted

Squads of detectives last night continued to search for an armed colored bandit who early yesterday took $35 from a store in the 2100 block Florida avenue northwest and then fired three shots at his pursuers.

When the robber left the store he was followed by Frank Brownwell, 418 B street northeast, Levinson's butcher. The chase led to Connecticut avenue, two blocks away, where the colored man hailed a taxicab.

The robber changed cars at Dupont circle, abandoned the second car, fired three shots at Brownwell, and disappeared.

Raft's Mother Dies.

New York, July 1 (AP).—Mrs. Eva Raft, 66, mother of George Raft, motion picture actor, died of asthma last night at her home here. She was born in Germany and was the mother of 11 children.

Steel's Belated Truce.

The strangest aspect of the strike settlement at East Chicago is the fact that five weeks of conflict were required to bring about agreement upon such simple terms. In the interim both the Inland Steel Co. and its employes have lost large sums of money. Bitter feelings have been aroused on both sides. And neither party seems to have won any advantage.

Actually, the settlement negotiated by Gov. Townsend does not represent a solution of the problem which brought about the strike. There is no direct agreement between the company and the C. I. O. They have come to a mutual understanding, however, through separate agreements with Gov. Townsend. Apparently there is to be no signed contract, as the C. I. O. originally demanded. On the other hand, the company has recognized the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, an affiliate of the C. I. O., as the collective bargaining agent for its own members.

The devious nature of this settlement puts it in the class of a temporary truce rather than a final agreement. Its chief significance lies in the fact that it has brought the strike to a close so far as Inland Steel employes are concerned. But a final settlement of the issues out of which the recent conflict arose remains to be achieved. To date, all that has been accomplished is a common sense arrangement to let production go forward while further adjustments are sought. That sort of an agreement should have been made before the strike was called or, at latest, a short time thereafter.

With most of the steel factories now operating under the protection of police or National Guardsmen, there should certainly be no difficulty in negotiating similar preliminary agreements with other companies against which the strike has been directed. Unless the employers are determined to break the strike at any cost, agreements will sooner or later have to be reached. And each day of delay in establishing a new understanding will mean further losses to both sides.

When men have returned to work the problem of establishing genuine collective bargaining can be approached in a more amicable spirit. The logical sequence to a temporary understanding, such as that reached by the Inland Steel Co. and the C. I. O., would be an election supervised by the National Labor Relations Board to determine what group is entitled to represent the employes in negotiations with the management. A basis would then be laid for peaceful adjustment of all differences.

A Good Beginning.

Under the energetic leadership of Joseph P. Kennedy, the Maritime Commission has accomplished an amazing amount of work during the past three months. The merchant marine act called for abrogation of all ocean-mail contracts by June 30 and substitution of operating subsidies. For a negligible sum the commission has settled shipping companies' claims against the Government totaling $73,000,000. It has also made new agreements with over 20 companies that will receive operating subsidies in place of payments under the former mail contracts. Savings to the Government for the six months that the contracts run will amount to $3,000,000 in the case of 16 companies.

Wisely the commission has limited the period of the new operating subsidies because of its lack of experience. After trying out the provisional agreements it can proceed with more assurance to negotiate long-term contracts.

In addition to the extremely difficult work of computing differences in operating costs on American ships and foreign vessels for adjustment of the operating subsidies, the commission is making plans to subsidize a shipbuilding program as required of operators under the temporary contracts. Another exceptionally important and difficult task confronting it is that of determining minimum wage scales and prescribing working conditions that must be met by companies qualifying for subsidies.

The good start that has been made not only indicates determination on the part of the commission to achieve results, but it also shows a spirit of cooperation on the part of the companies that is most encouraging. Confidence in the fairness as well as the firmness of Government agencies dealing with private industries is the best guarantee of successful performance. The Maritime Commission seems to have won that confidence; otherwise it could not have made so much progress in so short a time.

Flare-Up On The Amur.

The Amur incident marks a new, but not necessarily a fatal, stage in Russo-Japanese relations. After a period of relative quiescence, produced in no small measure by the increasingly strong defensive position of the U. S. S. R. in the Far East, the two nations are again at sword's point. But it is difficult to believe that the armed truce which has prevailed along the Soviet-Manchukuo frontier during the last few years will now be broken.

A Japanese war of conquest against Soviet Russia, with severance of Eastern Siberia and the Maritime Province as its goal, might have succeeded some years ago. But regardless of what the internal situation in the Soviet Union may be at the present moment, it is most unlikely that such a war of aggression could successfully be waged now.

During recent years Russia has very diligently built up its defenses in the region between Lake Baikal and the Pacific. Moreover, Japan has neither the financial nor the economic resources for a prolonged campaign. Nor must it be forgotten that in Japan's rear there is a resurgent, increasingly powerful and nationalistic China. The Nanking government might take advantage of Japan's preoccupation with the Soviet by inaugurating a rear-guard action designed to recapture territory seized by the island empire below and above the Great Wall. These circumstances are not likely to be ignored either by the statesmen at Tokyo or by the Japanese general staff.

It may be, however, that short of provoking the Soviet Union into war, the Japanese militarists regard the present as a very favorable moment to find out just how far they can go with Russia. The succession of purges in Russia, many of them in the Soviet Far East, in particular the shake-up in the Red Army, may have convinced them that Russia is weaker than they had previously imagined. In that case they may be calculating that, as was the case some years ago, Moscow is so anxious for peace that it will submit to any indignities short of large-scale invasion.

It will be recalled that when, after September, 1931, the Japanese army began to spread its tentacles over that part of Manchuria outside the Japanese leasehold of Kwantung and the railroad zone, Russia's attitude was one of forced acquiescence. That same attitude was maintained even when the Russian sphere of influence in North Manchuria was penetrated. Ultimately, in fact, the Soviet Union abandoned what was left of its stake in Manchuria by selling the no longer valuable Chinese Eastern Railway to Manchukuo, i. e., to Japan.

But evacuation of Manchuria is one thing; the relinquishment of Eastern Siberia, the Maritime Province and Soviet-dominated Outer Mongolia is quite another. Soviet leaders have made it clear that any attempt by the Japanese to invade the territory of the U. S. S. R. or of Outer Mongolia, with whom Moscow has an alliance, will meet with forcible resistance. There is no reason to believe that they were bluffing. And this fact is no doubt clearly understood in Tokyo and in the headquarters of the Kwantung army.

But with Moscow perplexed by internal difficulties, and with the European powers preoccupied by problems of their own, the Japanese militarists may feel that their diminishing prestige might be restored at Soviet Russia's expense, without the need of any recourse to war. Probably, neither side has any desire for war. Yet such a policy of pin-pricking is not without its ultimate if not its immediate dangers.

Chicago's Brutal Police.

The police officers involved in the Memorial Day tragedy outside the Republic Steel plant in South Chicago have made a poor showing before the Senate Civil Liberties Committee. They have said nothing to contradict the general impression, drawn from sworn statements and photographs, that their men went berserk in turning back a platoon of strikers, killing ten and wounding many others in the maneuver.

Witnesses before the committee have not yet been confronted by the suppressed newsreel film of the clash which is in possession of the Senate's investigators. Before coming to Washington, however, police officers suggested that published descriptions of the film dealt with only the fringe of the encounter. They claim that the police shown in its scenes, who appeared to have fired without provocation on an unarmed crowd of men and women, were merely following the lead of other officers who had been attacked by the strikers and were engaged in a desperate fight.

Two compositions, published in the current Nation, the work of eighth-grade and patently uninfluenced Chicago school children who were in the column of strikers, support the officers' contention that they were first attacked by a shower of stones and brickbats. But no amount of provocation condones the unabashed brutality of the police.

The Memorial Day incident will remain an indelible smirch on Chicago's name. Responsibility for it does not fall entirely upon the police. For as a rule a policeman is only as responsible as the officials who pin a badge on him. Chicago's municipal government has long been a haven of corruption. The incompetence of the police, which they attempt to camouflage by a policy of ruthlessness, is undoubtedly a reflection of the machine politics of which that city is a victim.

It is not by mere chance, therefore, that the strike took its greatest toll of life in Chicago while the most serious disturbances occurred in other cities. There is always danger of bloodshed when the police are called upon to maintain law and order in an atmosphere loaded with prejudice and hysteria. Sometimes the police are compelled to use their weapons to prevent riots and widespread disorder. But if this responsibility is entrusted to hard-boiled and vengeful individuals chosen for their political connections, law enforcement in a delicate situation may readily descend to inexcusable slaughter.

Other cities may well draw a lesson from Chicago's experience. Its moral will not be surrender to lawless elements, but elimination of corruption which confuses law enforcement with reckless brutality.

The Farm Tenant Bill

The Jones farm tenant bill passed the House this week after an exhaustive two-day debate. It is admittedly a very modest initial attempt to deal with a problem of great magnitude. An appropriation of not over $10,000,000 is authorized to finance purchases of farms by tenants during the current fiscal year. During the two succeeding years authorizations would total $25,000,000 and $40,000,000, respectively.

The bill also provides for continuance of rehabilitation loans to enable poor farmers to buy livestock and needed supplies as well as refinance indebtedness. Another section relates to the retirement of submarginal land as part of the New Deal conservation program. For that purpose the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to spend up to $50,000,000 over a three-year period.

In 1935 there were over 2,800,000 tenant farmers and share croppers in the United States, constituting about 42 per cent of all farmers. It is estimated that about 40,000 persons are being added to the tenant group yearly. Many billions of dollars would be required, therefore, to eliminate farm tenancy. Indeed, it would cost a substantial sum even to counteract the rise in the farm tenant population. But any feasible program must obviously be limited in scope to avoid imposing an intolerable financial burden upon the country. At present, with the budget still unbalanced, it might be better to defer any action until we can afford to make a more effective start.

It is doubtful whether the few millions that may be spent under the House bill to finance land purchases by tenants would be sufficient to test the value of this experimental measure. Certainly the administrative costs of launching the program would be disproportionately heavy. Furthermore, employes of the proposed Farm Security Administration are carefully exempted from Civil Service rules and regulations. With an indefinite number of new Government jobs thus put within the reach of spoilsmen, tenant farmers might lose most of the meager aid promised them under the bill.

In addition to doubts as to the adequacy and timeliness of the House proposals various other objections to the bill have been raised by Congressmen who are sympathetic with its aim and genuinely eager to combat the unhealthy rise in farm tenancy. Critics maintain that there are insufficient safeguards against speculative sale of land acquired by tenants. The measure would also leave too much freedom to the former tenant in managing his new farm. It was pointed out in course of the debate that the problem of turning a tenant into a successful owner-operator is not solved by lending him 100 per cent of the purchase price of his farm. It is only an elementary precaution to supervise his activities to some extent and possibly put him on probation for a number of years.

How to exercise a reasonable amount of control without subjecting the new farm owner to a wholly undesirable type of bureaucratic domination is a major problem which calls for more careful thought than Congress is prepared to give the subject at this time. The bill before the Senate provides greater safeguards against misuse or abuse of land taken over by tenants. But it gives rise to fears that the Government, in endeavoring to prevent unsound practices, may establish itself as a dictator over the group rescued from landlord control.

The division of opinion in Congress concerning the best method of approach to the tenancy problem, and the gravity of the issues raised by the various proposals would counsel delay, even if the country were in a position to finance a constructive tenant-aid program.

A few days ago a Californian sold his wife for $20. And yet there are those who insist that inflation isn't already upon us.

Stephen Collins Foster Memorial.

From the Providence Journal.

We cannot picture to ourselves America's favorite song writer, Stephen Collins Foster, in any mood of self-congratulation, repeating, with reference to lines of his own, Shakespeare's proud boast:

"Not marble, nor the gilded monuments
Of princes, shall outlive this powerful rhyme."

But now the "whirligig of time" has brought about just such a challenge to Foster's own work, for the University of Pittsburgh—in his native town—has laid the cornerstone of a memorial building in honor of him, one far more splendid than most princely monuments, for his friends far and wide, led by a local musical organization, have subscribed $500,000 for an auditorium to bear his name, and this will enshrine Joseph K. Lilly's superb library of Fosteriana—first editions of his music, manuscripts and personal belongings. The splendid Gothic building, with the Foster memorabilia at its heart, will form the center of the musical life of the university.

Sowing And Reaping.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to ask, in reply to Catherine Critcher's recent letter about the criticism of the President in regard to court reorganization:

Who, in her opinion, started the mud slinging? I think that when a President so cheapens the dignity of his office as to refer to our Supreme Court "as nine old men" and to a few people who have saved a small share of their earnings from year to year so as not to be on relief as "economic royalists," he is only reaping his own harvest.

Perkins-Davey Exchange.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Gov. Davey-Secretary Perkins controversy as to whether the Madam Secretary tried to get the Ohio Governor to virtually "kidnap" Tom Girdler and other independent steel employers, because they would not sign and until they would sign what John L. Lewis dictated, has a very interesting sidelight in the Secretary's unsuccessful efforts to get Congress, at the time of the General Motors strike, to clothe her with just such "subpena kidnaping" autocratic authority.

That can, no doubt, also be explained by her as "merely" a "suggestion" to get Lewis and Sloan together in her office, until Sloan agreed to do what Lewis demanded; but I do not think so. And I do not think she has very much usefulness left as Secretary of Labor in view of Gov. Davey's statement again today giving verbatim what she said and which has the "ring" of "nothing but the truth."

H. R. 5779 carrying the 1938 appropriations for her department contained a severe reprimand, as did the House Appropriations Committee report accompanying the bill. It seems to me the House should do more than merely reprimand her for not "well and faithfully," executing the laws.

The Johnstown "Ad."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The full page statement of the Johnstown Citizens' Committee published in The Post contains pseudo-information at variance with news items appearing simultaneously in your paper and is hostile to the strikers.

However innocent and flawless this committee may be, the uncorroborated and highly prejudiced charges reflect on all unions throughout the country and the letter was obviously conceived with the intention of blackening the cause of the Johnstown strikers.

At the very moment when the Johnstown committee urged that the National Guard be excluded from Johnstown "because there was no disorder or any prospect of any" its mayor was frantically wiring the President for troops. Who are we to believe in this case?

The "ad" further urges public appeals to Gov. Earle and other legislators in behalf of the steel companies. Surely, on the basis of its colored accounts, this plea for public support is a deliberate attempt to mislead. S. BLICKMAN.

Wages and Hours Bill.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Delegations of manufacturers have been going down to Washington to protest against the Administration's labor-wages-and-work-hours bill, which, if enacted, would subject industry to Federal regulation and control; and practically turn over to a bureaucracy the management of the relations between employers and their employes.

That the bill is a wholly unjustifiable attack on the fundamental right to property ownership is manifest. That it is utterly pernicious and would work great injury to industry and trade has been shown beyond the possibility of successful contradiction. That it is socialistic in its origins, as based on the Marxian theory that what we call "government" should take over all private productive industries, is clear. There is, in short, not the slightest foundation in the natural laws governing the production and distribution of wealth, or in the experience of the past with similar legislation in various countries, to justify such a radical departure from the accepted principles that have prevailed in the United States for 150 years.

Yet, agreeing with the manufacturers in their opposition to the bill, I find myself asking: "Whose is the responsibility for the growth of the strong public sentiment that appears to be behind this outrageous measure?" And the answer is evident. It is the manufacturers, who have for more than 70 years preached the unsound doctrine of high protective tariffs, pretending to believe that it is a proper function of the Federal Government to legislate to raise wages, who are wholly responsible. In season and out of season they have worked and raised great campaign funds under the pretext that the tariffs they wanted to increase their profits were for the benefit of labor. And all this while they were, until our immigration-restriction laws interfered, bringing over shiploads of cheap foreign labor so that they could keep wages down.

The manufacturers, who are protesting against the wage-and-hour law, on the grounds that it is not the business of government to control or regulate wages, should remember that at times when there was before Congress a bill giving them greater tariff graft they always claimed that they wanted it for the benefit of labor. If it was right for Congress to tax all the people for the benefit of protected industries, ask the workers now: Why not go further and legislate to directly raise wages?

Internal Revenue Agents.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: They talk about investigating the underpaid auditors and agents who, having left the service, have to wait two years before they can appear before the Bureau of Internal Revenue on any case, and then they can only work on a case of which they have had no previous knowledge.

Why don't they investigate the higher officials who have consistently gone into the business of representing taxpayers the very day after leaving the Government service and who must have had contact with every important case while in office?

Views And Reviews Of The C. I. O.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The writer commends and indorses the progressive view of Messrs. Godfrey Monroe and M. C. Armstrong as outlined in their letters of last week, published in The Post. Apparently, Messrs. Shepherd and Ranson have been influenced by the huge flood of specious propaganda disguised as "news" and sent out by the economic royalists from the strike centers.

The C. I. O. became necessary to the welfare of the labor movement because of the inability or failure of the A. F. of L. to organize the workers in the new mass industries. Some say the A. F. of L. refused to extend its work, preferring to function as a "job trust" of those already in the unions. If this is true, it merely made of the A. F. of L. a monopolistic, capitalistic organization, not a bona fide, loyal organization of the working class.

As one who was brought up as a conservative G. O. P. adherent, I became quite conversant with the tactics of the ruling class in its attempts to mislead, deceive and confuse the workers of hand and brain, as well as the public in general. The repeated breakdown of the economic system at various times in our history was the logical and inevitable result of shortsighted and greedy policies of monopolization of industry for the benefit of the financially powerful few. Such ideas as these dominating the economic royalists always fail to work out in practice, both here and in Europe, in the final analysis of economic history.

Production for use of all the people instead of production for the profit of the few is the only solution for strikes, lockouts and competitive trade wars. Class society, instead of a classless society, results in the present chaotic condition of national and international relations. Exploitation by the few of the many brings poverty, misery, degradation and war, here and elsewhere. We should study more economic history and less political history. Economic history furnishes the solution for all problems, not baseball results, horse races or stock market gambling.

A. S. E. ELY.
Washington, June 29.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Godfrey Monroe, the man with a fine old early American name and a Russian complex, like the "angelic" C. I. O., which he so much adores, now calls us "union buster," "employers' propagandist" and at the same time modestly tells the world that he himself is a "liberty loving, progressive, union-sympathetic, average American" and that we must not believe what we read in the newspapers because John Lewis and the C. I. O. is not editing them—as yet! He waxes a bit intellectual with a bit of Lenin-Trotsky philosophy that all government workers owe their jobs to organized labor and signs off with the prediction that it won't be long before the C. I. O. will be the dictators of the Nation, or words to that effect!

There may be a lot of truth in what Mr. Monroe says about the C. I. O. eventually ruling the roost. If the type of public official that now occupies high public office continues, the "worker's paradise" is bound to come true the same as it did in Russia where no one owns his own soul. Never in the history of America have public officials bludgeoned respect for law and order as is now being done today by politicians intent on crucifying fundamental principles of Americanism that have been handed down generation after generation. In our Legislatures sit men, tight on their rumps, fearful that championship of property rights will lose them their $10,000 jobs. They just sit and sit while America burns! HARRY RANSON.
Washington, June 24.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Norman Remington alleges that the C. I. O. is communistic, hence un-American; Mr. J. C. Klein attacks our Administration as such as well.

The truth is, however, the C. I. O. is no more communistic than the A. F. of L. But since the C. I. O.'s methods of organizing include all workers, since it is more militant, more loyal to all workers, and because its leadership cannot be bought, some un-American employers have branded it "communistic," hoping to array us against it.

Nearly all benefactors of humanity, including the early Christians, have been branded with similar sarcasms by the privileged class from time immemorial. But, thank God, our people are beginning to see the light. They are rapidly ripping the masks off the faces of un-American employers; the people fear to be called "Communists" no longer.

GODFREY MONROE.
Washington, June 26.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What is racketeering and what is bullying if not what the C. I. O. is doing now? It reminds me of a whining big ruffian on a country school playground trying to convince the teacher that all the other boys ought to be licked for opposing him. Will a fair and intelligent teacher order the other boys to give in? I think not. DEMOCRAT.
Washington, June 29.

A Few Words On Democracy

From an address by Stanley Baldwin, British Prime Minister, now retired, before the House of Commons.

I WANTED to say a few words today on the subject of democracy and its relation to our industrial conditions. I think right understanding of it is of very vital importance. But I have nothing to tell the House and what I say I have said on innumerable occasions.

It has not always been reported, but very often it has been said at overflow meetings. I have never found an audience of workingmen indifferent to these matters. I have never had such audiences as those which have listened to such description as I was able to give them of my conception of a democratic state.

We all ought to bear in mind—and this has reference to all industrial disputes—that democracy, which we all in varying degrees believe in, is quite the most difficult form of government that has probably ever been devised, and I doubt whether it has ever been achieved in its fullness in any country in the world yet.

Autocracy is a very easy form of government, because we all have to do what we are told, and that means we are saved the trouble of thinking. Under democracy, every individual in some degree or another has to do his own thinking. On whether he thinks rightly or wrongly, the whole success or failure of that democracy will rest.

* * * *

When you come to the industrial side of it, this is how it strikes me. What is the alternative to collective bargaining? There is none except anarchy, and there are rare elements in the country that would like to see anarchy in the trade unions—in my view, the most dangerous thing for the country that could happen. Another alternative is force, but we may rule out force in this country and I would lay it down that as long as the industrial system remains as it is, collective bargaining is the right thing. I have no doubt about that.

And yet we all know in our hearts of hearts that it may be a clumsy method of settling disputes and that the last word has not been spoken. Some day, when we are all fit for democracy, we shall not need these aids, but certainly for my part and for as long as I can see ahead, unless there is that change in human nature which we are always hoping for, collective bargaining will be a necessity.

You will find in modern civilization that, just as war has changed from being a struggle between professional armies with civilians comparatively uninterested in it, so the weapons of industrial warfare have changed from weapons that affect comparatively small localized bodies of men into weapons that affect directly men who have no concern whatever with the issue except perhaps natural sympathy with their own class.

Doesn't that show, just as the dangers of the modern world internationally show, that the one thing we must pray for in this country, not only in our statesmen but in our leaders of the trade unions and in the masters, is wisdom? What a chance it is for a particular employer or for a particular man who may be chosen as the secretary of a big union! What a chance it is if, in addition to the gifts that make a successful business man and enable him to give valuable service to his union in discussions and fights which are inevitable, he has also wisdom and humanity that may lead him to successful peace, peace with honor at a time when smaller men might despair! I think no one in this house could gainsay that for a moment.

I am going to make my last appeal in this House, and it is to that little handful of men who can decide whether there is going to be peace or strife. There are very few of them and they will be meeting my honorable friend (the Minister of Mines) very shortly again.

There is no doubt that today the feeling in totalitarian countries is, or they would like it to be, one of contempt for democracy. Coupled with that is the idea that a democracy must be a kind of decadent country in which there is no order, where industrial troubles is the order of the day and where people can never keep to a fixed purpose. There is a great deal that is ridiculous in that, but it is a dangerous belief for any country to have of another.

There is in the world another feeling. I think you will find this in America, in France and throughout all our dominions, and there is sympathy with and admiration for this country in the way she came through the great storm and blizzard some years ago and the way in which she is progressing, as they believe, with so little industrial strife. They feel that it is a great thing which marks off our country from other countries today.

Except for those who love industrial strife for its own sake, and they are but few, that is indeed the greatest testimony to my mind that democracy is really functioning, when her children can see her come through these difficulties, some of which are very real, and settle them—a far harder thing than to fight.

I appeal to the handful of men with whom rests peace or war to give the best present to the country that could be given at the moment and to do the one thing which would rejoice the hearts of all people who love this country—that is, to rend and dissipate this dark cloud which is gathered over us and show the people of the world that this democracy can still at least practice the arts of peace in a world of strife.

McCarthy's Stories.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Anyone with a spark of wanderlust should appreciate Tom McCarthy's story of the road.

We should entitle his column "The Voice of the Highway." With the imagination of O. Henry he might lend his column the distinction achieved by the former in his "Voice of the City."

McCarthy's pilgrimage reminds me of a book called "The Worker," written by a college student named Wyckoff, and published in the "horse and buggy days." Wyckoff had an urge to realize, as nearly as possible, the experiences, feelings and ambitions of the "worker" in all lines of employment, but mostly at laborious toil. He scrupulously maintained his "incog" as ditchdigger, millhand and harvest worker. From the associations that he formed he was often placed to embarrassment when it became necessary for him to move on.

He performed a hard but meritorious task, and I have often wondered whether life awarded him his just dues.

On the Road
By Tom McCarthy

Visits Bloody Harlan.

As you drive into Harlan County from Pineville, Ky., and then drive on to Harlan, you come through a narrow valley flanked by the dark rugged hills which yield to Harlan some of the richest veins of soft coal in the world. The seat of the county is Harlan, a town of a little more than 4,000 people.

It seems a peaceful, quiet, industrious little place as you drive in. It supports two movie houses, a couple of chain stores and the usual quota of businesses. Though it is midweek, a good-sized crowd of shoppers throng the sidewalks. You find it hard to believe that this progressive little town could have been the center of a reign of terror.

In Harlan, we learned that the man I was looking for, George J. Titler, in charge of the United Mine Workers unionization of the county, could be found up in Verda, a mining town operated by Pearl Basham, whose relations with his workmen received a fairly full airing at the Senate investigation last May. Basham was the operator who, it was alleged, made a little money on the side by raffling off to his employes discarded county cars, worth possibly $200, at $1 a chance. From this sideline he was able to clear about $600 per car.

Titler, the U. M. W. organizer, was in conference with Basham, in the office of the company store and postoffice. While we waited for him, a steady stream of mine wives and girls entered and left the store. Most of the trade in these company stores is in "script." While, at the end of the month, the miner is paid in cash, he may obtain "script" to tide him over the lean part of the month. This is cashable only at the company store. It was brought out by the Senate investigators that an investment in a company store brought back to the investor in one instance a dividend of 150 per cent on the principal in the first year.

• • • •

Verda is but one of several mines operated by Basham. It employs 700 or 800 miners. The lack of color which pervades most of these mining towns makes no exception of Verda. Best cared for property in the town is the mine equipment, which can be seen up on the hillside.

When Titler came from his conference with Basham, he was wreathed in smiles. This was a part of the new Harlan; an organizer returning from a meeting with an operator, wreathed in smiles. After we were introduced he got in the car, and we started for the union headquarters at Evarts. As we rode along, Titler, a stocky, keen-faced Scotsman with a burr in his voice, bubbled over with enthusiasm.

"I think it's all set," he enthused, "I think he'll sign the contract with the U. M. W. tonight." Titler waved the rolled contract for emphasis, as he went on, "It'll put 1,500 men in Basham mines under contract. He took the contract we worked out at Louisville, whole hog."

"Why, you know," he went on addressing every one in the car, "he's not a bad guy to talk to at all. He told me that if he signed the contract he wanted all of his men in the union. He said he wants harmony. He wants peace and plenty of it!"

Titler was talking about the same Pearl Basham, who, with other operators in Harlan, fought unionization, even unto death.

As we drove into the village of Evarts, they pointed out to me the scene of the famous battle of Evarts, back in 1931, when miners and deputies clashed in an affray which took seven lives. At the barber shop they pointed to the roly-poly barber busily shaving a customer, as one of the participants in the battle which gave Harlan County its sanguinary nickname.

• • • •

The office of the United Mine Workers at Evarts is a temporary headquarters; an office only by courtesy. A long unpainted room serves as the business headquarters. Another room opens off the main one, but for the most part is closed from view, its door adorned with a large warning to "keep out!" Occasionally, when the door opens, a bed can be glimpsed, and work clothing seen hanging along the wall.

The business office of the headquarters boasts no electrical connections, and its most modern touch is a typewriter, placed on a converted kitchen table. With a powerful forefinger a brawny six-footer types, in hesitant jerks, the complaints of the various miners.

The most important items in the room are two long benches, one down each side. On the left are eight or ten white miners and, on the right, a half dozen colored miners. They have come to wait their turn to tell the union how they had been fired or intimidated by the operators. The one-fingered typist is recording complaints for Labor Board action. The only light in the room comes through the single window at the far end.

As I became accustomed to the dimness, I was able to get my first close-up of a representative group of miners.

Possibly you've fancied that miners are big, brawny fellows with iron muscles rippling under shoulders that ask nothing better than a chance to tear coal from the earth. If Harlan miners are at all representative, the impression is false. The colored boys, who form about 10 per cent of the miner population of the county, are heavier and taller than the white miners, but even they aren't very impressive. The white, native stock, miners who stiffly await their chance to be heard are, on the average, short, slender to the point of thinness and give a first quick impression of weakness. Their eyes lack animation, and their faces hold a strained pinched look, lending emphasis to the feeling that these scrawny men are immeasurably weary.

• • • •

As they lounge about the room, the only sign of animation and the only sound of laughter comes from the colored miners. While I watched, a tall, bull-necked colored man came in, and room was made for him along the bench. After a while, he unwrapped a package and disclosed the holster for a pistol. Reaching under his coat he produced a pistol and slid it into the holster. He explained to the colored boys that it would take some altering before the fit would be right. As he toyed with the gun, I thought of the mine guard in dusty clothes I'd seen earlier in the day up at Verda, his pants falling unevenly from his hips with the weight of a gun in his back pocket.

Riding back into Harlan with Titler, I received a panoramic view of the labor situation in Harlan after the investigation as he saw it.

Titler estimated there were between 12,000 and 14,000 miners in Harlan County. He said that about 10,000 had joined the union. Thus far the union had obtained contracts with two mines, one at Black Mountain; the other at Cloversplint.

• • • •

The mines in Harlan are working between two and five days a week. Rarely have any of the mines had to work as little as two days a week. Some of them are working five.

The wage scales run between $3 and $7 a day. Some miners make more than $7. Up at Cloversplint, one of the first mines in Harlan to work under the union contract, the average daily wage is about $5.80 or $6 per day.

Yes, miners were being fired by certain operators, for union affiliation, and there possibly were 300 out of work, but the union had been able to place 40 of them in mines with which they held a contract!

It would take time all right, and the Labor Board would have to be called on, but the march was underway. Yes, it was true there still was some intimidation, but the county was being opened up now—and fast! Yes, it was true that Youngblood, the slender quiet organizer, had been wordlessly intimidated by deputy sheriffs, who trailed him about the town. But they couldn't scare Youngblood. You see, Youngblood has been in about a dozen gun fights in his life and has only been wounded once. Sure, he carries a gun!

After A Century Of Plowing

Grand Detour Recalls First Plow To 'Scour'.

By Elmer T. Peterson.
Special Correspondent to The Post.

Grand Detour, Ill.

A TREMENDOUSLY significant thing happened at a little railroadless village in Illinois two weeks ago, but the minds of the American people are so occupied with strikes and Supreme Court arguments and the Spanish war that it went comparatively unnoticed.

If it had not been for an invention made at Grand Detour 100 years ago, the entire Mississippi Valley would still be pretty much of a wilderness.

Only a farmer can understand why this is so. The invention was of a plow that would "scour."

All the plows made previous to 1837 had wooden or cast-iron mouldboards. They worked fairly well in the lighter and more gravelly and sandy soils of the Eastern States, but when they were put into the black mucky "gumbo" which is so prevalent in the Middle West, they just balled up and quit.

The result was that the settlers who came with such high hopes from the Eastern States to the "Grand Prairie" of Illinois, and the vast glacial and alluvial flats of Indiana, Ohio, Iowa and other black-soil States, became discouraged, and some of them started back East.

Sticky Soil Hard To Turn Without Sod.

IN THE STICKY soil which is characteristic of this area, the only way that plowing could be accomplished was by turning the sod and planting a crop, then waiting two or three years for another sod to form. Year-after-year cultivation was impossible in the gumbo. Obviously, this was too wasteful and uneconomical. Hence, the great disappointment and perturbation of the settlers.

They appealed to Leonard Andrus, a young sawmill owner, and he enlisted the assistance of John Deere, a young blacksmith. Together they worked out the problem. Taking an old circular saw blade, they made it into a plowshare. They thought it would "scour" because of its high temper and polish.

The great day came for the trial and the plow worked. A great shout went up from the crowd of farmers and villagers of the little community of Grand Detour. Almost immediately there were plans to go on Westward. In fact, the invention of the steel mouldboard plow was the thing that made possible the settlement of the vast empire of virgin sod that lay between Chicago and the slopes of the Rockies, where agriculture was destined to be supreme.

The new mural painting in the Iowa State College library, just painted under the direction of Grant Wood, has for its central feature the picture of a plowman of a century ago, and under it is the quotation from Daniel Webster, "When tillage begins, other arts follow." Throughout this middle western country, this truth is recognized. And the steel plow was the key to the vast storehouse of wealth that had lain undisturbed in the soil for countless centuries.

Andrus Plow Works And Deere Plant Result.

TWO BRANCHES came out of the Grand Detour project. One was the Grand Detour Plow Works, started by Leonard Andrus, and the other was the plow company started by John Deere, who moved on to Moline, about 80 miles west, where the steamboat traffic of the Mississippi provided an inducement as to trade with the rapidly developing agricultural empire. Both branches flourished, but there came a day when the railroad arrived in the vicinity, and for some reason Grand Detour spurned the iron horse, so the tracks were laid to the Dixon ferry settlement 5 miles southwest, on the Rock River, and here grew the town of Dixon which now has about 12,000 population.

The plow works at Grand Detour flourished for a time, but were finally purchased by the J. I. Case Co., of Racine, Wis., which operates the plow factory as a division of its main works.

The town of Dixon takes a quasi-paternal pride in the quaint old village of Grand Detour, which is now wholly divested of its one-time industrial atmosphere, and drowses its peaceful way through the seasons without hearing the whistle blasts which once echoed from hill to hill.

Te Dixon high school undertook to perform a pageant at this centennial anniversary. Dressed in the quaint costumes of 100 years ago, the young lads and lasses showed a genuine appreciation of the importance of the event. They danced the Vrginia reel and performed a drama depicting the invention of the steel mouldboard plow. There were loud speakers and a national radio hook-up of 77 stations broadcasting some of the speeches. There was the dedication of an imposing bas-relief memorial monument to Leonard Andrus, this monument being placed on the very spot where he and John Deere made the first effective plow.

Steel Mouldboard Cuts Through Black Earth.

Corn Of Countryside Promises Bumper Crop.

JUNE 25 was an exceedingly sultry day, and the crowd was not as large as had been anticipated, for that reason. In that fertile, sticky-soiled, teeming basin the humidity became excessive and about 2,000 people perspired profusly as they listened to speeches and watched the drama of the plow.

"Anyhow, this is a great growing day for corn!" was the consoling remark. And it truly was. Corn, the chief product of the sticky, black soil of the Mississippi Valley, revels in hot, humid weather, and throughout this vast area it is growing like all possessed. "Knee-high by the Fourth of July," is the old saying, but it is fully ten days ahead of schedule, and in many places is being "laid by," which is the term for the last plowing by power cultivators. It is a beautiful dark green and promises a record-breaking crop.

In the afternoon on the steamy bottoms of the Rock River, where occasional overflow stands stagnant in the hot, black mud, there was an epic pageant of plowing.

First was a replica of the wooden plow used by Egyptians 3,000 years ago, pulled by two sturdy oxen named Buck and Brawn—exotic creatures in this machine-dominated region. The plowman wore the ancient Egyptian costume. Next in line was a man in rude clothing of a century ago. He wore a long beard and used a wooden mouldboard plow pulled by horses. Next was another man in pioneer garb with a castiron mouldboard plow. Then came a third, with one of the steel plows made by the Andrus works. Then came improved plows and finally a battery of modern tractor-pulled plows in "gangs."

At the signal of a whistle from a steam tractor all started across a field in the outskirts of Grand Detour. A newsreel man turned the crank and the epic race was on. The oxen did very creditably as far as forward motion was concerned, but the soil turned by the crude wooden prong was practically negligible. The wooden mouldboard plow was not much better, and the castiron plowshare, true to the tradition, became clogged and showed its inefficiency. The other plows performed nobly, especially the sleek, shiny, new tractor-pulled machines.

A high school girl dressed in a costume of 1837 fainted from the heat. There were cheers and expression of excitement from the crowd that was held back with difficulty from the starting line, as the Egyptian farmer whacked his oxen and walked down the furrow. There were wisps of dust, even though there had been a recent rain. Weeds gave up pungent pollen as the throng trampled the edges of the field.

Significant Centennial Of American History Passes.

AND SO PASSED the centennial of one of the most significant happenings in American history.

"Some kind of a celebration going on over to Gran'toor, ain't there?" was the vague inquiry one heard along the Highway No. 2. But the busy world was eddying about this quaint, quiet little village, where the Presbyterian Auxiliary was serving a hot dinner in a tent, and the ladies of the tiny St. James Episcopal Church were purveying ice cream and cake on the church lawn, and farmers gathered for a few hours to see the sights and exchange comment on the phenominally growing crops and the new AAA program and the doings at Washington.

The busy world was whirling about this little island of customary tranquility, where once sounded the whistles of a most significant era—the era of plows that would plow the strange, sticky, black soil of the prairie country.

At 4 o'clock the thickening clouds in the west turned loose another flood of water, with wind and lightning. More moisture was coming to the wet black flats of the Rock River bottoms, and all the way to Moline, on the Mississippi bottoms, and on west through the corn belt, where nature is piling up another huge crop which is characteristic of the prosperity of an agricultural commonwealth.

Lloyd Bequests Of $3,000,000 Mainly to Kin

Will of Writer, Editor Is Filed for Probate in District Court.

An estate of approximately $3,000,000 was left by the late Demarest Lloyd, prominent newspaper writer and editor, who died at his large country estate, Pennyfield, near Great Falls, Md., June 24. His will was filed for probate in District Court late yesterday.

Approximately $145,000 of the estate was made up of real estate located in the District, Massachusetts, Maryland and Illinois. The remainder was stocks, bonds, cash and other securities.

Mr. Lloyd nominated 15 of his relatives and friends to receive bequests totaling $105,250. After those bequests were paid, he directed the estate to be placed in trust for the benefit of Mrs. Katherine N. Lloyd and his three children, Angelica, 19; Demarest, jr., and Karen G. Lloyd, 13, all of whom reside in the District.

Upon the death of Mrs. Lloyd, her share of the income is to revert to the estate and is to be divided between the children. Personal property belonging to Mr. Demarest was left to his son, Demarest, jr.

Mrs. Cora Ransom, 1028 Connecticut avenue northwest, described as having been Mr. Lloyd's nurse for several years, was given $35,000. Two secretaries, Margaret Rounseville and Mrs. E. L. Darnell, each were given $10,000, and Lothrop Stoddard, an employe, was given a like amount. Other bequests were Byron Gidley, caretaker of the Massachusetts estate, $10,000; Warren Whitehead, an employe, $10,000; John C. Lloyd, an uncle, $5,000; Madeline Goodrich, an aunt, $5,000; Mrs. C. L. Strobel, another aunt, $5,000; Francis Mosher, $500; Vernan Currran, $750, and Manuel Tavares, $1,000.

D. C. Celebration Of Fourth of July Moved to Ellipse

The city-wide celebration of the Nation's birthday in the Capital will take place Monday night at 7:15 o'clock. It will be held on the Ellipse, south of the White House, instead of at the Water Gate, as has been previously announced by the citizens committee headed by Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen.

The change of place was decided upon late yesterday afternoon at the request of Maj. Ernest Brown, superintendent of Metropolitan police, and Capt. P. J. Carroll, head of the park police, because of the great number of Boy Scouts attending the Jamboree.

Arrangements already have been started to set up the platforms and the 10,000 chairs at the Ellipse.

Maritime Commission Plans Wage Hearings

By the Associated Press.

The Maritime Commission reported yesterday that Commissioners E. C. Moran, jr., and Thomas M. Woodward have been designated to conduct hearings preliminary to establishment of employment, wage and living standards in ocean-going shipping.

46,000 Rail Pension Checks Due Tomorrow

By the Associated Press.

Treasury officials said yesterday they hoped to mail 46,000 railroad pension checks late tomorrow.

The Federal Government took over disbursement of the pensions under the railroad retirement act which the President signed recently. Carriers and employes pay a tax into the Federal Treasury.

Blue Penciled

From The Neue Zuericher Zeitung

What Germans Read.

WHOEVER views the world day by day through the windows of the German press—excepting only the Frankfurter Zeitung—experiences a strange sense of distortion. It is with considerable difficulty that one becomes accustomed to the new proportions in which events appear through this medium.

First of all one gets a general impression that the outside world suffers much more from bolshevism than it is willing to admit and that it is not particularly concerned to preserve peace. Foreign news dispatches, the peculiar language of which soon grows familiar, imply that Red Valencia and Moscow's influence in France and Great Britain are only the most obvious symptoms of the Bolshevik menace.

That Franco is supposed to have suffered a defeat in which even Italian troops were affected is, so the reader learns, just a malicious invention of the English press. If a brilliant general like Franco retreated at all, he did so voluntarily, of course. He had merely determined to shorten his front line in order to improve his communications, a measure that was adopted even in the World War. One learns, furthermore, that the impudent Communist lies to the effect that Italy had sent volunteers to Spain after signing the non-intervention pact were duly answered in the London committee only by Germany, Italy and Portugal. The sole aim on the other side, asserts the German press, is to increase the general tension.

• • • •

THE TEMPERAMENTAL outbursts of the Italian press toward Great Britain are reprinted at great length. This is perhaps a means of letting off steam without risk, since Germany's own feelings toward England are quite mixed. The critical voices in the English press are carefully noted. From the Nazi perspective the debates over the Spanish war in the House of Commons were futile demagogy that made Great Britain appear senile and hysterical. When there suddenly came a soothing report from Rome that England wished to see her relations toward Italy—that young, virile, self-sacrificing and disciplined nation—guided by "reason," everyone breathed a sigh of relief.

Seen through the medium of the German press, the Spanish civil war seems ghostly and disconnected. On the one side there is the grotesque, scheming Bolshevik pack; on the other there are only noble crusaders.

Pope Pius' encyclical about the Catholic Church in Germany was read from all the German Catholic pulpits, and the "grapevine" carried the news to all who cared to know. The German press, however, took no notice. It mentioned only the subsequent encyclical in which the Pope attacked atheism and communism. Germany, the press commented, took grateful yet critical note of the call of the church as befitted a nation grown strong again in its own right. Not until some days later was there an oblique reference to the anti-Nazi encyclical, but without any detailed information. The Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz resented the encyclical and rejected its thesis as untenable. The Pope's dictum was made to appear as though the church was trying to turn German Catholics against their government.

• • • •

"THE CONTEMPORARIES of a revolution," Madame de Stael once wrote, "frequently lost all interest in the search for truth." That is easily explained since the contemporaries, or more accurately, the torchbearers, of a revolution are always passionate fighters for very definite ideas. They tend to transform their environment according to those ideas. They eagerly emphasize everything in the outside world that coincides with their philosophy. That alone is truth which supports their ideas. Whatever conflicts with those ideas—what good can there be in it? It can have no significance and may even be ignored. That is why many National Socialists, even those in high stations, are firmly convinced that "the German press is exercising the art of truthful reporting in an exemplary way." Yes, they even recommend it to the foreign press as an example worth imitating.

It is questionable whether a one-track press really possesses the persuasive force its leaders attribute to it. Compared with London and Paris, conspicuously few papers are read in the subways or buses of Berlin. Perhaps this is merely a coincidence—the result of different habits. It is notable all the same. When one occasionally voices a standardized German opinion, the comment is merely—"propaganda." That is all.

A regimented press which molds everyone to think along the same lines, where there is not the slightest inkling of self-criticism, either in domestic or in foreign affairs, has an intensely depressing effect. With even the humorous magazines limiting their jokes to Jews, grumblers or similar official scapegoats, this impression is deepened. To have some value and to fulfill their function properly the humorous papers, at least, should be permitted an occasional barb. Since the political joke can no longer fulfill its function in public, it does so covertly—and capably. At any rate, the Third Reich possesses no safety valve in its press.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Arrest.

(A study in America's police procedure.)

They bring him back all dressed in white
With shoes and socks to match;
They pose him grinning ear to ear—
The tabloid papers' "catch."
The coppers at his side grin, too—
It's quite a gay affair
This landing of a youth alleged
To kill without a care.

II.

They pose him on a flying field,
They pose him in the court,
They stand him with a grinning group—
Oh, crime is such a sport!
They print his story word for word,
In fact, they print it twice,
And snap him for the movies, too—
It's all so sweet and nice!

III.

They take his photo as he struts
And take him sitting down;
They take him in a bathing suit
And in a dressing gown.
The court officials hurry in
To make the front page, too.
As lawyers and psychiatrists
All join the interview.

IV.

The mental experts, all agog,
Come dashing to the scene,
Quite breathlessly to tell the world
What all such cases mean.
A brutal murder? No! Not that!
Please such a thought efface!
The charming fellow simply is
A psychopathic case.

V.

They take him riding through the town
And call more newsreels in;
A little dinner, then a play
And through the park a spin;
Then on a shopping trip he goes
For it's important, quite,
That when he gets before a court
His wardrobe should be right!

VI.

The cops will help him choose his ties
And surely it won't hurt
To have the D. A.'s office aid
In picking out a shirt;
Great kindness must be shown this man
And treatment very white
For all that he is charged with is Three murders in one night.

VII.

His autograph? Why certainly—
Just form in line there, folks!
(There ought to be some music here;
Hey, sergeant, crack some jokes!) . . .
Pile on the circus atmosphere!
Let's all have one good time! . . .
This is the way America

WoolManufacturer Assails Wage Bill

New York, July 1 (AP).—Describing the Black-Connery wage-and-hour bill pending in Congress as a "dangerous threat to industry," Arthur Besse, president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, today sent Senator Hugo Black in Washington a revised draft of the bills which he said would end this objection.

Besse opposed in particular the provision in the bills for a labor standards board empowered to raise or lower for any particular industry the wage and hour minimums established by Congress.

He proposed instead that Congress establish a general wage and hour minimum for all industry which the board could revise downward only.

France, Britain May Abandon Hands-Off Pact

Refusal of Italy, Reich to Accept Plan for Spain Menaces accord.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, July 1.—A resolution proposing "reconsideration" of the whole Anglo-French policy toward isolating the Spanish war if Germany and Italy persist in rejecting the Anglo-French naval control plan was adopted unanimously tonight by the Chamber of Deputies foreign affairs committee.

This action was taken after Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos had explained the tangled situation before the committee. He declared the situation was "very serious" but not yet "tragic."

In chamber lobbies it was said "reconsideration" would mean studying the advisability of abandoning the policy of non-intervention hitherto sponsored chiefly by Britain and France.

Delbos said Britain and France now were awaiting the replies of Berlin and Rome to their proposal that British and French naval ships be used to close the gaps in the patrol around Spain left when Italy and Germany withdrew their ships last week. On receipt of those replies, he said, the next step would be considered.

Refusal Is "Inadmissable."

The committee held that refusal to approve the Anglo-French patrol was "inadmissable under present circumstances."

Official spokesmen said abandonment of the nonintervention policy was "always a possibility."

They declared definitely that France and Britain would refuse to recognize the insurgent junta as a belligerent and would not "bargain" with Germany and Italy.

Members of the Chamber said that final elimination of the naval patrol would mean abandonment of their neutrality policies by France and Britain. If the ptarol were eliminated, they said, it would open the way for wholesale aid to the fighting factions.

France and England, members said, could not rest on a policy of neutrality while Germany and Italy rendered open and perhaps decisive aid to Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Countermove May Fail.

London, July 1 (AP).—Authoritative quarters tonight forecast that Britain and France tomorrow will reject a proposal from Germany and Italy that they accord belligerent rights to both parties in the Spanish civil war.

The proposal, it was expected, will be put forward in a critical meeting of the directing sub-committee of the 27-nation nonintervention committee.

It will be a countermove to the offer of France and Britain to restore the naval patrol of Spanish coasts by using their own ships in place of those Italy and Germany withdrew last week.

The possibility was seen that the whole nonintervention effort might be abandoned tomorrow. British officials remained silent, but it was learned government leaders have been highly displeased by the Italo-German stand against Britain's efforts to salvage international co-operation to keep the Spanish war from spreading.

Further Tension Forecast.

Rome, July 1 (AP).—Fascist newspapers said tonight that if tomorrow's meeting of the nonintervention sub-committee in London fails to produce some kind of agreement the European situation will become much worse.

Sources close to the government indicated that Italy favored granting belligerent rights to both parties in the Spanish civil war as a solution of the present deadlock over international co-operation to keep that conflict from spreading.

It was indicated that such a solution would be presented to the sub-committee tomorrow by Italy and Germany. If it is rejected, some Fascist papers have said, Europe will see "another gesture of Italo-German collaboration."

Some Rome newspapers gave prominence to reports that Egypt, backed by Great Britain, is fortifying her border facing Libya as a measure of defense against Italy.

Wheat Acreage Limits Urged To Farm Group

Tolley, Wallace Propose Two Plans to Leaders Assembled Here.

By the Associated Press.

Government officials suggested to farm representatives from the wheat areas yesterday that some limitation be clamped down on the acreage they plant for harvest next year.

H. R. Tolley, AAA administrator, Secretary Wallace and economists of the Agriculture Department made the suggestion.

The farm leaders were summoned here by telegrams, and their conference was closed to reporters.

Although it will be several months before the wheat yields this year can be known, Tolley said the conference was called now to allow plenty of time for shaping the 1938 farm program before farmers start sowing winter wheat this fall.

He said three avenues are open to wheat growers next year:

1. A national limit on wheat acreage could be established similar to the corn acreage limit used this year.

2. Bases or quotas could be fixed for individual wheat farmers similar to those used for cotton farmers.

3. The present policy of no definite limitation on wheat could be continued.

The first two proposals would mean reduced Federal benefit payments for farmers who planted more than the Government desired.

Secretary Wallace asked the group to think over his ever-normal granary proposal, crop insurance, and other farm legislation. The granary proposal, for Government loans on crop surpluses stored in good years for use in poor ones, has made little progress in Congress so far.

Department economists said the acreage to wheat for harvest this year is the largest ever planted, excepting 1919, and that normal yields from this acreage for several years in succesasion could accumulate large surpluses that would force prices down.

Vermont Teacher Elected N.E.A. Head

Detroit, July 1 (U.P.).—Caroline Woodruff, principal of the State Normal School at Castleton, Vt., was announced tonight as the new president of the National Education Association.

Miss Woodruff defeated Amy Hinrichs, principal of the Audubon School, of New Orleans, La., in a closely fought election, from which men were barred by a tradition of the association, which provides that the presidency alternate between men and women. Miss Woodruff succeeds Dr. Orville C. Pratt, superintendent of schools at Spokane, Wash.

Reports of the elections committee climaxed the final day of the association's four-day convention, which drew nearly 14,000 teachers and educational supervisors from all sections of the United States.

Five Are Accused In Mail Fraud Case

New York, July 1 (AP).—Four men were arrested here today in what Postoffice Inspector Herbert M. Graham described as a $500,000 mail fraud.

They were booked at police headquarters as Harry Klein, 38; Rudolph Klein, 36, and Milton Klein, 40, brothers, and Ernie Parker, 37, described as part owner of a Hollywood, Calif., restaurant.

Roads Bureau Is Given Authority Over Trees

Baltimore, July 1 (AP).—The State forestry department canceled today all the permits issued to the State roads commission for authority to cut and trim trees along the State highways.

State Forester F. W. Besley said he voided the commission's permits in accordance with the attorney general's opinion that the roads body has "exclusive jurisdiction" over trees within its rights of way.

In settling a controversy between the two departments over control of roadside trees, Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor ruled the roads commission has the right "to determine what trees, if any, must be removed in the interest of the public safety."

Crippled Strikers Injured, Is Charge

New York, July 1 (AP).—Three WPA guards were arrested tonight on disorderly conduct charges which specified that they threw three cripples bodily out of the WPA headquarters building after a sit-down demonstration of the League of the Physically Handicapped.

The three cripples, members of a group of five which engaged in the demonstration, were taken to a hospital. The guards were given summonses returnable tomorrow morning.

The demonstrators said Supervisor Murray Nathan had told them that no cripples would be among the 11,800 WPA workers laid off yesterday.

Jewish Scouts to Have Sabbath Service Today

Sabbath Eve services for the 750 Jewish Boy Scouts attending the Jamboree will be held at 7 p. m. today, conducted by Rabbi Jesse J. Finkle, of Philadelphia. Another service is scheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Oneg Shabat, celebrating the joyfulness of the Sabbath, will be observed at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Washington Monument Grounds. The program will be in charge of a women's committee headed by Mrs. Denise Turover. Morris Stein and Col. Julius Peyser are co-chairmen of the Washington Jewish Religious Committee which arranged the religious program for the Jamboree.

3 Die for Slaying; 4th Gets Reprieve

Ossining, N. Y., July 1 (AP).—Anthony (Tough Tony) Garlaus, whose motto was "Never give a sucker an even break," died in Sing Sing's electric chair with two accomplices tonight for the slaying of a Brooklyn tavern customer in a holdup last November.

A fourth participant, 23-year-old Raymond Norton, received a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment from Gov. Herbert H. Lehman only a few hours before.

5 Die in Plane Fire.

Metz, France, July 1 (AP).—Five persons were burned to death today when a military plane caught fire and crashed near Turquestein in southeastern Moselle Department.

BIGGEST SALES IN GUNTHER'S HISTORY
PROVES THAT DRINKERS ARE SWITCHING TO THE DRY BEERY BEER

Thousands discover that sweeter beers don't quench their thirst like the cool beery flavor of Gunther's. Real beer drinkers report that they can take more Gunther's in hot weather without spoiling their appetites!

No wonder Gunther's is the biggest selling beer in this part of the country. It's like the old time beers. Dry and tangy, cool and beery. And not the type that "fills-you-up" and makes you feel as though you'd eaten a big meal. Especially in hot weather, you want a beer like Gunther's—the kind you can drink often! And quench your thirst without dulling your appetite!

It's the same way all over the country. In city after city across the Nation, a dry beer, like Gunther's is the overwhelming favorite.

Real beer drinkers must have the dry, beery tang, the true beer taste. The sweeter, less beery beers are just not beer to them!

So ask for Gunther's. Its flavor will grow on you. Drink it for a few days and you'll never be satisfied with any other type of beer.

YOU CAN TELL THE REAL BEER-DRINKERS: They don't just order beer. They order by name. And more of them ask for Gunther's than any other kind.

Comdr. Fulton Would Permit Sale of Helium

Would Not Be Detrimental to U. S., He Tells House Group.

Commander Garland Fulton, U. S. N., yesterday appeared before the House Military Affairs Committee considering a bill to permit sale of helium to foreign countries and concerns for use in commercial lighter-than-air craft.

Pointing out that the cost of transporting and storing the gas abroad would be prohibitive, Commander Fulton said he thought the sale of helium to foreign interests would not be detrimental to the United States "because of economics of the situation would compel any commercial line to keep its principal supply base on this side of the Atlantic." He indicated he thought the fact that the United States has a virtual monopoly on the supply of helium might be to the commercial advantage of the United States since it would compel every airship to make a stop in the United States to pick up a supply.

"Only enough gas would be kept in Europe to provide for 'topping up' after the trip across the Atlantic from the United States," Commander Fulton said.

The major use of the dirigible, he indicated, should be for work far at sea. Each ship would act both as an airplane carrier and as an observer. The planes carried by the dirigible would be used to attack approaching enemy planes and to protect the Zeppelin, he said.

Indicating the non-rigid ship could best be used in harbor-patrol work and submarine detection, Commander Fulton pointed out that the military value of the dirigible decreases as it gets farther from its base.

When asked if he thought a line of commercial dirigibles, filled with helium, was feasible, Commander Fulton indicated he thought it was.

Officers' Flogging Verdict Reversed

Tallahassee, Fla., July (AP).—The Florida Supreme Court today reversed the conviction of five former Tampa policemen on a charge of kidnaping Eugene F. Poulnot, one of three victims of a flogging band in Tampa about a year and a half ago.

The court ordered a new trial for the former officers—C. A. Brown, John Bridges, C. W. Carlisle, Sam E. Crosby and S. W. Switzer. The five were under sentence to serve four years each.

Poulnot, Sam Rogers and Joseph Shoemaker—all active in organizing unemployed persons—were taken from a meeting, questioned at police headquarters and then released. Outside the police station they were forced into automobiles and driven out into the country by a band of men. They were stripped, beaten, tarred, feathered and warned to leave town. Shoemaker died nine days later.

Gov. Nice Leaves Wilmer Institute; Feels 'Splendid'

Annapolis, Md., July 1 (AP).—Gov. Harry W. Nice, recuperating at the Government House from an operation for the removal of his right eye, tonight expressed his gratitude to his physicians and the Wilmer Institute of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, and to others who remembered him while in the hospital.

Accompanied by Mrs. Nice and his son, Harry W. Nice, jr., the Governor left the Wilmer Institute and returned to the Government House by automobile. Under orders of his physician he will remain quiet for a month, resuming his full duties about August 15.

Apparently fully rested and benefited by his hospital stay, the Governor said "he lost his right eye and 15 pounds" and felt splendid.

"Under the doctor's orders I have got to stop all activities and remain quiet here for at least a month," he said.

Gov. Nice entered the hospital on June 14. The operation was performed on June 21. In about two weeks an artificial eye will be fitted.

Hershey Protests Virginia Entry Fee

Richmond, Va., July 1 (AP).—The Hershey Chocolate Corporation, whose capital stock is assessed at $135,000,000 for taxation purposes, was granted a charter of domestication by the State Corporation Commission today on payment of a $5,000 entrance fee.

The Pennsylvania company, which controls the entire town of Hershey, paid the entrance fee under protest, contending that the fee, assessed on the entire maximum stock of the individual corporation is unfair. The Atlantic Refining Co.'s protest is now before the Supreme Court of the United States.

State tax officials have contended that an adverse decision by the Supreme Court will cost the State of Virginia more than $100,000 annually.

D. C. Mounted Police Get a Horse

Presenting Rio Rita, who from now on will carry the Park Police mounted detail, Policeman Leslie Mason. A 10-year-old chestnut mare, she is owned by Marty Gallagher, the prize fighter-riding academy proprietor, who landed the contract to provide Mason with a horse.

District Rents a New Mount For Lone Horseback Officer

Policeman Leslie Mason Now Rides Rio Rita, Fleet Virginia Horse Which Also Is a Jumper, on Rock Creek Patrol.

The last of Washington's horseback policemen, Park Policeman Leslie Mason, has a new mount, a handsome chestnut mare named Rio Rita.

The animal, foaled in the horse country of Virginia 10 years ago, is owned by Marty Gallagher, who, besides being Washington's most famous prizefighter, is proprietor of a Riding Academy in the heart of Foggy Bottom on H street near Twenty-sixth northwest.

Marty has landed the contract to provide Officer Mason with a mount, and he regards Rio Rita as the most suitable animal in his stable for that kind of work. Up until now, Rio has been Marty's personal mount, and those who frequent the bridle paths probably have seen her galloping along with the pugilist's 215 pounds in the saddle.

"Yes, that's a lot of horse there," said Jim Gallagher, Marty's brother, as he led Rio Rita out of the stable yesterday. "She's fast and she can take a jump like a bird. If Policeman Mason ever sees a debutante aboard a runaway out in Rock Creek Park, I'll wager that he will be able to catch her with Rio."

There was a time when mounted policemen were an essential part of the Metropolitan force. Old timers still like to tell stories about the almost human intelligence of some of the police horses; about how they could break up demonstrations, ward off attacks and go after fugitives.

A number of cities still have their mounted policemen and still find them valuable, but Washington has adopted a policy in which the horse finds no place. For one thing, too many of them figured in accidents as the streets became congested with motor traffic.

In the case of the park police, however, it is different. In the case of Policeman Mason it is difficult to see how he could patrol his beat in Rock Creek Park without a horse. He travels the bridle paths and the woods, terrain that would be impossible to traverse with a motorcycle or an automobile.

30 Luray Workers Return to Jobs

Luray, Va., July 1 (AP).—About 30 workers returned to work today for closing down operations at the Deford Tannery to prevent leather already in process from wasting.

The return to work was in accord with an agreement between company officials and a committee of the United Leather Workers Local, No. 24, that the workers not allow the green hides, now in lime, to spoil. The closing-down operations will require ten days.

W. D. Anderson, of the Virginia Federation of Labor, has announced that he has the management's assurance that operations will not be resumed until the union has been given a hearing on its request for wage increases of from 28 to 40 and 45 cents an hour and a 44-hour week instead of the present 54.

Four Men Escape Death As Lightning Hits House

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Front Royal, Va., July 1.—Four Front Royal men narrowly escaped death near here yesterday during a severe electrical and rain storm. Elmer Foster, a farmer, and J. Lawrence Meem, civil engineer, and two assistants, Giles Downing and Charles Biggs, were working near a small tool house in which they sought shelter. A bolt of lightning struck the small building. Foster was knocked down and his forehead burned and face cut. Meems and Downing were made temporarily deaf by the shock, and Biggs' foot was numbed.

Fredericksburg Lodge Installs New Officers

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., July 1.—Officers were installed tonight at a meeting of the Knights of Pythias Lodge. Robert Morris was installed as chancellor commander, one of the youngest men ever to hold the seat. Other officers placed were E. M. Gallahan, V. C.; Carl E. Cone, prelate; Herbert K. Old, M. A.; E. A. Abel, M. W.; Edward Smith, I. G., and Harold Green, O. G.

W. B. F. Cole was presented with a past chancellor's certificate in recognition of his work as chancellor commander of the lodge for the past six months.

Barr Takes Post As St. John's Head

Annapolis, Md., July 1 (AP).—Stringfellow Barr, newly elected president of St. John's College, took over his duties today and was kept busy with the details of moving here from Baltimore and the University of Virginia.

With Mrs. Barr, he was the guest of Mrs. Tench Tilghman. He spent a short period in the president's office at the college and then went to the apartments he will occupy in the Brice House.

He said he did not care to comment on his plans for the college until he had fully taken over the duties of the presidency.

New Road Group Asks Hungerford Parley

Hagerstown, July 1.—The "Old Baltimore-Hagerstown Pike Association," recently organized for the purpose of preserving the Thurmont-Foxville highway, has asked Arthur E. Hungerford, State director of the National Emergency Council, for an early conference.

Officials of the association hope to convince Hungerford of the practicability of completing the highway through Foxville. Hungerford recently stated that Federal funds to develop further the Catoctin Recreational Area will be withheld if the State improves the Thurmont-Foxville road, which passes through the recreational area. Hungerford favors the highway going through Deerfield.

One Killed, Two Injured As Lightning Hits Barn

Saltville, Va., July 1 (AP).—One young farm worker was dead and another seriously injured today as the result of an electrical storm here yesterday.

Lightning, striking a barn in which they had taken refuge, instantly killed James Crusenberry, jr., 22, seriously injured Jack Keesee, 24, and shocked Thomas Keesee, 15, cousin of Jack.

Two horses which the young men had been using to plow corn in a nearby field also were killed.

Reds to Recall Army if Japan Also Quits Area

Amur, about 75 miles southeast of Blacoveshchensk, was impossible until Russia had withdrawn its forces from the trouble zone.

Japanese reports also indicated Soviet troops remained in occupation of Sennufu and nearby Bolshoi Island.

Situation Serious.

From Hsinking, seat of the Japanese army command on the continent, came word the Amur situation was causing grave concern. In the battle between Soviet gunboats and Japanese-Manchukuo artillery and infantry, one gunboat was sunk, one beached and a third compelled to flee.

Both Russia and Manchukuo claim the islands.

Emperor Hirohito took a hand in the crisis by summoning Admiral Mistumasa Yonai, minister of the navy, to give an account of Manchurian developments, presumably based on secret army and navy dispatches not made public.

From both sides of the frontier came reports of military movements. Japanese newspapers said the Russians had mobilized some 300,000 men of their Far Eastern army, supported by huge forces of airplanes, tanks and armored cars.

An official announcement after a cabinet meeting said the combined armies of Japan and Manchukuo were prepared for any emergency if Russia assumed a warlike attitude. (There is a highly trained, well-equipped Japanese army of 100,000 to 125,000 men in Manchukuo. The Manchukuo army is of about the same size, but its military value is doubtful.)

Fear Red Air Raids.

Tokyo newspapers expressed fears the Soviet's air force in eastern Siberia—estimated to total 1,000 planes—might strike at Manchukuo's principal cities, such as Harbin, Tsitsihar and Hsinking.

The Japanese press expressed belief the Soviet army of the Far East, commanded by Marshal Vassily Bluecher, was out of control of the high command in Moscow.

Tokyo, Friday, July 2 (AP).—Dispatches from Korea today reported the death of 50 Korean outlaws and five Japanese soldiers in a three-hour battle in a wood near the Korean-Manchukuoan border.

Soviet Defense Loan Floated.

Moscow, July 1 (AP).—Russia floated a huge defense loan tonight as diplomats failed to reach any basis for settlement of the dangerous clash of Soviet and Japanese forces on the Amur River, in the Far East.

1 Hurt as Police Rout Md. Pickets Stoning Oil Truck

By the Associated Press.

Cambridge, Md., July 1.—Violence in which one man was injured and another arrested flared today on the eve of what earlier had appeared to be possible settlement of the week-old strike at the Phillips Packing Co. plant here.

County deputies and State police charged into a crowd of 25 or 30 strikers who were stoning a truck operated by the Phillips Oil Co. The oil company is not connected with the packing firm.

Sheriff's deputies said the oil truck was leaving the supply storage tank area opposite one of the packing plants when pickets began to hurl rocks at it. The sheriff and two deputies, reinforced by four State policemen, arrived in answer to an alarm that a crowd was gathering.

The officers waded into the crowd stoning the truck and the pickets began hurling brickbats at them.

Miss Anna Neary, A. F. of L. organizer, hurried to the scene. She urged strikers to refrain from violence and organized a continuous picket line which marched up and down, jeering at armed guards inside the company fences.

Miss Neary said the strikers were hungry and needed food. She said attempts would be made to have merchants and farmers aid them.

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Community Center Department and the Office of National Capital Parks present the Marian Chace Dancers at the Sylvan Theater Thursday night, with Mrs. E. Milburn Colvin, soprano, as assisting artist.

Having been forced by summer showers to postpone their program for two successive nights, the Marian Chace Dancers were finally favored last evening with a clear sky and a cooling air for their choreographic evolutions on the grassy stage of the Sylvan Theater. Despite the competitive attraction of the Boy Scouts' meeting on the opposite side of the Monument hill, a goodly number of spectators were in attendance to enjoy the entertainment.

The familiar fairy tale of the sleeping beauty was the basis for the most picturesque of the ensemble numbers. To music from Chaikovski's ballet, "La Belle au Bois Dormant," five scenes were enacted with the principal roles taken by Karel Veya as the princess, Mary Williams as the malign fairy-godmother, and Jack Wilson as the prince.

"American Horizons," with music selected and arranged by Lyman McCrary, depicted the pioneer spirit in its advance across the continent and its contemporary expression. When carried too far in the dance, symbolism becomes vague, and there were moments in this pageant of laborious days when the gestures admitted of a variety of interpretations.

Among the other group dances were the Strauss waltz, "Tausend und eine Nacht;" Jarnefeldt's "Praeludium," and Ravel's monotonous "Bolero." Miss Chace and James Kelley presented a "Conversation Piece in Minuet Time" and a Moorish dance. Solo numbers were contributed by Miss Chace and Vilda Renee Goyette.

As a prelude to the dances, Mrs. E. Milburn Colvin, accompanied by Mrs. Kirby Smith, sang "One Fine Day" from "Madama Butterfly," Landon Ronald's "Down in the Forest" and a selection from "The Firefly."

William A. Lochrey Funeral Is Today

Funeral services for chief gunner's mate, William H. Lochrey, 62, U. S. N., retired, of the Woodley Park Towers Apartments, who died in the Naval Hospital, Philadelphia, will be held at 3 p. m. today in Arlington Cemetery.

Enlisting in the Navy in 1900, Chief Gunner's Mate Lochrey served on the U. S. S. Prairie during the World War. He was retired in 1920.

Council Defeats Picket Restriction

Cumberland, Md., July 1 (AP).—An ordinance designed to restrict picketing within the City of Cumberland was defeated today in city council when it failed to get the needed unanimous vote on a motion to take it to second reading.

The measure automatically is tabled until the regular session Tuesday morning.

The council considered the ordinance at recessed session this afternoon following the acquittal of eight restaurant pickets this morning on charges of loitering.

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett took an appeal of the verdict and by his action will give the circuit court the opportunity to pass on the validity of the Kimble "yellow dog" act.

Bob Burns Says

A lot'ta people learn a trade of some kind, like plumbing or brick layin', but if a party don't happen to like their work, they call in another plumber or brick layer and think nothin' of it. To learn a profession, though, like bein' a doctor or a lawyer, takes years of schoolin', but once you have it and you get established, it's pretty hard for anybody to step in and jar you loose from your position.

A good example of this was in a little town down home. They had a doctor, a blacksmith and two shoemakers. One day the doctor and the blacksmith got into an argument and the doctor killed the blacksmith. The town people met and decided they didn't want'ta be without a doctor, so they hung one of the shoemakers.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

Reg. U. S. Patent Office.

By Scott Hart.

An Explanation

Warren W. Scott, former president of Library of Congress Lodge, which dissolved its A. F. G. E. charter following a meeting Tuesday night, has asked this column to state that the lodge did not disband with a view of turning its membership into any other labor organization.

The disbanding followed an agreement among membership that they could not see eye to eye with various policies of the A. F. G. E. national office and District department. There was, he stated, no movement for affiliation of the members with any other national group.

He points out that the lodge is now dissolved and the individual members are not associated with any group. Obviously, it is their prerogative to join now with any organization.

He said that word is being spread to the effect that the lodge disbanded in order to turn its membership into the United Federal Workers of America, which has C. I. O. alignment. No word of affiliation with any group occurred until after the formal adjournment of the meeting Tuesday night. Then, it was said, there was some talk of C. I. O. affiliation after most of the members of the disbanded lodge had left the meeting hall.

Safe Drivers

Twelve civilian employes of the United States Engineers have been awarded National Safety Council medals for driving vehicles during the period March, 1936, to March, 1937, without a reportable accident. The medals were presented by Maj. W. D. Luplow to the following drivers: J. E. Beach, L. S. Bussler, N. J. Fahey, McComas Fisher, R. L. Harton, W. A. Hutcheson, H. R. Hutchings, O. James, W. C. Vogts, C. F. Taylor, C. Hayden and G. E. Redmiles.

Real estate note, as reported by the National Park Service: "A new residence having all the earmarks of being intended for permanent occupancy is reported to be under construction in Frijoles Canyon, Bandelier National Monument, New Mexico. Most of the homes in this interesting prehistoric ruin date back nearly 1,000 years. This one will be occupied by the builder, a hard-working beaver, who has just completed a good-sized dam.

Innovation for the great out of doors: Three quickly repeated calls or signals will be the S O S of the National Forests in the future, announces Robert Marshall, chief of the division of recreation and land of the Forest Service. The calls may be either audible or visible and have been recommended—after careful study—by the American Alpine Club. "It is recommended that the signals be used only where outside help is absolutely required, because the expense of a rescue party is properly borne by the person or persons rescued," Marshall explains.

* * * *

Following the recent suspension of seven lodges from the A. F. G. E., the national organization is turning on the heat in a fast-going membership drive that will continue until August 1. And, simultaneously, President Stengle announces favorable reaction to the suspension of the seven "liberal" groups.

"I want to say here, and now that I fear nothing from an invasion by enemies under any name whatsoever. Because of our action and the way in which we have conducted ourselves, I can assure you that we have gained the lasting respect of the legislators on Capitol Hill," Stengle stated.

"They have told me, 'If that is your stand, we are behind you.' We have many friends there, many friends on the committees that normally would be pushing our legislation to a successful conclusion. I have no fear of the results when those committees can again swing into action," he said.

Further, regarding the membership drive and the suspensions, he said: "In addition, we are getting applications from many Government employes who never would come into our organization. They tell us, 'Now you're getting down to unity, we'll come in.'"

Ol' Swimmin' Hole (D. C. Style) Will Be Ready for Youngsters Today Following the Opening of 90 Playgrounds on Summer Schedule

At Palisades Park Playground it was "ladies day" and quick minds and nimble fingers were put to work on the intricacies of doll dressmaking.

Post Staff Photos.

The old swimmin' hole comes back to life in modern style today as ten stalwart young playground directors hook up street showers at 80 points in the city.

Street showers require no fancy beach garb. Youngsters in the city appear in practically everything, and practically nothing, at the curbstone spas.

Turning on the shows will complete the formal advent of vacations. Yesterday 91 playgrounds got their summer programs under way, attended by capacity audiences.

The District's two public swimming pools rang with cries and shrieks, baseball diamonds were alive with runners, little girls were busy making doll dresses, and the town's 300 playground supervisors squared off for the summer struggle to keep Washington's children healthy.

Record attendance is anticipated for the summer by Richard Tennyson, assistant supervisor of District of Columbia playgrounds, who said that last year the mark stood between 28,000 and 30,000 for the season.

Promising to become the most popular new game of the year is tennis, a hybrid of ping-pong and court tennis. Players use a miniature court like a tennis court.

Back and forth over a low net tennis balls are batted with a wooden paddle about the size of a frying pan. It provides lots of exercise and can be played in a relatively small space, by from two to four players.

But indoor baseball probably will rule the favorite, as it always has, again this summer.

Setting up a curbstone shower is quite a complicated art, according to Mr. Tennyson, who pointed to his 10 staff men. "First you have to sweep the street so there's no broken glass or anything around," he explained. "Then you have to hook the shower spray onto a fire hydrant. Then you have to turn it on."

The shower experts visit eight different points a day, and it doesn't take the neighborhood long to learn what time is its turn. "Those kids are standing around waiting a half hour before the water is turned on. Gosh, how they love it!"

Great care is exercised to prevent accidents or the transmission of disease at the swimming pools, he stated. The Georgetown and Rosedale pools are scoured and scrubbed with soap and brushes every night after the pool is drained. The water is changed daily. Sufficient chlorine is injected into the water three times a day to keep it pure.

Liquor Stores Near Schools To Be Fought

Board Asks 3 Weeks, Delay Before Licenses Are Acted on.

At least three weeks' notice before action is taken on applications for licensing liquor stores in the vicinity of public schools will be asked of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board by the Board of Education, it was decided yesterday.

After one member of the board, at its final meeting before the summer recess, expressed himself as being dissatisfied with information on licensing available from the A. B. C. Board, the school trustees determined to conduct their own investigation of proposed liquor and beer establishments.

Gratz E. Dunkum, member of the board's liquor-license committee, charged information supplied the committee in its appearance before the A. B. C. Board has been "inadequate."

The board appointed a committee of Henry I. Quinn, John H. Wilson and Dunkum to act for the board during the summer and to arrange for investigation of all applications for liquor licenses that would place stores in school areas.

The board decided to act formally on every liquor-license application affecting the schools. Previously opposition to applications has been forwarded to the A. B. C. Board without formal action of the trustees.

Dunkum told the board his complaint on availability of data was not intended as a reflection on the beverage board, but that opportunity should be had to obtain complete information on all applications.

The meeting saw the re-election of Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle and Robert A. Maurer as president and vice president, respectively, of the board. Mrs. Doyle and Charles G. Drayton and West A. Hamilton, new members, were sworn in for three-year terms.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, revealed that next fall Washington schools will begin to feel the decline in America's birth rate.

Reporting on the enrollment situation in local junior and senior schools, Ballou predicted that increases in high school enrollments next September will be smaller "than they have been for many years," while in the junior high schools attended by white children an actual decrease in enrollment is expected.

High schools this spring graduated 2,861 seniors. Next fall they expect to take in 3,456 new pupils, Ballou said. In the white high schools the increase will be 363.

From junior high schools for white pupils there were 2,608 boys and girls promoted this June. Next September a total of 2,591 are expected to be coming in. This means a decrease of 17 under last year's enrollment.

For several years schools throughout the country have reported a decided decrease in the number of pupils being admitted to the first grade, said the superintendent.

"This decrease is now reaching junior highs in Washington for the first time," he stated; "I anticipate a further decline next year."

Ballou said the Capital hasn't felt enrollment decreases before because of the "large number of Government workers coming to Washington, bringing with them their families."

Nichols Seeks Boost in D. C. Taxicab Rates

5 Cents More Per Zone Would Offset Insurance Cost, Group Told.

A 5-cent per zone boost in Washington's taxicab rates was suggested yesterday at a House sub-committee hearing as an exchange for compulsory liability insurance for cab operators.

Representative Nichols (Democrat), of Oklahoma, expressed the view the public should be willing to accept the increase if assured riders and pedestrians will be protected in accidents involving taxicabs.

Cab operators told the sub-committee headed by Nichols that the insurance would cost them $1 a day. Nichols estimated the rate increase would offset that additional expense.

Among yesterday's witnesses was Mrs. Lillian Botkin, a cab driver who said she supports two children out of her earnings. She expressed the opinion the insurance would be a good thing but said she could not afford it on the basis of present returns.

Meanwhile the Public Utilities Commission moved to limit the number of taxicab associations in Washington.

An order signed by Riley Elgen, P. U. C. chairman, warned taximen no additional associations will be authorized. This, however, does not prevent cab drivers from joining existing organizations or operating as independents, it was pointed out.

The order, Elgen said, has no connection with pending legislation to limit the number of District cabs.

"We are not attempting to prevent drivers from obtaining licenses," Elgen said. "We merely feel that there are enough associations in Washingtton. Drivers may join any association they want to—or operate independently."

Veterans' Clinics Conducting Active Fight on Cancer

Gen. Frank T. Hines, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, made public today the fact that the Veterans' Administration has been waging a systematic and active campaign against cancer for several years. At Hines, Ill., said Gen Hines, the Veterans' Administration has the largest cancer clinic in the world. Last year a monthly average of 333 cancer cases were treated there.

Other cancer clinics administered by the Veterans' Administration are located at Portland, Oreg.; Los Angeles, Calif.; the Bronx, New York City; Washington, D. C., and Atlanta, Ga. At each of these clinics high-voltage X-ray machines are available and a sufficient quantity of radium to care for the needs of veterans under treatment for the disease.

Veteran Flier Commands First Commercial Atlantic Airplane

Gray to Captain Ship on Pan-American Test to Ireland.

Capt. Harold E. Gray, a holder of the highest rating in commercial aviation, yesterday was named to the command of the first commercial transport plane to be used in regular transatlantic flying.

Gray will captain the Pan-American flying boat, which leaves Port Washington, Long Island, early next week on the first test flight across the Atlantic in preparation for regular commercial service. His appointment, along with three other flight officers, was announced last night by Pan-American executives.

Gray will be in charge when the giant flying boat takes off from Port Washington for Newfoundland. At approximately 1:30 Monday afternoon the first survey flight to Ireland will begin from Ganders Lake, at Botwood, Newfoundland. The plane will land at Foynes, Ireland, at the mouth of the River Shannon.

At the same time a four-engined Empire flying boat, part of Imperial Airways' new transatlantic equipment, will leave the water at Foynes. The British boat will land at Botwood, and then proceed to New York.

The commander of the first commercial flight across the Atlantic is a 31-year-old native of Iowa, with more than a million miles of flying to his credit. He is a former Army aviator, a graduate of the University of Detroit with the degree of aeronautical engineering, and has been flying the Pacific for the last year.

CAPT. HAROLD E. GRAY.

Gray was the first pilot to be given the rating "Master of Ocean-flying Boats." Only four other aviators have qualified for similar rank.

Esperanto Described as Means To Bring About World Peace

Peace might find a permanent abode in this war-conscious world if Esperanto, the universal language, were used about international conference tables, Joseph R. Scherer, author, journalist and globe-girdler, asserted last night.

Before swords can be sheathed and sabers stilled from rattling in their scabbards, there must be a language in which all diplomats can think directly, he pointed out. There must be no more thinking in French and speaking in English, or thinking in English and speaking in French.

"Esperanto," said the lecture, "is simple and direct, and there is no way to say anything in it but what one means directly."

"Diplomatic evasions would vanish quickly. It would no longer be necessary for delegates to great peace conferences to translate their thoughts into another language. The thought and the language would be direct and therefore the reasoning pre-eminent."

Scherer speaks six languages besides Esperanto. He has traveled throughout the world—in the Far East and Europe, North and South America and Australia—studying the home lives of the various peoples of the globe.

His entrance into the homes he visited to make photographs and studies the world over was gained by Esperanto.

"It is difficult to speak in one language and think in another," quoted Scherer.

As the Esperanto Congress reached its height he depicted the rulers of the world and their representatives seated in halls of state, settling affairs which otherwise might lead to war by a universal tongue, which would sidetrack suspicion and promote international good will.

Retail Tailors May Open Own Cleaning Plant

Both Sides Hurl Charges of Unfair Action in D. C. Strike.

Plans were made last night by the Retail Tailors Association at a meeting in the Pythian Temple to open their own wholesale cleaning plant if their committee fails today to persuade owners of striking shops to reach a speedy settlement with the Cleaners and Dyers Union, according to Morris Kuppersmith, chairman of the association.

Samuel Rubinstein, chairman of the shop owners' committee, said his group was invited to meeting called by the retail tailors association, and and told to keep out when they arrived.

When a representative of the union was permitted to speak, Rubinstein said, "to hear one side of the story after we were invited to present the other, is unfair both to plant owners and tailors, and is evidence of bad faith on the part of the union."

The union protested alleged police interference with strikers at the Aristo, Rubinstein and Vogue plants and asked for protection in the future. The telegram was signed by the union, the Women's Trade Union League and the League of Women Shoppers.

Earlier in the day efforts to obtain relief for families of those on strike through the public assistance division of the District were blocked by insufficient funds and a legal clause which excludes employables from relief rolls. The strikers were referred to the District Commissioners, where they expected to call this morning to seek special emergency provision for relief.

300 Clubwomen Plan Annapolis Pilgrimage

Leonardtown, Md., July 1.—Three hundred women, members of the St. Marys County Women's Rural Clubs, will make a pilgrimage to Annapolis on July 12 to visit the historical places and points of interest in the Capital of Maryland. Mrs. Audrey Gardiner, president of the clubs, will be in charge of arrangements for the tour.

D. C. Traffic Deaths Increase During First Half of 1937

10 More Lose Lives Than in Same Period of Last Year, With Total of 55ffi Van Duzer Sounds Warning.

At the half-way mark for 1937, records show that 10 more Washingtonians have met death in traffic than during the same period last year.

By the end of June, 55 persons had been fatally injured on local streets. This was against 45 for the first six months of 1936.

Statistics show, said Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, that Washington may expect a 10 per cent increase in fatal accidents during the final half of this year.

These facts and figures, analyzed yesterday by police and traffic authorities, brought urgent appeals for speedy adoption of new accident prevention methods.

Police Superintendent Ernest W. Brown announced a "drive" against motorists who insist on making turns from improper lanes of traffic. Special orders, he said, would be issued to every members of his command for strict enforcement of this regulation.

June's traffic record showed slight improvement over the previous month—and even the same period for 1936.

Seven persons were killed last month, compared to eight during May and the same number for June, 1936.

A total of 1,154 accidents were reported last month. This was against 1,218 for May. Injured persons numbered 438 during June and 490 during May. During June of last year, 378 persons were injured in 956 accidents.

Van Duzer warned that the balance of 1937 will see fatalities boosted above the 100 mark "if we can't beat the law of averages." Previous records, he said, have shown the majority of persons are killed and injured during the latter months of each year.

"It is up to the individual drivers and pedestrians," Van Duzer said, "to help us cut our toll below last year's."

He cited the proposed District Traffic Safety Commission, now being organized, as one of the year's most important steps toward reducing highway accidents. A semiofficial group, the commission will adopt plans to promote safety on Washington streets.

Johnson Russell, 61, Dies at His Home

Johnson Russell, 61, died yesterday at his home, 1218 Eleventh street northwest, where he had been ill more than two years.

A former resident of Middleburg, Va., where he operated the family estate, he moved to Washington in 1935 when his health failed. Three children, Robert and William, of Middleburg, and Ellen Russell, of Washington, and two sisters, Emma Lee Russell and Cosmelia V. Russell, of Washington, survive.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Middleburg.

Nelson B. Bell About The Showshops

The Day Has Come to Dig Out That Old-Time Slide Which Said, 'Ladies Will Please Remove Their Hats'

Your Reporter Has Himself a Time Dodging the Grotesqueries of Modern Millinery; Special Morning Shows at Palace; Maurice Evans to Launch Repertory Season; Notes of the Amusement World.

"THE time has come," the Walrus said, "to speak of many things; of shoes and ships and sealing wax and cabbage and kings—and women's hats!"

I would not be too sure that the observant and perspicacious Mr. Walrus included the last item in his agenda for discussion with the adventuring Alice in Wonderland, but he should have, for the matter of feminine millinery in our theaters is becoming a problem of acute distress.

BELL.

There was a time when at every projection of a motion picture program an admonitory stencil was flashed on the screen, saying, "Ladies will please remove their hats." It worked with fair success after it became generally known that the management meant it. Of course, that was back in the days of the "picture hat," such as Mae West still likes to affect. The trend seems to be stealthily creeping back in that direction and many a present-day screen program has been ruined for those sitting behind bonnets that assume all sorts of fantastic shapes and bizarre designs.

Not long since, this column attended a downtown, first-run theater and found himself seated behind a young woman wearing an inverted horn of plenty that reared itself into the air to majestic heights. So we moved.

The change of seat proved to be a totally futile gesture. There sat directly in front, this time, an animated young woman with a large phonograph record stuck on the side of her head. This miraculous piece of headgear—I never yet have discovered how the thing was kept on—was worse than the upside-down cornucopia. It slashed elliptical slices out of all parts of the screen, obscuring faces, torsos, legs and feet in turn, depending on where its wearer chose to bob next. So we moved.

On our third try, we looked about a bit and discovered what seemed to be a completely innocuous spot of something on a girl's head and sat down behind that. From the lower elevation of the seat, it became apparent that this gay young thing had planted a spring rose garden around the facade of a brim-curled pancake that cut everybody on the screen off at the knees. This was getting just a little irksome. So I leaned over and asked in my most fascinating Chesterfieldian manner:

"Pardon me, but may I ask you to remove your hat?"

"I don't see why. Nobody else has theirs off."

"I have mine off."

"Humph. Smart guy." Even Byrd or Amundsen would have frozen stiff in the chill that came over her shoulder. So I started to leave.

Having probably been under suspicion of flirting after so many changes of seat, an usher approached and asked, courteously, "May I help you?"

"Yes," I replied in probably one of the highest dudgeons the Capital ever has seen, "run up to Spalding's sporting good store and get me a 16-gauge shot-gun and a handful of shells!"

There ought to be a law.

A card from the Agriculture Players advises that its night of amateur vaudeville has been postponed until "vacation days are over," whenever that may be. I never should have mentioned those hooks in the original announcement.

A special performance each morning, beginning Monday, of a fun-filled musical comedy that holds particular appeal to the Boy Scouts and offers entertainment for every member of the family is being arranged by Loew's Palace Theater.

The attraction will be a pre-release screening of "The Gang Show," featuring Ralph Reader, who wrote the story, songs and lyrics and who is expected to appear in person for the premiere performance at 9:15 a. m., Monday. Mr. Reader organized the now highly successful "Gang Shows" for resentation in Albert Hall and the Scala Theater in London. Appearing in the film with him are Gina Malo, Stuart Robertson and the original London "gang." The "Gang Show" is said to relate a brilliant comedy story, punctuated with sparkling dance numbers and six lilting songs.

Doors at the Palace, starting Monday, will open at 8:45 a. m., with the "Gang Show" scheduled to begin at 9:15. There will be one showing of the picture each morning for five consecutive days. Incidentally, Ralph Reader at one time was a vaudeville partner of Jack Oakie.

Crowding their schedule slightly, the Belasco Theater management closed the engagement of "Ecstasy" on Wednesday night and yesterday presented "Children of Loneliness" as chief feature of the bill. This return engagement conforms to the summer policy of the house by being on view at two evening performances only, at 8 and 10 o'clock.

Maurice Evans sends word from London that he has decided definitely to launch his repertory plan on the Pacific Coast, specifically in San Francsico, with Los Angeles to follow, preparatory to appearing in the chosen series plays in New York later.

This would be at the end of his contemplated tour in "Richard II," which is to open in Boston on October 18, after a return engagement in the St. James Theater, New York, beginning September 15. This tour, which has Washington listed among the bookings for the month of December, will close in Los Angeles May 14. After two weeks of rest and rehearsals, the repertory season will be opened.

A bulletin from New York advises that the Three Weire Brothers are to open in Ben Marden's "Riviera Follies" on July 6, replacing Cross and Dunn. "They come to the Riviera directly from Hollywood, where they have just finished working in Walter Wanger's forthcoming picture of "Fifty-second Street," the enlightening dispatch continues. The Weire Brothers closed a week's engagement at the Earle Theater no longer ago than last night. Evidently the National Capital doesn't count.

Spanish Prince, Cuban to Marry

Havana, July 1 (AP).—The Count of Covadonga, son of former King Alfonso of Spain, announced today he would marry Marta Rocafort, pretty Cuban commoner, Saturday night in Havana.

The ceremony will be performed by a notary with President Federico Laredo Bru, Col. Fulgencio Batista, Col. Jose Pedraza and Maj. Jaime Marine as official witnesses.

In Hollywood

With JIMMY FIDDLER

Hollywood, July 1.—I am no misanthrope, my digestion is excellent and I agree that love is grand, but I do get fed up at times with the Hollywood theory that love is all. Producers shudder at the thought of a picture without a love story—but I think audiences shudder even more when they see otherwise good pictures spoiled by the injection of stupid and illogical romance. Such pictures remind me of boy-and-girl necking in public, the necking may be a swell idea—but the place is all wrong.

Samuel Goldwyn, for instance, has a reputation as a smart showman, and deserves it. But I am willing to lay my neck on the chopping block by challenging his statement that it is impossible to make a successful picture unless the story is tailored especially for women, and that women are interested in nothing but love. I think Sam, in that one matter, is about 20 years behind the times.

One reason why men are in the minority in the average audience is that Hollywood seldom produces pictures that appeal to them. Furthermore, women today are interested in a lot of things beside a kiss, a clinch and a beautiful sunset. In fact, most of the women I know are so well informed about world events that at the average social gathering Fidler keeps his mouth shut—from ignorance.

Understand, I have no quarrel with Dan Cupid—I just hate to see him forcibly dragged in when the story doesn't need his presence.

Met Katherine De Mille, C. B.'s daughter, and she told me with great pride that she is living on $25 a week. "I want to travel," she said, "and so I made up my mind to save money. If a stenographer can live on that small an amount, so can I. It has to pay for all my clothes and my gasoline and everything." I asked her what she does about entertaining.

"That's easy," she explained. "I give all my parties on Dad's yacht!"

For 10 years Earle Reid was the traffic cop at the intersection of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine street. He has long threatened to write a book about star alibis and now that he has retired, you may expect to read before long just what a $5,000-a-week idol has to say when the men in blue ask him, "What's your hurry?"

Every morning, rain or shine, Hobart Bosworth rides along the Beverly Hills bridle path. Few people know that he is largely responsible for Hollywood becoming the production center of the motion picture industry. Back in the very early days, when Essenay in Chicago was the ace studio, Bosworth was matinee idol No. 1 of the screen. When he was at fame's peak, he developed consumption and doctors ordered him to the sea coast. Rather than lose his service, Essenay established a branch studio in a little Los Angeles suburb called Hollywood. As I watch him gallop along the bridle path, it occurs to me that he has done as much for himself as for Hollywood. In his seventies—once a consumptive—Bosworth is now a fine figure of a man. And he handles his horse with a skill that Tom Mix might well envy.

The other day on a studio set, I witnessed a scene more dramatic than the script they were filming. A middle-aged extra woman had a trivial piece of business with the masculine star and he — young soul of chivalry—tried to blame her when he wandered out of camera range and spoiled a scene. I don't suppose a dozen people on that set knew the extra woman was Clara Kimball Young, once the screen's most famous star.

The Mustachio Becomes Vital Issue on Lots

By the United Press.

Hollywood, July 1.—Darryl F. Zanuck, Twentieth Century-Fox film mogul, has sent out his investigators to learn if the gals will go for matinee idol Tyrone Power—with a mustache.

Question came up when script, of the new Fox terrific, "In Old Chicago," called for a handle-bar mustachio to be pasted just south of Power's delicate Roman nose.

The answer was "no," and Gable compromised for a set of 6-inch sideburns, but the decision was based purely on fan mail. It seems thousands of stricken maidens wrote the M-G-Mites that they could not and would not love a Gable in ambush.

Zanuck's hirsute G-men, however, suspected ballot boxes may have been stuffed by the antiwhisker crowd, and have determined to make an objective test of feminine receptivity to mattress stuffing material.

Alternate Plans.

At first it was suggested Power go on a personal appearance tour with a trunkful of chin-wigs to be worn successively, while popular reaction was tested on an applause basis.

But two factors were against that. First, it would take too long and second, the sight of Power leaping on and off stage and changing whiskers at every bound might be construed by the audiences as slightly ridiculous. Power is not a comic—yet.

The current plan has more dignity. Film tests will be made of Power wearing a dozen or more snappy models, and another with the Power chin bare to the Kleig lights.

Then a non-partisan jury of women will be chosen to decide which is the fetchingest.

How the gals will be mustered hasn't been decided, but probably four or five hundred names will be chosen at random from the telephone book.

"Marco Cooper."

Now transpires the exact nature of the disagreement on characterization that caused Edward Cromwell to quit as director of Sam Goldwyn's "Adventures of Marco Polo," Archie Mayo taking over the megaphone.

Cromwell wanted to make an historical epic, with gangling Gary Cooper submerging in the identity of the Venetian trail-blazer. Goldwyn wanted a semi-historical whimsy, with "Marco Polo" playing Gary Cooper.

Rialto

W. C. Fields, radio's new man-of-the-hour, and Spencer Tracey, hailed as the next Motion Picture Academy award winner, moved into the Rialto Theater Wednesday at the head of a brace of revivals that offer everything from music and comedy to romance and melodrama.

Fields returns with Bing Crosby and Joan Bennett in "Mississippi," Booth Tarkington's famous story of the Old South where gentlemen fought duels in the morning, sipped mint juleps at tea time and abducted fair ladies at night. With Bing sporting a mustache, licking a gambler in a free-for-all and singing "Swanee River" like an operatic barytone, it is easily one of his finest roles. But few will deny that W. C., the old showboat captain and Indian fighter who slashed his way through "a wall of hyooman flesh," dragging his canoe behind him, steals the picture even from Bing, Joan Bennett, Gail Patrick, John Miljan and Queenie Smith.

Spencer Tracy, catapulted to new fame by "Fury" and "Captains Courageous," returns with another new radio favorite, Jack Oakie, in "Looking for Trouble." With Tracy as the serious half of the pair of telephone linemen whose adventures range from hilarious romance to nearly tragic heroism in an earthquake, the ability that has suddenly lifted him to fame is curiously apparent. Constance Cummings, Arlene Judge and Judith Wood provide the feminine interest.

The Post's New Yorker

By LEONARD LYONS

New York, July 1.

CELEBRATION: Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., tendered a bachelor dinner at the Harvard Club. Among those invited were a number of hefty football players who are not averse to hurling things about . . . Young Roosevelt wasn't taking any chances. Just before the guests arrived he went downstairs and, to substitute for the precious Harvard Club glassware, purchased glasses, plates and cups—at the 5 and 10c store!

• • • •

ERROR: Robert Irwin's return from Chicago to New York was delayed for some hours because of a mistake made by the New York police in telegraphing authorization for the transfer . . . Instead of "Robert Irwin," the police wired "Arthur Irwin," and made subsequent explanation of the error. Police Commissioner Valentine should understand why the name of "Arthur Irwin" would prey upon the minds of his officials. For Arthur Irwin, until a few months ago, was Valentine's confidential secretary.

• • • •

AWARD: William Brunner, president of the Board of Aldermen, was at Surfside last week-end at a party honoring Arthur Somyak. Brunner made a speech and presented a gold watch to the guest of honor . . . Somyak was nervous in making acknowledgment, "Mr. Whalen," was the first mistake he made, "I shall treasure this gift all my life." Then he sat down—and dropped the watch.

• • • •

FAME: Theatrical agents last night were offering, for personal-appearance engagements, Miss Henrietta Koscianski—the Cleveland pantry maid who discovered Robert Irwin's presence in that city.

• • • •

TEMPER: Harriet Hoctor, the dancer, was one of the featured entertainers who opened in Billy Rose's Fort Worth Centennial Show. Miss Hoctor was somewhat temperamental a few minutes before the premiere, complaining about the costumes . . . When her plaints had been assuaged, Miss Hoctor heard her cue, walked onstage, with great dignity, to start her dance—and tripped!

• • • •

LAMENT: Beatrice Lillie sat with Sidney Kingsley, the playwright, and E. Duryea Dowling, the Shubert producer. Miss Lillie lamented about the fact that her son, Sir Robert Peel, has neglected to write letters . . . Kingsley drew his dress handkerchief from his pocket. "Usually," he explained, "when I do this, out falls a pipe." Dowling drew his handkerchief. "Usually," he said, "out falls a note from Lee or Jake Shubert." . . . Miss Lillie opened her purse. "Uusually," she sighed—"no letter from Bobby!"

• • • •

ENTERPRISE: Sam and Bella Spewack are building a country home in New Hope, Pa., and are disappointed at the slow progress. "It's these country carpenters here," Bob Foulk, their decorator, explained. "I have 2 carpenters here and they're very slow." The Spewacks then directed him to employ 12 carpenters to rush the job. Two days later the playwrights came to New Hope, entered their home and discovered the 12 carpenters—harmonizing "Sweet Adeline."

• • • •

PENALTY: To preserve the peace of their household, a new holding company has been formed at the Heywood Brouns. Mrs. Broun is president, first vice president and second vice president. Heywood is third vice president . . . The company's assets are the accumulation of penalties paid by Broun as follows: 10 cents for every mention of "Labor" at home. $1.00 fine every time he mentions C. I. O. at home. And $5.00 fine for mentioning John L. Lewis . . . "The reason the 'Labor' mention is cheap," Broun explains, "is because I must have some leeway—for instance, if I come home and tell her: 'My uncle got off easy today. The judge sentenced him to only ten days' hard labor!'"

• • • •

OMEN: Mr. and Mrs. Thodore Dreiser and Publicist David Green week-ended at Asbury Park and walked along the Boardwalk. Dreiser became intrigued by a combination sand artist-fortune teller . . . He dropped a penny into the slot, watched it go down a chute and clutched at the card which appeared for him. It read: "WATCH YOUR STEP TONIGHT!"

• • • •

DEFEAT: Three weeks ago the dance team of Pierce and Harris was signed to open at the St. Regis. The night before the opening, Pierce broke his arm and the team of Ramon and Renita substituted for them . . . Monday night Pierce and Harris again was scheduled to open at the St. Regis. Again Pierce broke his arm . . . and again Ramon and Renita substituted.

The Coup Without a Name.

One of the rarest of plays has been titled "The coup without a name." Briefly, it consists in killing the dangerous opponent's entry by forcing his partner to win a trick. The unusual method in which this is done is illustrated in today's hand.

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North: ♠ K Q 10 9 4 ♡ 8 ◇ K 8 4 ♣ A 9 3 2

West: ♠ 6 5 2 ♡ A 6 4 ◇ A Q J 10 3 2 ♣ 6

East: ♠ A J 8 3 ♡ 9 7 ◇ 9 7 6 5 ♣ K 7 4

South: ♠ 7 ♡ K Q J 10 5 3 2 ◇ — ♣ Q J 10 8 5

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	1 ♠	1 N T	4 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the six of clubs, and declarer considered his problems. It seemed inconceivable that West could be leading low from the King. His lead was, therefore, marked as a singleton or the top of a doubleton. If that were so, South was bound to lose a club trick in addition to a heart and a spade. Superficially, therefore, there was no danger.

But South was alive to a danger inherent in any hand when the opening lead is from a short suit: An adverse ruff. In this case the danger was that West would take the Ace of hearts, get to his partner's hand via the Ace of spades, after which East would cash the King of clubs and give his partner a club ruff. The bidding indicated that this fear was more than idle vagary, since East's free notrump response practically marked the Ace of spades in his hand.

South's problem, therefore, was to prevent East from winning a trick with the Ace of spades. His only resource was to avail himself of the "coup without a name."

The first trick was won with dummy's Ace of clubs, and the King of diamonds was promptly returned! On this extraordinary lead South pitched his losing spade. Apparently South had done nothing more than exchange a diamond loss for a spade loss—but the effect also was to deprive East of his entry.

The reward for South's virtuosity was the winning of the rubber game. No other play would have made his contract for him.

U. S. Veteran Recalls Part in Somme Battle

Capt. Murray, Who Served With British Troops, Speaks on Air.

Capt. James D'Orsay Murray, American World War veteran who served with the British forces, last night disclosed some of his recollections of the Battle of the Somme, which took place 20 years ago.

"It was difficult for an American to join the British army," Capt. Murray said, "but I told them I was born in Orange, N. J. One of the officers heard the word 'Jersey' and remarked, 'They're pouring in from all over the empire,' and I was commissioned."

At the time of the Somme engagement Capt. Murray was serving on the staff of Lieut. Gen. B. R. Kerwin, the commander of the British army which took part in the battle. "I remember the hot steaming day," he continued, "when the five-day preliminary bombardment ceased at zero hour and our troops began to advance in the deathly stillness which settled across the field."

"As the attack continued the men began to sing, the bands played 'Tipperary' and 'There's a Long, Long Trail' to keep up the spirits of our forces. Our men were advancing rapidly, and quickly reached the first lines of the German trenches, apparently cleared of life by the bombardment. However, when we got there we found that the enemy had burrowed into the sides of his defenses, from which he loosed a withering machine-gun fire upon us."

The objective of the engagement, in which 30,000 men were killed, was to take seven lines of trenches. "The German defense was so well organized," Capt. Murray said, "that it took us two months to occupy the lines we had planned to take in three hours."

In recognition of Dominion Day, Canada's Fourth of July, Capt. Murray last night spoke over a National Broadcasting Co. hookup. Locally he was heard over WMAL.

2 Men Sentenced In Najjum Murder

The death of James Najjum, insurance salesman, 54, found beaten and robbed in a Maryland field, brought prison sentences to two men in District Court yesterday.

Robert W. Meinzer, 23, who had pleaded guilty to second degree murder, received a 20-year term, while Lawrence N. Ricker, also 23, was sentenced to from 3 to 15 years after pleading guilty to manslaughter.

Najjum died three days after two men and a girl offered him a ride in a taxicab. He was robbed of $18 and a watch.

Revival of Sun Dance Attracts 1,000 Indians

Cannonball, N. Dak., July 1 (AP). Revival of a long-suppressed Indian ceremonial, the colorful sun dance, drew approximately 1,000 Indians from Montana, North and South Dakota to this community today.

Authorities decreed in 1880 that the dance could no longer be performed because of the excitement it created.

88 Poor Boys and Girls Sent to Camp Bennett

Eighty-eight boys and girls between 6 and 12, all drawn from underprivileged families, left Washington yesterday for a two-week vacation at Camp Bennett, Brookeville, Md.

Bogus Money Ring Broken Up in Texas

Dallas, July 1 (AP).—Forrest V. Sorrells, United States Secret Service agent in charge of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, said today an international counterfeiting ring which in three years spread 10,000 bogus bank notes through Mexico, Cuba and the United States had been broken up.

He said Mexican authorities had seized the plant where the notes were manufactured in Mexico City. Three men, he said, were arrested, convicted and are awaiting sentence there.

Two men given 23-year prison sentences in Dallas several months ago were members of the ring, Sorrells said. The notes distributed in this country were of $20 denomination.

D. C. Man Shoots Daughter and Self

An enraged colored man yesterday shot his 16-year-old daughter in the leg and then critically wounded himself at his home, 809 First street northeast.

Police said the man had shot at his wife and the bullet struck the daughter. A third shot went wild.

Scout Cyclist Hurt When He Hits Truck

The accident occurred on Highway Bridge. Nash was taken to Naval Hospital, where physicians said his condition was serious.

Driver of the truck was William Carter, of Arlington, Va. He was not held.

Court Asked by TVA to Deny Power Writ

By the Associated Press.

The Tennessee Valley Authority asked the Supreme Court yesterday to deny a petition of the Georgia Power Co. for a writ of certiorari on lower court TVA victories in Georgia and the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

The power company sought the writ after the Georgia District Court had refused to restrain TVA power-selling activities the company said were unconstitutional, and after the appellate court had refused to permit the company to shift its attack against TVA to Federal courts in Tennessee.

Police Eject Protesters At WPA Headquarters

Thirty men and women from Philadelphia, protesting WPA layoffs there, were ushered bodily from Works Progress headquarters yesterday. They had insisted upon seeing Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and refused to leave. Some workers claimed police struck them and knocked them down, but a WPA official described the affairs as "quite mild."

Job-Hunters

If you're looking for work, let an inexpensive "Situations Wanted" ad in The Post do your job-hunting. "Situations Wanted" ads in The Post cost only one-half of the regular want ad rate . . . or 27 cents for a 3-line ad.

4,000 Scouts Exhibit Skill Before Fellows

'Cavalcade' Is Watched by Remaining 23,000 Jamboree Youths.

America will participate in the movement's national council meeting on the Jamboree grounds. One of them is a Washingtonian, Colin H. Livingstone, first head of the B. S. A., who served as president 15 years following its incorporation here on February 8, 1910.

The other charter members of the board of directors are Daniel Carter (Uncle Dan) Beard, of Suffern, N. Y., honorary vice president and national Scout commissioner; John Sherman Hoyt, of Darien, Conn., and William D. Murray, of New York.

President Walter W. Head, of St. Louis, will preside at the first council meeting ever held in the midst of a national Scout encampment. Main order of business will be the annual election of council officers and consideration of a retirement plan for organization employes.

A carefree potpourri of autograph hunting, impromptu stunts, oceans of russet canvas and the aroma of steaming soup rising of hundreds of mess tents, the encampment again yesterday attracted thousands of sightseers. From reveille until taps, the 350-acre reservation along the Potomac was a city throbbing with band music, endless rehearsals and swapfests, and it will continue to be very much the same until the boys say farewell to the Nation's Capital a week from today.

The scouting movement was indorsed yesterday by Aleph Zadik Aleph, four representatives of the Jewish fraternity presenting to Chief Scout Executive James E. West a resolution which was adopted at the recent international convention of the organization.

Convocation Program.

The greetings of A. Z. A. were extended to Dr. West by Lowell Adelson, Jerome Vogel, Eugene Love and Milton Reisman. They were accompanied by Rabbi Philip Bookstaber, leader of a group of Jamboree scouts from Harrisburg, Pa., who will attend the World Jamboree in Holland at the close of the American encampment.

The complete program for the grand national convocation at the foot of Washington Monument Sunday night was made public yesterday. Opening at 6:15 o'clock with a concert by the Marine Band, the ceremonies will include addresses by President Head, Dr. West, the Rev. Israel Goldstein, the Most Rev. Joseph F. Rummell, archbishop of New Orleans; President J. Reuben Clark, of the Church of Latter Day Saints and the Rev. William C. Covert, chairman of the Protestant committee on scouting.

Lanny Ross, radio artist, will sing Kipling's "Recessional" and lead the boys in "The Scoutmaster's Prayer." The Right Rev. Phillips Cook, bishop of the Delaware diocese, will give the invocation and the benediction will be pronounced by the Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, archbishop of Dubuque.

"The purpose of this assembly," officials said, "is to objectify our allegiance to the religious principles which undergird our national life. It is not a union service of worship. It is our united expression of loyal support of the spiritual forces which have contributed so much to the progress and well-being of our people from the foundation of this republic."

Suffolk Officials Seek Mrs. Parsons

Stony Brook, N. Y., July 1 (AP).—Officials of the Suffolk County district attorney's office conferred with members of the family of Mrs. Alice McDonell Parsons for the first time since her disappearance June 9.

Stepping in after Federal investigators had relinquished immediate direction of the investigation, Assistant District Attorney Lindsay Henry conversed with William H. Parsons, the missing woman's husband; Mrs. Anna Kupryanova, her guest companian; the latter's son Roy, and Frank McDonell, Mrs. Parsons' brother.

The subject of the discussion was not disclosed.

Henry's visit was preceded by a call from two of his assistants and a Federal agent, who talked briefly with Parsons.

Henry obtained a sample of Mrs. Parsons' writing to compare with a scribbled note found on the street near Lillington, N. C., which read: "I am being held near Raleigh.—Mrs. Parsons."

Scout Who Went to Antarctic Talks to Group at Jamboree

By Jack Parker—Troop 5.
Post Special Jamboree Reporter.

Yesterday I was introduced to Paul Siple, the Eagle Scout, who accompanied Admiral Byrd on his polar expedition. I didn't have an opportunity to talk with him, as he was in a hurry to attend to other business. As our troop was eating lunch, however, Paul returned to say a few words to us. He was immediately taken into a huddle by anxious autograph seekers and admirers, who surrounded him several rows deep. A few cameras were on hand and Paul obligingly posed for them. I think he is a great fellow.

JACK PARKER.

I pedaled down to Hains Point yesterday afternoon for a bit of relaxation and met a Scout from Whitefish, Mont. Albert Hartman is 16 and a Life Scout. He joined the Scouts at the age of 12. In his troop back home, Troop 17, he is the patrol leader. I say "the" because there is only one patrol in his troop of ten boys.

He is planning to become a mechanical draftsman. He has now mechanical drawing merit badge, along with 26 others. He lacks three badges for Eagle: life-saving, swimming and bird study.

He says he enjoys fishing and hunting, besides playing football. He was end on his school team, but had to give up playing in order to concentrate more on his lessons.

"But I never miss seeing a game," he said.

By saving every penny of what he earned from a paper route for the last six months, Al had a saving of over $80 before he came to the Jamboree. He paid his own registration fee, although his folks could well have done so, because he thinks "I'll enjoy it a lot more if I feel I have earned it myself." His dad works with one of the main railroads and secured Al a pass for his train fare here.

As a closing remark I asked him how he likes the Jamboree. "I like it a lot and I am having a swell time," he said. And then, "If it just wouldn't rain for a few days, I'd have a much better time. It hasn't failed to rain one night since I've been here."

As I was leaving his camp for the road back to the city, I met H. G. (Pop) Lewis, Scoutmaster of Troops 4 and 52 at Fort Worth, Tex.

Pop brought with him to the Jamboree a number of horned toads, and I wanted one. I thought he would sell one for cash, but he won't accept money. He said, "I'd rather swap with you than take money." I had nothing with me to swap, so Pop gave me a toad, anyway. After I had thanked him for his gift and was preparing to leave, Pop called after me: "He'll grow three feet!" And I thought of the future when I would have a 3-foot monster crawling around the house. Then Pop added: "They usually grow four, but he's had one cut off!" Sure enough, my toad had one foot missing. That was a relief!

Scouts' Pelican Swims Away Down Potomac

Pelican calls mingled with the thousand other noises of the Boy Scout Jamboree yesterday, as Scouts from Pelican Patrol, of Sanford and Orlando, Fla., searched for their lost mascot.

The mascot, a hearty pelican, swam down the Potomac River, and not even the combined efforts of the Pelican Patrol could locate the lost pet.

County Cuts Tax Rate.

Westminster, Md., July 1.—The county commissioners of Carroll County have fixed the tax rate for the levy of the year beginnig today at $1.05 on the $100 assessable basis. Of the $1.05 the schools get .801 cents and the county .248 cents. This represents a reduction of 5 cents in the county rate.

Memphis Scouts Paid Visit by U. S. Leaders

President Walter Head of the Boy Scout movement in America walked unannounced and unnoticed into the Memphis encampment at the Jamboree yesterday. After a few minutes, however, he was recognized and pressed into service to present Eagle Scout awards to three Memphis Scouts.

They were Shelton Douglas, Bill Edge and Wesley Goyer. Senator George L. Berry (Democrat), of Tennessee, also visited the Memphis encampment yesterday. The Memphis delegation includes 105 Scouts and officers.

Presents Credentials.

Oslo, Norway, July 1 (AP).—Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, new United States minister, today presented her credentials to King Haakon.

Scout Pageant To Show Early History Scenes

Second Performance of 'Cavalcade' to Be Given Tonight.

Elaborate pageantry depicting the first Thanksgiving, the Yankee Clipper trade and other historical events close to the hearts of New Englanders will be presented at the second performance tonight of "Cavalcade of Scouting" in Washington Monument grounds.

Members of the huge cast will be boys from the New England States, New York and New Jersey. The opening display will reproduce Colonial ceremonies featuring the Pilgrim leaders, Gov. Bradford, John Alden and Miles Standish, and the famous Indian chiefs, Massasoit, Samoset and Squanto.

In the succeeding spectacle, "Down to the Sea in Ships," 400 boys will take the roles of deep-sea fishermen and crew members of clipper ships. Then the Scouts, throwing off their costumes, will become 1937 jamboreenos, building pyramids, boxing, wrestling and demonstrating their prowess in other ways.

Calling the Roll Of Siamese Scouts Is Difficult Task

The Scouts with the most unpronounceable names in camp are also among the most scholarly. They are Siamese, all five of them.

Arriving yesterday in Jamboree City, this is how they registered: Tom Siribongse Boon - Long, leader of the quintet; Boorod Binson (that's easy, but just wait); Boolua Jubandhur, Vija Seshthaputra and—take a deep breath—Kaisui Nimmanahaeminda.

All are native Siamese, but they did not come here directly from their native homeland. They have been in the United States for several years rounding out their higher education. Nimmanahaeminda plans to return to Siam next year, following his graduation from the Harvard University School of Business Administration, and his four fellow countrymen will sail when they've finished their academic work here.

Boon-Long, who is particularly interested in agriculture, is a Cornell graduate. Binson is a graduate student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where Jubandhu is a sophomore, and Sreshthaputra a junior.

Special Archives Exhibition Lures Swarms of Boy Scouts

Among the sights of Washington that daily attract swarms of Jamboreeing Boy Scouts is the National Archives. In the exhibition hall of the building a special display has been planned for the young visitors.

The chief drawing card of the collection, which consists chiefly of material from the Senate files, is the original act passed by Congress in 1916 incorporating the Boy Scouts of America. Also on display are originals of the amendments to the Constitution.

Guides are on hand to point out to the boys that the thirteenth amendment, abolishing slavery, is the only one which bears a President's signature.

The manuscript of a treaty made by "Mad" Anthony Wayne with the Western Indians in 1795 has also attracted considerable attention, particularly because of the rude animal drawings affixed to it to represent the various tribes.

A logbook of the U. S. S. Constitution is opened to the entry made the day word was received of the end of the War of 1812. Other items include the first Senate pay-roll list, the resolution made in 1801 to give the Supreme Court the temporary use of a Congressional committee room, bills relating to the design of the American flag and Washington's list of nominations for the first Cabinet officers.

Single Boy Scout Represents India

The India delegation of one to the Boy Scout Jamboree arrived yesterday and immediately made himself at home under canvas.

He is Manck Vajifsar, of Bombay, who, like the representatives of the Philippines and China, is representing all of the Boy Scouts in his homeland. His arrival at Section Q, the international colony tented along Constitution avenue west of the Monument, brought the "League of Nations" census to 1,261.

Four hundred of the Q-boys are from foreign countries and the remainder are Americans who will attend the World Jamboree in Holland.

W. W. Smith Quits Attorneyship Race

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., July 1.—W. Worth Smith, of Louisa, today withdrew from the race for the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

The former Senator, who Monday demanded that John Galleher withdraw and leave the race to Smith and Attorney General A. P. Staples, today made good his promise to get out if Galleher did not. In his speech Monday, Smith said Galleher could not win "even if I get out."

Receiving a telegram from Galleher, who declined to withdraw, on his arrival here today Smith said:

"Mr. Galleher has not withdrawn. My statement made in an address before the Young Democratic Clubs Monday night at Newport News stands as made."

Ozlin Indorses Holt.

Richmond, July 1 (AP).—Thomas W. Ozlin, of Kenbridge, a member of the State Corporation Commission, added his indorsement today to the candidacy of State Senator Saxon W. Holt, of Newport News, for lieutenant governor.

State Senator John A. Lesner and Delegates Richard W. Ruffin and Edward L. Breeden, jr., of Norfolk, also indorsed Holt's candidacy yesterday.

Comdr. Spencer Divorced.

100 Scouts Feted By Murphy Store

A party for 100 Boy Scouts, most of them from McKeesport, Pa., home town of the Murphy stores chain, was given Wednesday night by the local Murphy store on F street.

E. E. Harter read greetings from the store's officials, W. C. Shaw, vice president and general sales manager, and Edgar M. Mack, vice president and treasurer. Seventeen employes of the store, who are Scouts, were introduced, and greetings were extended by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, and Representative James L. Quinn, of McKeesport.

Double Wedding Will Feature Fair

Louisa, Va., July 1.—One of the attractions at the Louisa Volunteer Firemen's fair on July 5 will be a public wedding in which two couples will participate. The identity of the brides and bridegrooms will not be revealed until the ceremony.

Twelve ushers and twelve bridesmaids with flower girls and ring bearers have been chosen from Louisa, Orange, Albemarle and Fluvanna counties. The maids of honor and the best men will be selected by the couples. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 p. m. on a decorated platform before about 5,000 spectators.

Cumberland Confers With Experts on Span

Cumberland, Md., July 1 (AP).—Cumberland's cross-town vehicular bridge, spanning the business section and two railroads, moved a step closer to reality today when the council conferred with two consulting engineers as to plans and cost of the structure.

Representatives of the firm of Harrington & Cortelyou, of Kansas City and Washington, were permitted to survey the bridge site and report tomorrow morning to the council.

Oran Rightist Wounded.

Oran, Algeria, July 1 (AP).—Police announced today Abbe Lambert, Nationalist mayor of Oran and chief of the Algerian Union of Rightest parties, had been seriously wounded by an assassin.

The news caused a sensation in Oran, where political quarters feared it might be the spark setting off the rivalry of Rightists and members of the People's Front in French North Africa.

Scouts' Exhibit Displays Feats Of Paul Bunyan

Wisconsin Group Honors Strength of Mythical American.

Paul Bunyan, favorite mythical character of the North Woods country, is present in spirit at the Boy Scout Jamboree through the ingenuity of Gitchie Gumee Council of Northern Wisconsin.

The group has established an exhibit on the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, just west of Highway Bridge, which testifies to the prodigious strength of the fellow who made a sissy of Hercules and an anemic weakling of Samson.

Illustrating a few of Paul Bunyan's feats, the display purports to convince visitors that he actually leveled trees around the mess hall when he blew his dinner horn and fished for trout with a 4-foot hook and a steel cable for a line.

The exhibit is only one of hundreds which dot the 350-acre encampment in East and West Potomac Parks, on Columbia Island and along the Memorial Highway.

In the international section, where 400 boys from 25 foreign countries are bivouacked, one of the most popular displays is the one sponsored by the Lithuanians. It consists of a border of sand and brick dust with shells interspersed at points along the edge and is an example of native art.

Thousands of Washingtonians are expected to view the various displays before the Jamboree strikes camp July 9. The public is invited to inspect the reservation daily between 7 a. m. reveille and 10 p. m. taps.

Fourth Victim Dies in Wreck Of W. Va. Train

N. & W. Locomotive Plunges Off Trestle, Bursts Into Flames.

By the Associated Press.

Bluefield, W. Va., July 1.—A freight train wreck, which Norfolk & Western officials said was the worst in the history of its Pocahontas division, left four men dead today, a 580-foot trestle partially destroyed and 600 feet of track torn away.

Two were killed when the locomotive and 44 of the train's 89 cars plunged off the trestle at Maybeury, W. Va., last night, the body of a third was found in the wreckage today and another died of a crushed pelvis and fractured vertebrae.

The dead are:

Clark Maxey, 20, son of J. J. Maxey, Maybeury section foreman.

W. W. Sneed, 56, Bluefield, the engineer.

M. Ezra Mahaffa, 45, Bluefield, fireman.

Maxey's body was discovered in the wreckage under the trestle where he apparently had been trapped as he climbed a steep incline toward his home.

The Norfolk & Western general manager's office at Roanoke reported 30 of the wrecked cars burned, and the heavy mallet locomotive, which alone cost approximately $100,000, exploded when it plunged to U. S. highway 22 beside the trestle.

A tank car of gasoline, tumbling with other cars of "manifest freight," spilled its contents into the flames.

Firemen from Welch, Bluefield, Keystone and Bramwell battled the fire from early in the night until 3 a. m. today, but were forced to let the flames virtually burn themselves out.

The railway said service over the section of damaged trestle and trackage probably could not be restored until some time Saturday night.

The railway said the cause of the accident had not been determined today.

Md. Woman Released on Bond in Slaying

Cumberland, Md., July 1 (AP).—Mrs. Bessie Braithwaite, 24, of Westernport, ordered held by a coroner's jury for the fatal shooting of Alonzo Baker Tuesday afternoon, was released on bond today for action of the October grand jury.

Bond was set by the two judges of the Circuit Court at $5,000. After a habeas corpus writ had been filed by Mrs. Braithwaite's attorney.

Welfare Laws Held Invitation To Dependency

Relief Official Suggests Preventive Program in Child Work.

By Christine Sadler.

The best way to care for dependent and delinquent children—in the opinion of Washington's welfare workers—is to prevent them from becoming dependents and delinquents.

Although that sounds well enough, there is much more to the question of preventive social welfare than meets with legal approval in the District. That is why the more than 70 agencies lined up behind the new juvenile court bill, the adoption bill, and the bill which would revise the District's public welfare act are concentrating their efforts behind "congressional action before the summer is over."

As the child welfare laws of Washington stand today, they are an invitation to dependency. The District can take over the custody of children quite easily, but it cannot extend help to them in their own homes nor—because of staff inadequacies—go into their homes to patch up the family difficulties that make them dependents.

D. C. Rate Is Third.

As a consequence, Washington stands third in the United States in its percentage of dependent children. Eighteen hundred are in its custody, only 9 per cent of them orphans and only 29 per cent of them half orphans.

"We can cut down dependency by at least one-fifth a year if the proposed laws are enacted," Miss A. Patricia Morss, head of the child welfare division of the Board of Public Welfare, declared.

"Preventive medicine is accepted by everyone, but preventive social welfare is just coming into being. We can see the need for it especially clearly here because we have been prevented from doing the usual amount."

Miss Moore has in mind a five-year preventive program—when and if the new bills are made the law. She said the plan can be inaugurated gradually, with two new case workers added each year until a staff of 12 is operating it efficiently.

Can Be Started in Schools.

"The work can be started easily through the schools. Teachers always know when 'there is trouble at home.' The emotional reactions of the child are plainly visible. The teacher does not have the time to go into the case history and do a piece of social welfare work, although in 7 cases out of 10—possibly—the home break could be prevented.

"Often there are economic causes for the family friction, but we have had no way to give economic aid unless the child was committed to the agency's custody. This doubtless has encouraged parents to sidestep their responsibilities."

"Once the tie is broken, it is difficult to reknit it. The emotional effect on the child is difficult to remedy. The reaction to being 'boarded out as a city ward' when parents are living often leads to permanent maladjustments.

"So many things can cause a home to split up—often things that can be remedied quite easily and to the happiness of everyone. Perhaps it is just advice, perhaps medical attention, maybe a little more money.

In Washington 4-year-olds and 5-year-olds and almost all ages of children are given into the guardianship of the city because their parents are in financial difficulties and this seems an easy way out. Due to lack of staff, applications for aid are not scrutinized with a view of patching up their cause. And if the cause should be found to be financial, the board of welfare would have to "take over" the child before aiding it.

Court Action Needed.

If a mother needs hospitalization for six months, a court procedure is necessary today before the child welfare department can assume responsibility for her children. This is an expensive undertaking as far as the city is concerned and is filled with red tape as far as the mother is concerned. Under the proposed new law, judicial findings will not be necessary—but only the findings of the welfare department.

Last year, a total of 443 children was "received" by the department—some as temporary wards and some until they reached their majority. A total of $680,866 was spent through the department to care for dependent children in foster homes, at the National Training School for Boys, at the Independent Home School in Blue Plains, at the National Training School for Girls, and at the Independent Home School for Boys and Girls, on Wisconsin avenue. This was in addition to money spent through the Community Chest and in private agencies.

To put the proposed new program of preventive social welfare into effect will cost additional money at first because of increased personnel and duplication of programs. But in the long run, it costs less—even in money—to care for children in their own homes.

"And once we have the family aid and preventive program going, parents will come to us with their problems. They come already, but we can do nothing for them," Miss Morss said.

Shea Gives Up Federal Post At Age of 72

Treasury Veteran Praised for Record of Economy.

John V. Shea, senior clerk in the division of printing at the Treasury Department, ended 56 years in Government service when he left his office at the Treasury Building yesterday afternoon.

Twice during the past two years President Roosevelt has prolonged the date of Shea's retirement, after officials had insisted it would be impossible to replace him. Shea was 72 years old this month.

He entered the printing office service in 1881, and nine years later was transferred to the Treasury Department. For many years he was in charge of bookbinding.

President Wilson, in promoting Shea to the classified service as a clerk by Executive order, in March, 1916, said:

"Shea is an exceptionally loyal and efficient worker, and has performed services which have been of great convenience and economy to the department."

On his retirement Shea also received a letter from Secretary Morgenthau, who called his record "noteworthy," and praised his work in saving the Government many thousands of dollars.

Shea, whose present home is at 2309 Edmonston avenue, Baltimore, Md., has commuted daily for the past four years from home to office.

Treasury officials said yesterday only one member of the department has a record of service longer than Shea's.

By the Associated Press.

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 1.—After a visit with President Roosevelt at his Hyde Park home today, Edward Stanley, executive editor of Associated Press News Photo Service, and Fred Ferguson, president of Acme News Picture Service, made the following statement:

"We called on the President at his invitation and laid before him our points of view with reference to the situation arising over the taking of pictures on Jefferson Island last week.

"We did not make any request for action on the part of the President. We merely wanted him to understand fully our position in the matter.

"We told the President that we did not feel that there had been any impropriety or violation of the agreements that we or other reputable news or photographic organizations maintained with the White House.

"We believe that the matter is being amicably and amiably adjusted in our negotiations with Secretary Early."

White House officials said they considered the matter a closed incident.

Stephen Early, White House secretary, issued a ban on the two services' taking pictures at Hyde Park after both had obtained photographs at the Chief Executive's Jefferson Island conference last week despite Early's instructions no cameramen were to be allowed. The photographs were taken by Congressmen guests and released through the two services.

THE MAGAZINE FOR MEN

The 1937 Ford V-8 PICK-UP picks up more—

No other Pick-Up in America gives you all of these money-saving features

TWO V-8 ENGINES—An improved 85 H.P. truck engine for heavy-duty and high-speed work, and a 60 H.P. engine for light duty and house-to-house deliveries.

EITHER ENGINE EXCHANGEABLE—on the Ford engine and parts exchange plan—factory reconditioning of the cylinder assembly and many other parts cuts Ford maintenance to the bone.

TORQUE-TUBE AND RADIUS ROD DRIVE—Keeps axles in perfect alignment—insures even braking. Adds to rigidity of chassis.

QUICK-ACTION SAFETY BRAKES—fully energized type, with lining area of 186 square inches and ribbed drums provide sure, smooth stopping.

FOR city use or in the country there is almost no limit to the number of things you can carry in the handy Ford V-8 Pick-Up—milk cans, nursery shrubs, plumbing fixtures, chicken feed, odd packages and cases.

And this year, the Pick-Up picks up more than ever—load space has been increased to 73" in length, 46" in width and 17" to the top of the sturdy steel Ford body.

NOW—two V-8 Engine sizes

In addition, there are two V-8 engines. An improved 85 H.P. truck engine for heavy-duty, high-speed work. A thrifty 60 H.P. engine for short hauls with frequent stops. The "60" is by far the most economical V-8 in Ford history.

"It is the best all-round job I've ever owned," is the reaction of a typical owner. "It has all of the power and speed that I need for my work. In addition it provides comfortable transportation in any weather." SEE YOUR FORD DEALER

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

57-Year-Old Employer Makes Love to 20-Year-Old Secretary, Who, Distracted, Asks Advice.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Last winter, after graduating from business college, I went to work as secretary to a prominent business man. I was 20, and this being my first real job, I was no end thrilled. I have been employed now for a period of six months. My problem is this: For the past two months my boss has been telling me that he is violently in love with me. He is 57, and at first I thought it was merely a flirtation, whatever it is that some men of his age experience.

* * * *

He has never said or done anything in the least insulting; never more than brushing my cheeks with his lip. In fact, he has been so nice that I sometimes feel ashamed of my own prudishness. But I can never return the love he pours out on me. In fact, I dearly love someone else who would be inexpressibly shocked if he knew of this situation in the office. I have tried to explain to my boss that I admire him as a fine man and kind employer, but he wants me to say I love him.

* * * *

To make the problem still worse, he is married and has a large family; and I have been persuaded to accept occasional gifts from him, one an expensive piece of jewelry. I feel terribly depressed and bad. I want to end this affair somehow. For if my family or friends even dreamed of this thing, I should surely commit suicide. Shall I return the gifts and seek a new job? Or just stay in his employ and keep on telling him, as persistently as he asks, that I shall never love him? If I quitted the job, my family would demand an explanation, as they have complete faith in me.

* * * *

This is the first time in my life anything of this sort has happened to me. I hope you are convinced that I have not gone out looking for trouble and also that I am really worried about this; so worried, in fact, that I am exhausted and everything makes me nervous these days. Please help me if you can.

MISS WORRIED.

The Thing to Do.

DEAR MISS WORRIED: Gather together all the gifts your employer has given you and return them to him at once. Tell him, with quiet positiveness, that if ever again he speaks of love to you, your resignation therewith becomes automatically effective. If he reacts angrily, resign immediately. If he reacts decently, give him another chance. After all, he may be more of a fool than a potential villain (it is hard to judge) and stern treatment may bring him to his senses.

* * * *

I must warn you, however, that you have compromised yourself to what might prove to be an embarrassing degree, through accepting his gifts and listening to—even though protesting—his love-making. He might just happen to be sufficiently unprincipled to threaten you with scandal if you move to resign; in the sense, I mean, of retorting to any accusations you might make concerning his unethical address, by saying: "Well, you didn't have to take my gifts, did you? And you didn't have to listen to my love-making, did you? Any girl who found me really objectionable could have, and probably would have, slapped my face, you know." He might say, "Now, you try to tell people your version of this thing; and I'll tell them mine. Which do you think they're going to believe?"

* * * *

As a matter of fact, he may be just foolish enough to interpret your mistaken courtesy as indicative of girlish shyness rather than disinterest. You may be doing him a real service in setting him right concerning just how deeply you are distressed over the situation. And in any event, don't be afraid to act forthrightly in bringing the situation to order. If resignation is unavoidable, tell your family as much of the truth as is necessary. You can simply say, if you like, that your employer had begun to take too personal an interest in you; an interest which made it uncomfortable for you to work with him, and that you wanted to get out of his office before anything in the way of a disagreeable scene eventuated.

* * * *

Don't brood over the matter. It's ridiculous to melodramatize it to the point of contemplating suicide, regardless of who might know the whole truth of the situation. The business world is well acquainted with the phenomena of foolishly fond elderly employers who ogle and court their pretty girl employes; although I must say most of the latter are not so naively kind as yourself, and know full well how to deal tactfully yet effectively with such nuisances.

M. H.

Tomorrow's Problem.

When out-of-town friends come, by invitation, for a week-end visit as house guests, and bring with them a third person who puts up at a hotel but enters into the house party program without waiting on invitation, what is a well-bred hostess to do? She doesn't wish to offend her invited friends, but resents intensely the presence of the "fifth wheel." This question will be answered here tomorrow. This column appears Sunday and daily.

She Bites Her Nails.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have had a habit of biting my nails ever since I was a child, and try as I will, I cannot seem to break the habit. I have tried everything and nothing seems to do any good. My hands are a constant source of embarrassment to me, besides being an actual detriment in that they mar an otherwise fairly attractive appearance. I pick at my fingers constantly and bite my nails unconsciously, while reading or resting. I suppose it is a nervous habit which has grown with the years. But how can I oversome it?

SELF-CONSCIOUS.

* * * *

DEAR SELF-CONSCIOUS: The best method of overcoming the nail-biting habit is to put one's hands in the care of a manicurist, so to speak. No matter how misshapen and short your nails may be at the moment, see a manicurist immediately and have her do the best she can. See her thereafter at least once a week, regularly, or oftener if you like. The oftener your nails are groomed by a specialist, the more reluctant will you be to spoil whatever form has been bestowed. It may require several months to restore them to normal shapeliness and length, but persevere. Will power and a manicurist are your best, in fact, your only allies. I speak from experience. I was once a nail-biter myself.

M. H.

Fetching 'Widow' Ensemble for Midsummer

Not only a smart dress, but a cool one is this black sheer midsummer daytime frock. Developments in rayon yarn made possible its smooth surface, its crisp effect. Note the youthful one-piece styling with slightly broadened shoulders and new V-neck line. The shiny grain trim on the pillbox bandeau matches the sleek cord piping on the dress. Shoes and gloves are black doeskin.

Black Costumes for Street, Afternoon, Evening Gaining Popularity as Summer Heat Increases

IF YOU have long felt that widows had all the advantages in life, now is your opportunity to step out and steal some of their sartorial thunder. For the all-black ensemble is one of the newest developments for midsummer.

Black with white accessories has long been popular with women who have sought distinction in summer clothes. But the unrelieved black ensemble without even a touch of white is now gaining vogue both for street, afternoon and evening. Its exponents argue that it not only sets its wearer apart in the present colorful fashion scene, but that it actually gives a suggestion of coolness, especially when it appears in the thin evening materials such as organza and lace.

Black Is Cool.

The theory back of the black-for-coolness argument is that black always suggests simplicity, poise, restraint, whereas more decorative costumes with their puffed sleeves, billowing skirts, printed designs, etc., give the cluttered-up look that is associated with heat.

White Accessories Good But Just Dark Color More Striking.

Another point in the black ensemble's favor is that not only the costume itself but all the accessories—gloves, shoes, handbag, hat—can do duty into early fall. And last, but not least by any means, it suggests to the masculine mind the helplessness long associated with the poor little widow who needed advice about her investments and protection from the designs of predatory Lochinvars.

The all-black ensemble appears both in dull and lustrous finishes.

Contrasting Finishes.

A sleek silk or satin dress may be combined with dull suede gloves, shoes and pocketbook. Or, glossy black accessories may be contrasted with a dull finish For street wear, a new black material has been developed out of rayon yarn. It is smooth surfaced, sheer and crisp, and above all cool, due to its porous weave. For afternoon wear, black satin is assuming an important place and is also appearing in many of the new late summer evening gowns.

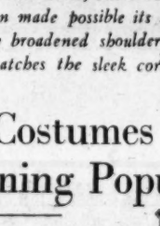
For all-black dress cut very decollete is expected to be more and more in evidence at roof-dancing parties and other evening events as the summer advances. Many women feel that the simple black gown gives them "that Continental look" which cannot be achieved with more colorful effects.

A WOMAN'S NEW YORK

By Alice Hughes.

New York, July 1.

I DON'T KNOW what Fourth of July means to you. To me it has always meant a picnic. That was the day when the family dressed itself in white clothes. Pop, Ma and the kids, and—after wrapping dozens of sandwiches in waxed paper and taking precautions that the salt, mustard and sugar might not spill—picked a big basket and set out. In the early days we went by trolley. Later we possessed a high-wheeled Chalmers that ate gasoline piggishly and was unpredictably stubborn about stopping and starting. The day never passed without mishaps. Someone always caught poison ivy, or fell in the brook, or tore her clothes. And everyone came home full of grass stains, headache and sand in their shoes.



ALICE HUGHES.

Fourth of July this year seems to hold about the same prospects for most of the people I've queried. Whatever condition they find themselves in the rest of the year, that day they leave it an seek change. Why, even Marlene Dietrich—I learn from the Paramount press agent—is leaving her marble palace for the day and retreating to a hideaway in the desert to spend a whole day by herself. She is taking with her a gallon of suntan oil and expects to lie out in the open getting tan all over. By evening, feeling that solitude will by then have palled, she has invited half of Hollywood to arrive, by camel, plane or yacht, to her humble little shack to make merry in the desert.

* * * *

While I had the press agent on the spot regarding Marlene, I asked her present attitude toward trousers. You remember the blight Dietrich caused in this country a few years ago when she hid her beautiful stems in men's trouser legs. It seems that Marlene's penchant for pants is long-lasting and sincere. She dotes on them still, and she has more evening pyjamas in her wardrobe than any one other kind of wearable. Well, I'm glad to know Marlene will get away from it all, even for one day. Myself, I'm doing what a million other parents are doing on the Fourth; going to see my kids at camp.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN—Whenever a woman has to put her shoulder to the wheel and turn breadwinner she does it with good grace in every case I know. I have in mind Mary Murphy, a Chicago advertising woman who has maintained countless indigent relatives for years. In New York she somehow never clicked. So off she went to Canada, with no experience but plenty of courage, and stormed the fiction field—with success at once!

PLEASANT HOMES

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

DINING OUTSIDE or dining in, a lady with a house does get tired of the same old table settings. It is always a little depressing to think of the gigantic task of planning three meals a day every day in the year, but we've found that if the settings of these meals are varied and intriguing, a lady gets a very definite "lift" and her meals take on glamour and piquancy.

We don't know why, but summer seems to be the time when our "little gray cells" begin to percolate, and new and unexpected ideas for table settings come natural to most of us. Just now we're terribly excited about some linen cloths and napkins we've seen lately in gorgeous audacious colors taken from old Chinese paintings—mandarin red, old blue, moonstone gray and turquoise.

Even the most mundane of hashes, if set on white plates against any of these rich colors would bring zest to jaded summer appetites. These cloths are surprisingly inexpensive and are made even more dramatic by a wide band of white around their borders. We'd like them particularly with white pottery plates and cups and a dashing arrangement of the more flamboyant summer flowers. Perhaps you could centerpiece on the moonstone gray cloth. Or for a really exotic mix black eyed Susans and Baby's breath in a white bowl for a centerpiece, try cutting madonna lilies very short and allowing their creamy blossoms to float on the water's surface in a low, square brass container—this would be lovely on the turquoise cloth.

If you have lovely, spiky zinnias, their colors will give you all sorts of new ideas with your Chinese cloths. We'd like the deep red zinnias in a blue container on an old blue cloth. And, flamboyant dahlias will feel right at home if placed in exotic containers to grace any of these brightly colored cloths.

Monograms Make Linens Yours; Made on Budget, They're Cheap

By Alice Brooks.

Pattern 5886.

BEHOLD! Made-on-a-budget monograms that prove it doesn't cost a mint of money to own beautiful, hand-marked initials on linens and personal "dainties." You can embroider any of these smart combinations yourself, or devise others from your three given alphabets. Perchance you'll like an entire monogram in satin, seed stitch or in cutwork, though a combination of two is also smart. Use varied colors or matching thread. In pattern 5886 you will find a transfer pattern of an alphabet 3 inches high for center letters and a left and right hand alphabet 3 inches high; information for placing initials and monograms; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Washington Post, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Worth Sets Styles In Mid-Season Wear

Paris (U.P.).—One of the best mid-season collections of the season is presented by Worth. This is the oldest of all the big dressmaking establishments as the house was founded in 1858 and made popular by fashion leader Empress Eugenie of France.

The new collection stresses a slim, normal waistline and full, flaring skirts for day and even The divided skirt is used very effectively for dresses for all occasions. Sports as well as traveling clothes have neatly tailored divided skirt.

Beach clothes likewise are made with divided skirt and Worth revives beach pajamas instead of the slacks, which were worn so much the last few years. The pajamas are of amusing cotton prints—white sailing vessels on a bright blue background and other marine designs. Shantung also is used a great deal for beach wear in full flared shirt with an over skirt or jumper that comes to midcalf length. These are worn with darker tinted blouses.

Enormously full skirts are shown for evening, divided and cut circular. The division is rarely noticeable as the skirts are so full. Organdies as well as crepes in light tones are used for these summer evening gowns.

Table Setting Note.

Scouts Eat 50,000 Eggs At One Meal

By Rebekah Blake.

THE NATIONAL Boy Scout Jamboree in Washington has brought between 25,000 and 30,000 men and boys together from all parts of this country and a few from foreign lands. A lot of cooking must be done to keep these boys in good health and happy.

Imagine having to cook and serve 75,000 meals a day. Or can you see yourself, or even a group of cooks, preparing 250 tons of food daily, including 50,000 eggs for one meal, 9,000 bushels of potatoes for one meal, 13,000 pounds of bread for one meal, 25,000 quarts of milk a day or using 2 tons of sugar in one day.

Feeding such a group of young men is indeed quite a problem, but one that has been well handled by William M. Stumpp, of New York, chief commissary quartermaster, and his able staff of assistants.

21 Separate Kitchens.

The entire camp is diveded into 21 sections, with 34 troops of 34 to 38 men and boys in each section. Each of these sections has its own kitchen, which is manned by 12 Army cooks and stewards who prepare most of the food.

A complete plan of the meals for the week was made up before the Jamboree started, and contracts were signed by different merchants, some local, to furnish products as canned goods, fresh vegetables, meat and dairy products not later than 3 a. m. the day before they are to be used. This assures the Scout kitchens that the food will be there when it is needed, and daily delivery guarantees freshness in food and does away with the difficult problem of storing such a quantity of victuals.

Paper dishes are used entirely in this encampment. The company furnishing these dishes is given a copy of each daily menu and furnishes appropriate dishes for the meals.

Meals are served at 7:45 a. m., 12:30 p. m. and 6 p. m. and are prepared entirely by the servants. Contrary to ideas about Boy Scouts preparing their own meals, these boys do not, for they are allowed all the free time possible for sightseeing and getting acquainted with each other.

Food Kept Hot.

The problem of serving hot food has been taken care of by using heater stacks. Each of these stacks has food for eight boys. Canned heat in each stack keeps the food warm. One boy from each group brings the stack of food from the kitchen to his mess tent, where it is eaten. Each boy helps himself to the cold food and beverage.

Cooks for the Jamboree are from many sources. Those in the general headquarters are from a local hotel. Others are from the Army and some were gotten through local employment agencies.

A special kitchen Scout makes the rounds of the kitchens to see that all of the kitchen help is kept happy. Another circulates to see that food does not pile up in one section and that proper use is made of leftover food.

Boy Scout troops are built up from their starting points and the boys stay in these groups throughout the Jamboree. This makes "getting acquainted" less confusing and there is plenty of opportunity for boys to make friends in other groups. The boys are well trained, for each has been in a special training camp before coming here. It would be impossible to manage such a group that had not been so trained.

Home-Like Meals.

Meals at the Jamboree are as much like home meals as possible. There is at least one hot dish in each menu. Chops and other individual cuts of meats are not served, but roasts, stewed chicken and cold cuts of meat are found often in the menus. Comparatively little canned goods is being served to the boys. Milk is served for breakfast and dinner every day and lemonade is included in the luncheon menus.

The encampment meals have been carefully thought out and balanced. For breakfact the boys are served fruit, a prepared cereal, some hot dish, bread, butter and milk. For luncheon they usually eat a salad, a vegetable, bread, butter, dessert and lemonade. Dinner includes an appetizer, meat, a starchy vegetable, a green vegetable, dessert, bread, butter and milk.

For Guest Room.

Equip the guest room closet with plenty of hooks and clothes hangers. Add a shopping bag—to hold soiled clothing. If a private bath is not connected with the guest room, towel racks on the back of the closet door will prove convenient. A waste basket clock, ash trays and good lighting equipment for reading and dressing should be included.

Fried Chicken and Fireworks Both Belong to Fourth of July

This platter of fried chicken suggests the Fourth of July as definitely as do firecrackers. It is the main feature of the holiday menu whether one goes picnicking or has a party at home.

Broilers, Now in Season, Are Important in Holiday Menus; Corn on the Cob and Hot Biscuits Are Ideal Complements.

WHETHER you go picnicking or entertain at home, fried chicken will have an important part in the holiday menus this week-end. In many localities, the Fourth of July is as closely associated with fried chicken as Thanksgiving is with Turkey.

Because it is as good cold as it is hot, fried chicken lends itself particularly to holiday meal planning. Cold fried chicken with bread and butter sandwiches, a salad or relishes, an iced drink and dessert makes an ideal picnic menu. Moreover, such a menue is easier to prepare than one involving the making of varied sandwiches and their accoutrements.

Picnic Recipe.

There are many recipes for preparing fried chicken, housewives in every section of the country having their own specialties. For the picnic, of course, simple fried chicken is preferred. Fryers may weigh from 2½ to 3½ pounds. To fry, first roll the pieces in seasoned flour, prepared by adding one-half teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper to one-half cup of flour. Some housewives prefer corn meal or a mixture of corn meal and flour. Heat about one-half cup of fat in a deep frying pan. Brown the chicken in the hot fat, turning so that all sides may brown evenly.

When brown pour in about one-fourth cup of water and cover tightly. Cook slowly until tender or 30 to 45 minutes longer. Remove the chicken to a platter and let cool. Wrap each piece in waxed paper or cover the dish tightly with waxed paper and pack in picnic basket.

If the chicken is to be served at home, pan gravy made with milk may be poured over it.

Chicken Fried in Batter.

1 frying chicken
Salt
1 egg
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
Fat for frying

Clean cichken and cut in pieces for frying. Beat egg and add milk. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with baking powder and salt. Add egg-milk mixture and mix quickly. Sprinkle chicken with salt and dip in batter. Fry in deep fat (325 degrees F.) until brown, about 10 minutes. If chicken is very large and not too tender, put in casserole after frying, cover and set in hot oven for about 20 minutes.

Roasting ears are a traditional accompaniment to fried chicken at the home dinner but any of the fresh vegetables now on the market may be served with equal suitability. Among these are lima beans, onions (serve them creamed), summer squash, okra, new potatoes, peas and carrots. Cabage slaw made with mayonnaise or a tomato and cucumber salad also add the right touch to a fried chicken dinner. For the picnic dinner where cold fried chicken is served a potato salad, cold slaw or a jellied fruit salad will be found most manageable.

Relishes such as celery, sweet pickled fruit, currant jelly, carrot-straws, and watermelon pickle always add zest to the fried chicken dinner. Hot biscuits or beaten biscuits, of course, are the traditional bread to accompany fried chicken. Hot rolls are equally suitable and on a picnic dinner bread and butter sandwiches sliced thin are the best solution of the bread problem.

Can Vegetables for Winter

NOW'S THE TIME to can vegetables for delicious winter soups, stews and salads.

No need for long, hot canning sessions. While you whisk through the breakfast dishes, process a few jars at a time, once or twice a week.

Three-inch baby carrot beds, or young carrots from the market, canned whole, will melt in your month. Remove tops, wash and plunge carrots—in a sieve or frying basket—in boiling water to cover. Simmer 5 minutes. Simply rub off the skins with a clean dish cloth or cheese cloth. Pack in sterilized jars and steam in a pressure cooker, 35 minutes for pints, 40 for quarts.

Baby carrots are attractive, too, in this vegetable salad mixture—1 cup each of carrots, celery, snap beans, peas, pickling onions—at this season you'll have to buy a jar of onions ready pickled—2 sliced green peppers, 1 sliced red pepper. Simmer mixture 4 minutes. Pack in jars, adding 2 tablespoons of vinegar for each pint. Fill jars with boiling water, seal and process in pressure cooker 45 minutes, 55 minutes for quarts.

In canning mixed vegetables, all must be processed the length of time required for the slowest cooking vegetable.

Treatment for Warts.

Warts annoy people mostly because they can see them. They seldom do any harm or are painful. All of us probably have a crop or two of warts inside the body, in the intestine or elsewhere, which we cannot see and which, therefore, do not cause us annoyance.

If a wart is some place on the hand, where it is liable to be traumatized, hit and to bleed from that, it, of course, demands treatment more than a simple one.

There is one form of external wart, however, that is truly troublesome, and that is the plantar wart on the surface of the sole of the foot. They cause a most uncomfortable pain and disability that is out of proportion to the seriousness or size of the wart itself. The cause of these warts is pressure in most cases.

The treatment nowadays is very simple and satisfactory, as is the treatment of all warts, which is by use of the X-ray. This is painless and does not require any time off from work. There is no incapacitation and it leaves no scar, and requires no anesthetic, local or general.

In the days when surgery was depended on to remove these warts, there was often a painful scar left. Also after surgery a new crop of warts often develops around the old scar. They are evidently mildly contagious.

If any one has a painful scar from having cut out a wart on the sole of the foot, the scar can be treated by X-ray and rendered painless. The procedure is as close to magic as we get in medicine. The wart is placed underneath the X-ray tube. The electric current is turned on for a minute or two, the patient, who may be unaccustomed to the appearance of X-ray, sees a queer kind of light, he feels no tingling or pain, and yet in about three weeks he will find that the wart has simply disappeared. It is far better than burying the dishrag under the kitchen porch.

One important point is that neither the patient nor the physician should be impatient. Although three weeks is the usual time, it may take a month or two before the wart entirely disappears.

In experience with a good many patients, a skin specialist that I know of had no failures.

Questions from Readers.

D. E.: "Can sauerkraut juice be used for a spring tonic? Is it good for the liver? Is it injurious to health?"

Answer: "It is not injurious to the health. It is a good tonic, as all fresh vegetables are. It has no particular effect on the liver."

J. A. S.: "We hear so often the expression that far more people die during the night than the day. Is that true?"

Answer: "No. The incident of death is about the same all through the 24 hours."

30 D. C. Society Women Carve Notable Careers

Group Listed in Both 'American Women' and Social Register for 1937; 400 Washingtonians in All Have Names in Book of Famous.

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor.

Who said society women are rarely, if ever, "career women"? Proof that whoever did was wrong is just off the press. Volume II of "American Women," the official Who's Who for the feminine part of the United States, contains biographies of 30 Washingtonians whose names are also listed in the Social Register for 1937

Each of these women has won acclaim in some field remote from the realm of party-giving and party-attending. Each has carved a career for herself quite apart from her husband's—if she happens to have a husband—and each has made something of a name for herself.

The book—which, by the way, is edited by Durward Howes, who also had charge of the first volume and who edited volume 1 and 2 of "America's Young Men"—carries accounts of the life and work of 7,851 outstanding women—authors, educators, musicians, artists and lecturers.

400 D. C. Women Listed.

Of the 400 in all, listed from the District of Columbia, the following are among the Social Registerites:

Harriet Chalmers Adams (Mrs. Franklin Adams), explorer, lecturer, writer and former president of the Society of Women Geographers.

Carolyn Gilvert Benjamin (Mrs. Marcus Benjamin), compiler of the history of parishes and missions of the Episcopal Church of Washington; collector of all uniforms of women during World War for National Society of Colonial Dames.

Helen Townsend Birney (Mrs. Arthur A. Birney), who was appointed by Theodore Roosevelt to appoint the first judge of the Juvenile Court in Washington.

Mrs. S. J. B. Schindel.

Frances Noyes Hart (Mrs. Edward H. Hart), author.

Laura H. Martin (Mrs. Lawrence Martin), geologist and geographer.

Esther Neill (Mrs. Charles P. Neill), author.

Elizabeth Peet, educator.

Catherine Filene Shouse (Mrs. Jouett Shouse), chairman of board, Institute of Women's Professional Relations.

Louise Kidder Sparrow, sculptor.

Elizabeth Washburne Wright, who has been active in fighting the opium evil on two continents.

Biographies Also Given.

Also listed with lengthy biographies are a number of women whose names are known around the world, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. William Howard Taft, the Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins; Representative Edith Nourse Rogers and Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the Mint.

Each biography contains the woman's political and church preference, favorite sports, recreations and hobbies, educational records, and, in many cases, the year of birth.

A section at the beginning of the book is filled with fascinating statistical data. For example, it points out that 43 per cent of 7,851 women listed are married; that 62 per cent attended college, and that 78 per cent received degrees.

Also, the editor lists his selection of the ten outstanding women of the past year as follows: Evangeline Booth, Margaret Bourke-White, Lillian M. Gilbreth, Helen Hull Jacobs, Mildred Helen McAfee, Margaret Mitchell, Hortense Odlum, Josephine Roche, Norma Shearer, and Frances Eleanor Smith (typical American mother, selected for Mother's Day, 1936).

News of Birth.

News has just been received of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Blouin, of Coronado, Calif., on June 24. Mrs. Blouin is the former Miss Rosalie Vanauken, of Washington, and is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Wilbur R. Vanauken, of the Fairfax Hotel. She graduated from the Holton Arms School in 1932.

Lawyer-Glenn Wedding Scene Is Bride's Home

MR. AND MRS. JOHN E. LAWYER, who were married on Wednesday, will leave today for New York. They will return to make their home in Washington the latter part of this month.

Their wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Glenn. The bride, who was formerly Miss Annabel Lee Glenn, is the daughter of the late Judge James Glenn, of Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. Glenn, who has been making her home in Washington the past year.

Mr. Lawyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Paterson Lawyer, of Pawhuska, Okla. He is a direct descendant of William Paterson, of New Jersey, who signed the Declaration of Independence and was later Chief Justice of the United States.

Only Families Present.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of ferns and summer flowers, with Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, officiating. Only members of the immediate families were present. The bride wore a frock of white taffeta with a white tulle hat, and she carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Her brother, James A. Glenn, of Columbus, Ohio, gave her in marriage.

Miss Theo Claire Glenn, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her gown was of periwinkle chiffon and lace, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Capt. Robert Watts, U. S. A., was best man. Miss Alice Bixler, niece of the bride, played the wedding march.

Both principals in the wedding are graduates of Columbus University here. The bride previously attended Brenua College in Gainesville, Ga., where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta and Sigma Delta Kappa sororities.

Attended G. W.

The bridegroom attended George Washington University Medical School before enrolling at Columbus University. He is a member of Sigma Delta Kappa legal fraternity, and is associated with the National Labor Relations Board.

Mrs. Lawyer was formerly editor of the Bulletin of the National League of American Pen-women, and also is a past editor of the Junior Union magazine of the American Federation of Labor.

Among the guests who attended the reception following the wedding were Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio; William Green, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Glenn, of Pittsburgh; Dr. and Mrs. Ruskin B. Lawyer, of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. R. D. Bixler and Miss Alice Bixler, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. C. Draper St. Clair and her daughter and son, Miss Janice St. Clair and David St. Clair, of Davenport, Iowa; Miss Betty Maxey, of Butte, Mont.; Miss Jean Claire Glenn, of Columbus, Ohio, and Judge Benjamin F. Goldstein, of Chicago.

Representative and Bride After Wedding

'Inauguration Dinner' Held for N. C. Society

By Jessie Ash Arndt,
The Post Club Editor.

Mr. Giles Yoemans Newton, president, and other new officers and members of the board of governors of the North Carolina Society, last night gave an "inauguration dinner" at the Army and Navy Club. The party was for the purpose of enabling the new officers to become better acquainted with each other and discussing plans for the coming season.

Serving with Mr. Newton, who succeeded Lieut. Comdr. Ovid C. Foote as head of the society, are Mr. John Wilbur Jenkins, first vice president; Mrs. Aubrey D. McFayden, second vice president; Miss Annie Lee Chisholm, secretary and treasurer, Dr. Charles Berry Austin, chaplain, and Mrs. Boydston Satterfield, historian.

The board of governors includes former Gov. O. Max Gardner, Lieut. Comdr. Foote, Mrs. John H. Small, Mrs. Thomas R. Offenbacher, Miss Reba Doughton, Senator Robert R. Reynolds, Representative Frank Hancock, Mr. Charles P. Gay, Miss Augusta Landis, Mr. William T. Joyner, Mrs. H. E. C. Bryant, Mr. S. Grady Putnam and Mr. Offenbacher, chairman of membership.

Open eason In November

The society will open its season in November with its annual Governor's Night dinner in honor of Gov. Clyde Hoey. Its regular monthly meeting will be at the Shoreham Hotel, as in former years, and several large social functions will be included in the season's program.

The society, now the largest State group in the Capital, was started in 1896, and made a permanent organization in 1910. It was formed at a meeting held at the home of former Senator Marion Butler, of North Carolina. Gen. William Ruffin Cox, father of Gen. Albert L. Cox; Maj. Hugh Waddell and Mr. Peter Wilson, Gen. Cox's secretary, were among the first members. Gen. Cox was the first president and Mrs. Butler, the vice president.

One of the speakers at a program in the early days of the society was Richard Gatling, inventor of the Gatling gun, who launched into an involved explanation of how he happened to invent the gun. The young people in the audience are said to have become restless and to have begun to whisper. Finally Gen. Cox could stand it no longer and rose to deliver a lecture himself—on good manners.

Dr. J. A. Holmes Serves Five Years

When the club was reorganized in 1910, Dr. Joseph Austin Holmes was elected president and served for five years. Among the active members then were former Representative John H. Small and Mr. James Lee Bost, who has continued his interest. The Ambassador to Mexico and Mrs. Josephus Daniels, who then resided in Washington, also were among the moving spirits in the society.

Past presidents have included Dr. Holmes, Mr. Thomas M. Robertson, Mr. Robert H. McNeill, now president of the Southern Society; Representative Small, former Gov. Angus Wilton McLean, Mr. Edward E. Britton, Mr. Eugene F. Hartley, Representative A. L. Bulwinkle, Dr. Wade H. Atkinson, Mr. Goodwin E. Ellsworth, Mr. Mills Kitchin, Mr. J. Gilmer Korner, Capt. Percy W. Foote, Col. Ely P. Lieut E. T. Garnett Weds Miss Wells

Ceremony Performed at St. Thomas' by Rev. Bishop.

The marriage of Miss Frances Virginia Wells and Lieut. Edward T. Garnett, of the British Royal Navy, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at St. Thomas' Church, with the Rev. W. S. Bishop officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Col. Jack Whittaker, wore a frock of navy blue, fashioned on tailored lines and accessories of the same shade. Her only attendant, Miss Margaret Howard, wore an ensemble of dubonnet. William H. Husted was best man.

Following the ceremony there was a reception and dinner at the Army and Navy Country Club for members of the bridal party and a few close friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells, of Washington and Bermuda. Her engagement to Lieut. Garnett was announced a few weeks ago in Bermuda, but the date of the wedding was not given at that time.

Mrs. Wells, mother of the bride, flew to Washington from Bermuda to attend the wedding. Mr. Wells, the explorer and writer, is still in Bermuda.

Lieut. and Mrs. Garnett will sail for England next Wednesday on the Queen Mary to visit the bridegroom's father, William Garnett, in Bristol, England.

Quota Renames Washingtonian As Treasurer

Mrs. Hume Is Honored at Convention; Delegates Return to D. C.

MRS. MARGARETTA K. HUME, past president of the Washington Quota Club, has been re-elected treasurer of Quota Club International for a third term. Miss Elsie M. Yellis, of Allentown, Pa., was re-elected president. Mrs. Hume and other members of the Washington club have returned from Atlantic City, where they attended the eighteenth annual international convention last week-end.

Other members elected to the international board were Miss Lois Kellogg, of New York City, first vice president; Mrs. Bertha Dick, Buffalo, second vice president; Mrs. Constance Wardle, Providence, R. I., third vice president; Mrs. Eva Leger, Saskatoon, Canada, and Miss Effie Loudermilk, Bluefield, W. Va., new directors; and Mrs Clara Mason, Fargo, N. Dak., and Miss Frances McKillop, Pittsburgh, re-elected directors.

"Trends Affecting Women" was the theme of the convention, attended by 500 delegates from the 106 Quota clubs in the United States, Canada and Australia.

On the program were Dale Carnegie, lecturer and authority on public speaking; Dorothy Kenyon, lawyer and first deputy commissioner of licenses of New York City; Margaret Fitzgerald, assistant director of the National Youth Administration, of Massachusetts; Mrs. Eudora Ramsay Richardson, of Richmond, lecturer and author of "The Influence of Men—Incurable."

The Washington delegation to the convention was headed by Mrs. Ruth Shipley, president of the local club. Other Quotarians from here were Misss Florence Brez, Mrs. Norma Britton, Mrs. Blanche Knight, Miss Margaret Lunn, Mrs. Anna Baylis, Mrs. Sallie Pickett, Miss Jean Lutton and Mrs. Olive Swan.

The local club, which meets Thursday evenings at the Women's City Club, has suspended its sessions during July and August, but will resume them in September. It maintains its national headquarters here, with Miss Gwladys Jones as secretary.

Mr., Mrs. J. W. Joslin Take Wedding Trip

Couple Motors to Canada After Quiet Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. John William Joslin, whose marriage took place in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, are now on a motor trip to Canada, by way of Minnesota.

Mrs. Joslin was formerly Miss Flora Macdonald, the daughter of Mrs. Alonzo T. Macdonald. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks Joslin, of Miami, Fla. She attended the National Cathedral School for Girls here, and for the past few years has been society editor of the Washington Times.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks Joslin, of Miami, Fla. He was educated at the University of Minnesota.

The wedding, at which the Rev. Albert Evans officiated, was witnessed only by relatives and a few friends. The ceremony was performed at 1 o'clock. The bride wore a navy blue costume, fashioned with a marquisette redingote over taffeta and a matching hat of taffeta. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. James Powell was matron of honor and only attendant. Her frock was of shell-pink brocaded satin with a fitted bodice and a full skirt. With this she wore a wide-brimmed hat, banded in black velvet. James Powell was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Joslin will return to Washington the latter part of this month and will be at home at 2810 Wisconsin avenue.

"Madame Chairman" . . .

By Suzanne.

SURPRISE PARTIES planned for friends are not always a complete surprise. The one given Monday afternoon by members of the Florence Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home for Mrs. Frederick M. Kerby, its retiring president, was, however. Mrs. Kerby, who rather prides herself on knowing what is going on around her, thought she was driving out to the Columbia Country Club for a foursome of bridge. Instead she found the members of the circle there to welcome her at a luncheon prepared as a tribute to her.

Mrs. Kerby is retiring after 11 years at the head of the circle, which she helped organize. In the beginning there were eight members. There now are 36 (it is limited to that number), and there is a waiting list. Mrs. J. Francis Moore is the incoming president and Mrs. Kerby, whom the members will not release from responsibility, is the new treasurer. Serving also for the coming year will be Mrs. Earl Putnam, vice president; Mrs. George Lyon, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. A. R. George, recording secretary.

The circle presented to its guest of honor a hand-tooled leather portfolio with an illuminated scroll in tribute to her, bearing the names of all the members. She was much touched, and, with characteristic modesty, disclaimed credit for the accomplishments of the group, and praised the work of those associated with her.

The Florence Circle is interested in case work among girls, helping them to become adjusted when they leave the home. It has established a Big Sister movement in connection with the work, with Mrs. Kerby as president. She is also vice president of the board of managers of the home, the new vice president of the Chevy Chase Woman's Club and treasurer of its building corporation and chairman of finance of the Maryland State Federation of Women's Clubs.

She also served on the budget committee of the Community Chest and expresses gratitude for the assistance Florence Crittenton Home has received through the Chest.

MRS. CHARLES H. CARNAHAN, a member of Columbia Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and John Donaldson Chapter, D. A. R., feels a personal interest in various Government services. She began her work for Uncle Sam as postmaster at Lexington, Miss., serving in that position for seven years before her marriage in 1889. When the World War came, and her children were nearly grown, she entered Government employ again, serving in the bureau of markets, then with the War Department, and later in the Patent Office, where she remained until her retirement a few years ago.

Her elder daughter, Miss Lina Wright Carnahan, is assistant librarian in the library of the Geological Survey; her son, Robert, is in advertising in New York, and her younger daughter, Mrs. Woodson J. Thompson, is living in California.

FRANCIS LANSDALE, who recently was graduated from Weightman School for Crippled Children, at the commencement, sat in the wheel chair given him a few weeks ago by the members of the 75th Club in the name of Mrs. Roosevelt—a gift in tribute to her. Mrs. John R. Murdock, wife of Representative Murdock, of Arizona, and president of the club, was present at the commencement, because Francis was graduating.

One part of the story of why the club happened to give him the chair has not been told. It is that the wheel chair he had previously, was stolen! He had been sitting in the yard and was carried in the house for dinner. When the family returned for the wheel chair, it was gone. While an effort was made to locate Washington's "meanest thief," the 75th Club heard about it, and provided a new chair to replace that which had been stolen.

MRS. WILLIAM S. SPENCER, chairman of the canteen service for the District Chapter of the American Red Cross, yesterday arranged a luncheon at the District headquarters for the staff workers. The members of the staff who are responsible for keeping the machinery of the office going smoothly, seldom receive such special little attentions, although their work is much appreciated by everyone in the corps of volunteers who comes in contact with them. Mrs. Spencer, however, decided to give a little party just for them.

Among the guests were Mrs. Francis H. Tewes, secretary to volunteer service; Mr. Otto S. Lund, chapter manager; Mrs. Margaret Robbins, assistant secretary-treasurer; Miss Eleanor Phillips, secretary to Miss Mabel Boardman; Miss Minnie Harman, Miss Edna May, Mrs. Hugh Bickford, Mrs. Jessie Muckenhirn, Mrs. Esther Dodge, case worker in home service; Mrs. Violet Zacarin, Mrs. Frances Cage, Mrs. Mary Austin, Mrs. Effie Roberts, Miss Patricia Harrle, Mr. Gordon Stone, director of instruction in first-aid and life saving, and Mr. Robert Duncan.

The first informal luncheon hour for members of Alpha Chapter of Phi Delta Gamma, national women's fraternity, was held yesterday at the Women's City Club. They will be continued on alternate Thursdays during the summer at 12:30. Present yesterday were Mrs. Frederick W. Crocker, president of the chapter; Mrs. Harold E. Warner, Miss Hazel Freagens, Miss Elizabeth Haney and Miss Elma Moulton. Miss Haney, who is with one of the railroads, has been busy day and night for the past week, meeting incoming Boy Scouts.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Wilson have returned from their wedding trip and are at the Shoreham. They will occupy the apartment of the latter's mother, Mrs. Thomas Walker Page.

Mrs. Page left yesterday for Anaconda, Mont., to visit her son, Thomas Page 3d.

Mrs. Johnstone To Join Faculty

Will Be Member of New England Institute for a Week.

MRS. ANNE HARTWELL JOHNSTONE, a program secretary for the National League of Women Voters, is leaving Washington today for Wellesley College, where she will be a member of the faculty of the New England Institute of International Relations for one week. Before returning she also will hold conferences with league groups in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Mrs. Johnstone, whose special interest is foreign affairs, will give five lectures on "Major Issues in American Foreign Policy." Her husband is William Crane Johnstone, jr., dean of the junior college at George Washington University.

Since 1934 Mrs. Johnstone has been secretary of the National League's foreign policy department and is the author of several popular league publications, the most recent of which is "American Foreign Policy," a guide to study of foreign relations. Travel and study abroad have contributed to her interest in international affairs, and she is planning a world tour within the next year.

Bernice Merchant Is Wed in Virginia

Married to E. M. McDonald at Sister's Home.

The wedding of Miss Bernice Marie Merchant to Mr. Elmer Milton McDonald, of Purcellville, Va., took place Monday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Roy Harmon McDaniel, in Arlington, Va.

The bride was attended by her aunt, Mrs. Leighton Van B. Marschalk, of this city, and her niece, Miss Marjorie June Bell, of Purcellville. The bridegroom's brother, Mr. Earle McDonald, also of this city, was best man.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. K. K. Haddaway, of Arlington. After an informal reception, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald left for a trip through Virginia. They will live in Purcellville on their return.

Kappa Gamma Chapters Hosts at Buffet Suppers

Alpha and Beta Groups Entertain on Separate Nights; Reception, Dances, Songs Feature Sorority Programs.

BETA CHAPTER of Kappa Gamma Sorority last night entertained at a buffet supper in the clubrooms at the Hotel Raleigh. A similar party was given on Tuesday night by Alpha Chapter at which both Beta and Gamma officers were special guests.

The program last evening, which was in charge of Mrs. Louise Rutley, included dancing by Miss Yvonne McChesney and Master Judson McChesney, young son and daughter of Mrs. Helen McChesney, national director of the sorority, and a toe dance by Miss Louise Hurt, all of whom are students of Phil Hayden, and appeared in his revue. Mrs. Rutley contributed to the program, singing a group of songs, accompanied by Miss Mary Paddock, and Mrs. Mary McCarthy played piano numbers.

Officers Head Receiving Line

Receiving with the officers, Miss Helen Mobberly, president, Miss Margaret Hill, secretary, and Miss Ida Sisson, treasurer, were Mrs. McChesney, Miss Mercedes Galbraith, national secretary, and five field secretaries, Miss Betty Scott, Miss Florence Mermes, Mrs. Rosamond Gaydash, Mrs. Jo Davis, Mrs. Marie Bentley and Mrs. Louise Wilson.

The committee which arranged the party included Miss Mary Swartwout, general chairman, assisted by Miss Helen Hoffman, Miss Kathryn Coates and Mrs. Martha Trueblood. Others assisting were Miss Mabel Crain and Miss Gertrude Talbert, in charge of refreshments; Mrs. Evelyn McDonald, Miss Emma Biehl and Miss Opal Robinson, of decorations; Mrs. Kathleen Turner, Miss Lucille Mikkelson and Miss Rachel Herbert, of publicity; Mrs. Rutley, Miss Paddock, Miss Beulah Dicks and Mrs. Pearl Teats, of music and entertainment. The table hostesses included Miss Ruth Brady, Miss Adenia Stearn, Mrs. McCarthy and Miss Josephine McDonnell.

Among the guests were Mrs. Lila Cramer, president; Mrs. Louise Farrell and Miss Stella Bryant, of Gamma Chapter; Miss Mary Lee Vincent, president, and the Misses Magdalene Conlon, Helen McPhail and Marie Puhr, of Alpha Chapter.

Alpha Chapter Entertains Guests

Tuesday evening, at the party of Alpha Chapter, the program also included dances by the children of Mrs. McChesney; songs by Mrs. Atha Jordan, and an amusing skit, written and presented by Miss McPhail and Miss Conlon, with Miss Inez Seastrand at the piano.

Miss Bryant and Mrs. Farrell, of Gamma Chapter, and Miss Sisson, of Beta, were special guests, as were Miss Elsie Knoll and Mrs. Lillian Russell, who represented the new Delta Chapter, soon to be initiated.

On the special committee were Miss Puhr, Miss Conlon, Mrs. Gaydash, Mrs. Monty Zbinden, Mrs. Marjorie Bumps and Miss Connie Foxhall.

Agnes L. Latimer Is Being Honored Before Marriage

Miss Agnes Louise Latimer, daughter of Mr. J. Austin Latimer, special assistant to the Postmaster General and Mrs. Latimer, is being feted since the announcement of her approaching marriage July 2 to Mr. Perry Hazard Taft, of Washington and Hollywood.

Saturday Mrs. O. A. Hydrick gave a luncheon at the Westchester for Miss Latimer, her mother, and the girl attendants in the wedding party, the Misses Ruth Latimer, Mary Lee Owens and Julia Kennedy.

Miss Mary Lee Owens Saturday entertained Miss Latimer and 20 of her friends with a miscellaneous shower at her home in Chevy Chase.

Mrs. Roy M. North had a miscellaneous shower for Miss Latimer on Wednesday afternoon at her apartment in Wardman Park Hotel.

2 Chinese Students Will Be Honored

American U. Chancellor's Wife to Give Party.

Miss Julia Chen and Miss Virginia Ysien, of Singapore, will be guests of honor at a lawn party to be given this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Joseph M. M. Gray, wife of the chancellor of American University.

The hostesses will be the executive committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, including Mrs. J. M. Young, Mrs. Hugh Irish, Mrs. Park A. Galleher, Miss Sarah Carr, Mrs. J. S. Montgomery, Mrs. E. K. Jones, Mrs. J. T. Gibbs, Mrs. Inez Hopkins, Miss Grace Edwards and Miss Ella Ford.

Miss Chen and Miss Tsien are graduates of the Hwa Nan College in Fu Chow, China, and are studying for their master of arts degrees at American University.

Virginia Huston, J. M. Baker Wed

Rev. Harris Officiates at Ceremony Here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Milton Huston announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to John Milton Baker. The wedding took place Saturday in the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ensemble of Navy blue crepe and a corsage bouquet of bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. John C. Chaney was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of rose lace with brown accessories and a bouquet of spring flowers. Mr. Wilson Satterfield was best man.

MRS. BETTY PALMER MECKLEY.

Mrs. Meckley Victor With Record Score

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.

Mrs. Betty Palmer Meckley, the Indian Spring linkswoman who has won every major match play title in this section, tied the competitive course mark at Woodmont yesterday at 80 strokes and won her first net tournament in seven years of cmopetition, the Washington Herald trophy.

A handicap of three strokes that netted a 77 gave the former District, Maryland, and present Middle Atlantic champion a two-stroke margin over Virginia Pope, of Kenwood, who scored 88 with a 9 handicap for a net of 79.

Helen Dettweiller, who tied for second low gross at 88 with Marion Brown and Miss Pope, provided the day's sensation in an 18-hole playoff with Miss Brown by scoring a hole-in-one on the eighth hole, using a six iron on the 130 yarder. It was the second ace of her career, the first was scored on the winter tour at Ormond Beach, Fla.

Marion Brown, the blonde Manor representative, won the playoff despite Helen's ace by repeating her morning round of 88 while Helen soared to 92, taking 47 on the second nine. Miss Pope, who was also tied at 88 for the gross prize, elected to take second low net.

Mrs. Florence Godfrey, of Beaver Dam, combined a 94 with a 13 handicap for third net prize, followed by Mrs. Henry Goodman, of Woodmont, 100-18—82; and Mrs. R. C. Mitchell, of Beaver Dam, 96-13—83.

In a fourway tie for sixth and seventh net prizes, Ellen Kincaid and Mrs. J. F. Gross won in the draw from Mrs. Gene Larkin and Mrs. F. F. Conway. Ellen, who has won a prize in every tournament on the calendar thus far, was 91-7—84, and Mrs. Gross 94-10—84.

Mrs. Mackley's round was a model of accuracy from tee to green excepting the fourth hole where she required six strokes. The final hole was the only one she was able to one-putt, several lipping the cup and costing a sub-80 score. On both trips over the course she finished 4-3-4 on the last three holes, even with men's par.

Six in Row For Bees as DodgersBow

Score Is 4-1; Lanning's Hurling Is Effective; Late Rally Wins.

Boston, July 1 (AP).—The Bees made it four straight over the Dodgers and stretched their winning streak to six in a row today by topping the Brooklyns, 4 to 1, behind Johnny Lanning's three-hit pitching.

The only consoling feature for the Dodgers waas their lone run, which came in the seventh inning and thereby ended a string of 36 consecutive scoreless innings they have suffered in the four-game Boston series.

The aging Waite Hoyt and Lanning hooked up in a pitchers' duel for seven innings. Boston scored a run in the fifth on consecutive singles by Elbie Fletcher, Al Lopez and Lanning and a wild throw by Babe Phelps. In the seventh, Brooklyn tied it up on a walk, Phelps' single and Cookie Lavagetto's fly.

The Bees broke up the ball game in the eighth, however, with a three-run attack on three walks, a fly, and singles by Tony Cuccinello and Lopez.

Giants Score On Berger's PinchHomer

Blow Defeats Phils, 8-6; Losers Late Rally Proves Futile.

New York, July 1 (AP).—Wally Berger came through in the clutch today, clouting a pinch-homer with two out in the ninth inning and two mates on base to give the Giants an 8-to-6 victory over the Phillies.

The homer, hit off Syl Johnson, who relieved Bucky Walters as Berger came to bat, made it a clean sweep for the Giants in the three-game series with the Phils, and stretched the New Yorkers' winning streak to five straight.

The circuit clout broke up the ball game after the Phils had gone in front with a run in their half of the ninth. It was an up-and-down affair all the way, with the Giants leading 4-3 in the third inning, the Phils in front 5-4 in the seventh, and the Giants tying it up in the eighth.

Yanks Take 12-7 Victory Over Macks

Selkirk Injured, Will Be Lost Indefinitely; DiMaggio Homers.

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, July 1.—The New York Yankees won and lost today, clubbing the Athletics for 14 hits and a 12-to-7 victory, but at the expense of an injury to their heavy-hitting outfielder, George Selkirk.

Selkirk fell hard in making a running shoetop catch of Jack Rothrock"s fly in the seventh and was taken to a hospital with an injured right shoulder. It was feared he may have fractured his collarbone.

The Yanks clustered their runs in three innings, getting two in the first and five each in the fifth and eighth. In the fifth inning splurge Joe DiMaggio banged out his sixteenth homer and Jake Powell pounded his first of the year. Powell also had three singles, to lead the attack.

The Athletics, after dropping the two previous starts to the Yanks in the series, proved troublesome today, and finally belted Red Ruffing out in the seventh, but the husky-right-hander received credit for his eighth victory nevertheless.

Alice Marble Loses To Polish Girl at Net

By the Associated Press.

Wimbledon, England, July 1.—Hard-hitting Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, Poland's top-ranking ace since 1929, and durable Dorthy Round, 27-year-old daughter of an English clergyman, advanced to the finals of the All-England tennis championships before another capacity Wimbledon gallery today.

The Polish girl, boasting one of the fastest drives in women's tennis, wore down blonde Alice Marble, United States champion from San Francisco, in a thrilling semifinal round match, 8—6, 6—2, Miss Round, conqueror of the defending champion, Helen Jacobs, in the quarter-finals, had a virtual walkover in her tussle with Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France, winning as she pleased, 6—4, 6—0.

The women's singles final will be the feature of Saturday's closing program. The men's final, pitting America's Don Budge against Baron Gottfried von Cramm, of Germany, will be played tomorrow.

Miss Marble, United States singles titleholder, put up a plucky fight in the opening set, but her game finally collapsed under the pressure of Mlle. Jedrzejowska's terrific drives. The Polish girl, one of the hardest hitters in women's tennis, ran through the second set in easy fashion after Miss Marble had rallied to bring the score to 2—2.

Mlle. Jedrzejowska's triumph marked the third time this year she has beaten Miss Marble. She defeated the American champion in the finals of the St. George's Hill tourney, 3—6, 6—4, 6—3, and in the finals of the Beckenham tournament, 6—1, 9—11, 6—1.

Another Wimbledon title was assured a change of hands when Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King and Joan Pittman, of England, defeated Kay Stammers and Freda James, English doubles champions, in the quarter-finals.

Don Budge and Gene Mako, the American Davis Cup pair, advanced to the semifinals of men's doubles, defeating Jack Bromwich and Clifford Sproule, of Australia, 6—2, 7—5, 6—8, 8—2.

Jimmy Braddock May Fight Here

Plans for the winner of the Bob Tow-George Brescia bout next Tuesday night to meet former Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock here in August were begun by Promoter Joe Turner, who wired Braddock's manager, Joe Gould, and Twentieth Century Promoter Mike Jacobs, yesterday, asking them to consider the match.

The match would take place for the Herald Milk Fund, the telegram to both said.

Agriculture Beats Bureau Net Squad

The Agriculture Department tennis team defeated the Census Bureau team yesterday in a Government League match yesterday on the Monument Courts, 4-1.

Sharkey Wins Junior Medal at Washington

Buddy Sharkey salvaged the medalist prize in the District Junior Championship yesterday by playing the Washington Golf and Country Club course in 72 strokes, two over par, to Ralph Bogart's 81.

Sharkey and Bogart tied for the medal with 75 in the qualifying round and the latter won the title after Sharkey was upset in the semifinals.

Rick Ferrell's Blow In Sixth Wins Game

By Shirley Povich.

James Brooklyn DeShong, skinny of girth but stout of heart, beat back a half-dozen scoring threats by the Red Sox yesterday and pitched the Nats to their second straight victory.

The score, if properly put, was: Washington, 3; Jack Wilson, 2.

Because this fellow Jack Wilson virtually constituted the Boston team yesterday. The black-haired rookie pitcher, who was out there giving battle to DeShong in a stirring pitching duel, was laying to with both arm and bat. It was his bat that produced both of the Red Sox runs.

But Rookie Wilson was shaded by the veteran DeShong in that pitching battle, despite the nine hits he permitted to Wilson's eight. Because after the sixth inning when it became a new ball game, following a Boston run that tied the battle at 2-2, DeShong held the Sox scoreless while the Nats pried the winning run out of Wilson.

Rick Ferrell Comes Through.

They got that wininng run in their own half of the sixth inning to the great glee of 5,000 cash customers and 8,000 Boy Scouts from the Jamboree grounds. That decisive run sprang, ironically, from the bat of little Rick Ferrell, who, until three weeks ago, was a valued member of the Red Sox.

Cecil Travis, who had laid waste Buck Newsom's pitching the day before and whose grievous error in the fourth inning had cost the Nats a run, redeemed himself in a grand manner in that sixth when he whacked a line-drive two-bagger against the left-field bleacher wall.

Young Wilson eased the tension for himself and the Red Sox when he made a self-defense stab of Buddy Myer's hot smash into the box, but along came Rick Ferrell with a line drive that skimmed over Joe Cronin's upstretched glove, and the Nats had the run and the ball game.

Wilson Fans Nine.

For the most part, though, the Nats were batting with smoke in their eyes—the smoke of young Wilson's fast ball. He sent nine of 'em away from the plate muttering to themselves—strike-out victims. Before the fourth inning was over, he had seven strike-outs to his credit.

He struck out three Nats in the second inning, but, gentle reader, don't let that confuse you. Because, it was a long time between strike-outs, and that was the inning in which the Washingtons stepped out into a 2-0 lead.

Freddie Sington caught one of Wilson's fast balls on the end of his bat and collected a brisk two-bagger to rightfield with one out in that second. Then Wilson's control lapsed to the extent of walking Travis. Then Buddy Myer whaled one of those fast balls for a two-bagger to center and Sington scored.

But there was an aftermath to that blow. Travis, who had taken third on the hit, noted with some surprise that Second Baseman Eric McNair had muffed Cramer's throw from the outfield and he, too, sprinted over the plate on the error.

Wilson, who had fanned Stone to begin the inning, fanned Rick Ferrell and Almada to end it, but his strikeouts were just a bit tardy.

With a bit of dubious strategy, or it might have been sheer stupidity, the Red Sox wasted a scoring chance against DeShong in the first inning, when with two on base and Jimmy Foxx at bat, Cramer and Chapman attempted a double steal while DeShong was holding the ball. It failed. DeShong simply looked the situation over, wheeled and caught Cramer at the plate by a dozen feet.

The Sox came up with a gift run in the fourth that cut the Nats' lead to 2-1. It was the gift of Cecil Travis, who, with time a-plenty, made a wild throw to Kuhel on Higgins' grounder. DeShong, who should have emerged from the inning scoreless, then pitched a looping single to Berg that put Higgins on third. He scored on Pitcher Wilson's brusque single to left.

The Wilson fellow personally tied the score for the Sox in the sixth. With two out and McNair resting on second base by virtue of a double past the reach of Buddy Lewis, young Mr. Wilson whacked a neat single to center and it was 2-2.

But he gave that run right back to the Nats in the second half of the inning, and the Sox never could get on a level again. They were in a swell spot in the seventh when Cramer singled to left and stole second with none out, but Jimmy DeShong struck out Chapman on a ball Chapman couldn't reach with a fishing pole, and then to make matters secure he upped and struck out the dangerous James Foxx.

Charles Town Feature Won by Brooke Herod

By Walter Haight.
A Staff Correspondent.

CHARLES TOWN RACE TRACK, July 1.—Brooke Herod, grey 4-year-old gelded son of Dear Herod-Ann Brooke, carrying the colors of H. B. Langdon, scored a surprise nose victory over Claude Feltner's Small Change, the odds-on choice, in the featured Tuleyries Purse here this afternoon.

Jockey W. Kirk elected to squeeze through a narrow opening along the rail in the drive to the wire and his daring move paid dividends, much to the chagrin of the 4,000 present who thought Small Change, the 4 to 5 shot, something to bet on and then forget about.

Brooke Herod, a non-winner until today, paid $15.20 and ran the sprint over the Charles Town Course in 1:18 4-5, excellent time over a slow racing strip.

Mrs. C. E. Willson's Radial, the pace-setter, finished third only a half length back.

Sammy Palumbo astride Small Change had ridden three previous winners during the afternoon and would have made it four but for a mental lapse. Thinking no one had room to squeeze through on the rail Sammy was watching Radial and along came Kirk on Brooke Herod to dash through, while scraping the fence to gain the nod in the last jump.

Mrs. H. Horst's Scoutallow won the first race here today, paying $6, to beat E. H. Pike's Muddler by four lengths. Miss M. Seay's Miss Bones finished third.

H. Huff's Keyed Up won the second race by a nose over L. Huff's Doeskin. J. W. White's Beauty B finished third. The backers of the winner collected $7.40.

Mrs. E. L. Bull's Tuleyries Ruby won the third race by eight lengths, which completed the daily double to pay $41.80. Mrs. J. H. Elliott's Running Water just got up in time to nose out L. R. Clark's Erins Sun. The victor paid $7.80.

Mrs. F. I. Cranford's Fred's Warning, overlooked in the betting, won the fourth race by two lengths from J. E. Murphy's Landsman. Tuleyries Star, owned by Mrs. E. L. Bull, finished third. The winner paid $19.40.

Jockey Willie Snyder counted his second win of the day on the 11-year-old gelding Stand By, owned by E. H. Titmus, jr., in the four and a half furlongs Williamsport Purse, the day's secondary feature. Mrs. J. H. Elliott's Lady Buck took command entering the stretch but couldn't withstand the rush of the aged gelding. Agreeable dropped in the third hole.

At The Post . . . .

Selections at Charles Town.

Dear Al:

This track may have airplane service when the December meeting opens. The nearby landing field is being enlarged, and may become a regular stop for planes en route to Pittsburgh. If present plans materialize, two planes will operate between Washington and the track. Flying time from Washington is less than a half hour. The planes would follow the course of the beautiful upper Potomac Valley. Charles Town would be the first track with regular scheduled transportation for turf fans. I believe I hold something of a record, having flown from Washington to Santa Anita twice for the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap. On the present schedules to the West Coast, it is possible to leave Washington on Friday, see a race at Santa Anita on Saturday and get home Sunday night. I would like to try it, but I believe I would have to stick around and celebrate, particularly if Aneroid won. Not to change the subject, but Roy Watson and his mutuel department deserve credit for the good approximate odds they have been posting. On a few occasions, the board, as compared to the pay-offs, have been far off line but generally a fraction of a point is the rule. BILL.

First race—Highland Song seems nicely placed in the day's opening event. Needs only the right ride to win here. Pineaway is a fair sort and should give the top one a run for the chief money. Dun Lucky to take care of the others.

Second race—Canter Belle deserves the call in a field of this caliber; would take down the set of brackets if given the right handling. Maple Barbara shapes up well and should be a keen factor. Miss Symphony will be hard to keep out of the money.

Third race—Lovely Amelia has worked well and appears to have the qualifications necessary to score in a field of this brand. Lady Gurzil and Isle o' Joy to complete the money picture.

Fourth race—Canynge promises to do a lot of running in this company. I see no reason for mistakes. Morley Firth is due respect. Topsie H. may be slightly better than generally rated.

Fifth race—Secret Vote earns oats while operating with such as these. Needs only to run back to best race. Bunty Ann appears headed for the place award. Trostar for the show end.

Sixth race—This looks like the right spot for Chessie; may go to the front in this field and never be headed. Easter Herald and Royal Veil will be ready if the top one has any mishaps.

Seventh race—Idle Susan and Pauline H. should battle it out in this event. Both are fit and ready. Camp Parole will be hard to crowd out of the money.

Best bet—Highland Song.

This Morning

POVICH.

It will hardly induce any sad sniffle among the paying public, but gone are the days, apparently, when a champion of the prize ring in the lighter classes could step into the ring and take down a fifty grand or so in the coin of the realm for one defense of his title.

We gather that from last night's announcement by Promoter Michael Strauss Jacobs that four world champions would be fighting for their titles on his Yankee Stadium program scheduled for August 25.

With the prospect that the entire show will not gross more than $100,000, that seems to be wholesaling title matches. But that apparently is what Jacobs is intending to do with those lighter-class titles that seem to be a drug on the fistic market.

* * * *

Jacobs is throwing Marcel Thil, accepted in Europe as the middleweight champion of all the world, in there against Fred Apostoli, of San Francisco, in a 15-rounder. And he has Lou Ambers, the acknowledged lightweight titleholder, in against the No. 1 challenger, Pedro Montanez as a second title match

* * * *

That match Strauss is advertising for the world welterweight title between Barney Ross and Ceferino Garcia is a legitimate title match, too, because Garcia is the young man who had Ross on the floor out on the Coast last year. And Sixto Escobar, the bantamweight champ, will be in there against either K. O. Morgan or Harry Jeffra.

* * * *

It's quite a come-down for fistic champions. Time was when most any holder of one of those titles could collect handsomely in six figures whenever they laid their championship on the line.

* * * *

F'r instance, in the same weight class in which Thil will be fighting Apostoli for a guarantee that may not go above $10,000, Johnny Wilson, a cheese champ, took down the bulk of a $163,000 when he risked his title against Harry Greb in 1920 and lost. And Greb later cashed in on a $105,000 gate when he met Tiger Flowers in a title defense in '23.

* * * *

Barney Ross, who doubtless will be the highest-paid gent on Strauss' card must certainly be finding his title a comparative drug on the market. Because Ross, who can hardly hope to take down more than $20,000 for his contribution to the evening's entertainment, figured only two years ago in the largest gate ever grawn by a welterweight championship fight.

* * * *

That was when he took the crown from Jimmy McLarnin in 1934 and got the challenger's end of a gate that totaled more than $194,000. In fact, in his fights with McLarnin alone—three of 'em—Ross drew more than $330,000 through the gate.

* * * *

It may be Joe Louis' fault—this fall-off in business in the lighter classes. Instead of helping boxing receipts generally, Louis' sensational performances in the heavyweight division have apparently stripped the other classes of a great measure of their drawing power.

* * * *

Lew Ambers, the current lightweight champion, is fighting in a class that produced one of the greatest boxing gates of all time—the $452,648 that Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler drew through the turnstiles when Leonard retained his title in their memorable New York battle in 1923. And when Al Singer, a flash-in-the-pan champion, knocked out aging Sammy Mandell in one round in '30, that bout drew more than $162,000.

* * * *

Bantamweight titles generally were never hugely profitable compared to championships in the other divisions, but Champion Sixto Escobar will be getting a mere pittance for his defense of the crown compared to Champion Joe Lynch's percentage of the $109,000 gate when he lost his title to Pete Herman in 1921 at Ebbetts Field.

* * * *

Cascarella Balks At Joining Minors

Joe Cascarella, sold by the Nats to the Syracuse club of the International League, refused to join that team yesterday, declaring he "would never pitch in another minor league."

"I'll quit baseball unless I can stay in the big leagues," said Cascarella. "I think my record proves I can win in the majors and I won't go back to the minors. I have business interests that will justify that decision."

Advised of Cascarella's refusal to join Syracuse, Clarke Griffith, owner of the Nats, declared that the pitcher would be placed on the suspended list and the sale canceled if Cascarella chose to remain out of baseball. All major league clubs waived on the pitcher.

Four Champions On One Fight Card That's Mike Jacobs' New Plan For August

The line-up:

Sixto Escobar vs. either K. O. Morgan, of Detroit, or Harry Jeffra, of Baltimore, for the bantamweight title, 15 rounds.

"The show will be held either August 25 or 26," Jacobs said today. "Every boxer will receive a flat guarantee. It will be the first time four champions have defended their titles on the same card.

"The Thil-Apostoli bout is definitely closed. I have Montanez signed and will get Ambers in line tomorrow. Garcia has accepted. Sam Pian, Ross' manager, is coming in Sunday to close. Escobar is all set and all we have to do is decide between Jeffra and Morgan as his opponent."

Dykes Is Batting Star, Sox Top Tigers, 15-8

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, July 1.—The Chicago White Sox celebrated Manager Jim Dykes' 1937 debut at third base today by banging four Detroit pitchers for 20 hits and a 15-to-8 victory. The 41-year-old Dykes, whose previous participation in his twentieth big league season had been limited to two futile pinch-hitting appearances, himself led the slugfest with a double, three singles and a walk for a perfect day. He drove in three of the runs.

The victory gave the Chicagoans the series, two games to one, and increased their second place margin to two games.

Driving Poffenberger from the mound with a four-run blast in the third inning and pounding Lawson for four more in the fifth and still another quartet in the sixth, the Sox gave Vernon Kennedy a 12-to-1 lead toward his season's seventh victory. Kennedy, however, weakened after running out a triple in the fifth and after he walked the first batter in the seventh, he was touched for five straight hits and the Tigers scored six runs in the inning before Clint Brown, ace Sox relief artist, restored order.

Five Farms Selected by Links Group

The United States Golf Association has selected the Five Farms course in Baltimore, Md., scene of the National Amateur in 1932, as the course for the local sectional qualifying rounds for the National Amateur. The trials are scheduled Tuesday, July 27. The tourney itself is to be played in Portland, Oreg., August 23-28.

Entries close Wednesday, July 14, at 5 p. m. at the U. S. G. A. offices at 73 East Fifty-seventh street, New York, N. Y., accompanied by the usual $5 entry fee.

The number of qualifying districts has been reduced to 31, one less than the banner field of 1936, when 1,118 qualified from 32 places. Tacoma, Wash.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Nashville, Tenn. are new qualifying centers.

The transfer from Washington, where the trials were held at the Columbia Club last year, to Five Farms is one of the eight district shifts. To avoid conflict with other competitions the Tacoma district will qualify on July 23, and the Boston section on July 26.

Member clubs of the association with handicaps of four or under, in good standing with the amateur body, are eligible to compete. The all-match-play form has been abandoned and local qualifiers are subject to a 36-hole qualifying round on the scene of the championship. The 120 low scorers of the first day will qualify for the second day's medal play rounds

No-Hit, No-Run Contest Hurled by Pewee Star

Tom Duval pitched a no-hit, no-run game yesterday as the Woodside Pewees swamped Neighborhood House, 10 to 0, in a Washington Boys Club league game. Young Duvall fanned 19, issued three walks but not a man reached second.

Welsh Wins, Climbs Into Semifinals

Barney Welsh, defending champion, continued his sparkling brand of tennis yesterday when he dashed through the quarterfinal round of the District of Columbia singles championship with a two-set victory over Ray Gibbes, without the loss of a single game, 6—0, 6—0.

Welsh has now played four matches in the tournament and has dropped an aggregate of four games. He is the first player to advance into the semifinal round.

Capt. Stanley K. Robinson, Army-Navy, became the first unseeded player to reach the quarterfinal round by defeating Jack Hoyt, junior entry, in the third round, 6—1, 6—4, and then eliminating Tom Moorhead, Chevy Chase champion, in the fourth round, 6—8, 6—2, 6—4.

Seeded players who reached the quarterfinal round include Tony Latona, No. 3; Tom Mangan, No. 6; Hugh Lynch, No. 2, and Bill Breese, No. 4.

Latona trounced Ricky Willis, Columbia, 13—11, 6—2, in a grueling match. Tom Mangan won from Don Surine, George Washington University player who had scored two previous upsets to reach the fourth round, 6—0, 6—4; Hugh Lynch eliminated Fred Doyle, 6—3, 6—3, and Bill Breese eliminated Bill Neimeyer, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4.

Yesterday's Results.

Joe Jacobs Signs Farr To Meet Louis in Sept.

By the Associated Press.

New York, July 1.—Indications tonight were that Tommy Farr and not Max Schmeling will be Joe Louis' opponent in the Negro's first defense of his newly won heavyweight title.

Failing to get a decision from Schmeling, one way or the other, Promoter Mike Jacobs today closed with Farr by transatlantic telephone to come here and fight the brown bomber in one of the New York ball parks early in September.

"I wanted Schmeling," said Jacobs, "but apparently Max doesn't want the fight. Anyway, he will not reply to my cables, so I am going ahead with Farr."

The Welshman, recent conqueror of both Foord and Max Baer, can have 20 per cent of the net gate for his end, or a flat guarantee, the amount of which Jacobs would not disclose.

Farr's acceptance of the Louis fight means he definitely is not going through with his proposed bout with Schmeling in London, September 1. This go was to have been advertised as for the "world's heavyweight championship."

While Jacobs and his assistants were keeping the wires to London busy, Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's American manager, received a cable from "Der Schlager" saying September 1 had been selected as the date for the Farr bout and for Jacobs to sail for England not later than August 1.

Jacobs professed to be as much in the dark as anyone else as to the reason for Max's apparent lack of interest in another shot at the heavyweight title.

A September title bout will not cause Louis to abandon his planned invasion of England next month. Negotiations are now under way for him to go to London and fight Jack Doyle, Foord or Len Harvey. "Sure, he'll go over and pick up that $75,000 guarantee," said Director General Mike Jacobs. "The bout will give him a warm-up for the Farr fight."

Firestone Wins.

Russell Throws Dusek at Stadium

The end came when Benny, attempting to stop Rudy from gouging Russell's eyes, threw the Omahan heavily to the mat where Reb, who was a cowhand before he retrograded, straddled him in expert fashion while his partner in conspiracy, Bortnick, counted 1-2-3.

In the semifinal Jack Kennedy tossed Jack Hader in 23 minutes with a body press. Although Hader was booked for the villain it was hard to tell, as Kennedy acted up, too.

In the best match of the program the uproarious George Lenihan was disqualified after 14½ minutes of his match with Ed Meske during and after which he swung on every one in sight and caused several excited fans uneasy moments. The climax came when an usher grabbed a chair from Lenihan's hand just as he was about to throw it at Meske.

Haas' Prodigious Putting Defeats Harvey Johnson, Hoya Star, 7 and 5

Georgetown Youth's Best Golf Wasted

By Claire Burcky.

Special Correspondence of The Post.

Oakmont Country Club, Pa., July 1.—Hard Luck Harvey Johnson played his best golf of the National Intercollegiate tournament at Oakmont today and lost 7 and 5 quarter-final battle to Fred Haas, jr., Southern Amateur champion, from Louisiana State University.

Only one over par for the afternoon round, the Georgetown junior dropped three holes as a result of Haas' uncanny putting. The Southerner was 2 under par for 13 holes of the second round.

One putt of 75 feet for a birdie, another of 40 feet for an eagle and a third of 60 feet for a birdie helped the L. S. U. star flatten Johnson. Long before the match ended, Haas had recognized his remarkable luck and started going for everything on the greens, and Johnson could do nothing but look on astounded.

In Lower Bracket.

Haas' victory over the last of the Georgetown sextet that came here for the championships placed him in the lower bracket semifinal tomorrow against Vincent D'Antoni, Tulane, with Bill Barclay, of Michigan, and Paul Leslie, Haas' Louisiana State teammate, clasping in the top half.

Barclay put out Jim Marks, jr., Princeton, 2 and 1; Leslie submerged John Hobart, Illinois, 9 and 8, and D'Antoni trounced Stanley Holditch, Georgia Tech, 4 and 3.

With an approximate 80 medal score in the forenoon, Johnson was 4 down to Haas' 78. The Louisiana State star had a buzzard 7 on the fifteenth to swell his total.

Johnson's trouble at the start was putting, but after the first three holes he had overcome that fault only to lapse into faulty drives and approaches.

The Hoya three-putted the second and third, losing both. He chipped dead for a birdie 4 on the fourth to be 1 down, but never got any closer to Haas on the morning round. Bad tee shots at the sixth and eighth cost him a chance to win, for Haas was off the line first on these short holes. A birdie 4, result of a 10-foot putt, put Haas 2 up on the ninth.

Increases Lead.

All four holes that Johnson lost on the backstretch were through visits to the traps. Each trip into the bunkers cost him a 5 and each time Haas won with a 4. Both played back in 40, but Haas had increased his lead to 4 up.

Johnson surprised himself immediately after lunch by holing a chip shot from 90 feet out for an eagle 3 to win the first hole. It proved only a brief respite, however, as he visited traps on the next three holes and lost all of them to Haas' par scores. Johnson was out in 38 and Haas, after winning the ninth with an eagle 3, in 36, one under.

They halved the first three holes on the return trip in par figures, but Haas brought the match to an end on the thirteenth with a 60-foot putt. His other two long putts had occurred at the ninth, one of 70 feet, and at the fifth, where it measured fully 75 feet.

Ripper Collins' Home Run With Two on in The Fifth Decides.

St. Louis, July 1 (AP).—The league-leading Chicago Cubs swept a three-game series with the snarling, arguing St. Louis Cardinals, winning the final contest today, 6 to 3. The hit that kept the Cubs from slipping below the New York Giants was Ripper Collins' home run with two on in the fifth inning.

Fishing . . .

By Bill Ackerman.

Capt. Lonny Spriggs reports the rock as striking again in the Piney Point sector, running in size from 3 to 14 pounds and up to 15 to the boat. Quite a few weakfish and plenty of spot.

ACKERMAN

Hasn't been so good at Shadyside this past week, on account of the weather, but every boat that does get out returns with catches that run from 25 to 40. According to Capt. Bob Lee, there are plenty of rock and weakfish.

So-called poor man's fishing has opened up in great style at South River. Plenty of pan rock, some snapper blues and all the Norfolk spot that you can pull in. Get your rowboat from Capt. Parks on the Annapolis side of the bridge, bait also, and fish close to the bridge, but not on the bottom. Try the different levels until you strike it right.

Do you know that 31 of West Virginia's 55 counties are mostly forest land, the percentage in each running from 55 to 93 of the total area. This is one of the reasons that make it such a wonderful bass fishing State.

Water conditions have been good this year, which in turn means that there has been a very favorable spawning season. The effect of it should be manifest in the next couple of years. Good water conditions, also mean good food conditions for the bass that will be fair game this year. There is also a greater number of small fish in the streams than there has been for many years past.

Bass fishermen are prone to wander far afield in search of their sport, so, for those—try West Virginia. The section in the neighborhood of Romney has excellent streams, and is little more than two hours drive. In the north-central region try the Cheat, Buckhannon and Greenbrier Rivers. In the central and southern part are the Elk, Coal, Guyandotte and Little Kanawha Rivers and Middle Island Creek. It will be the eastern panhandle that will attract most local anglers. The Cacapon and Shenandoah Rivers are known and talked of whenever two bass fishermen get together. There is no better anywhere. Also try the South Fork of the Potomac, locally called the Moorefield and the South Branch of the Potomac.

Season opens July 1, and continues until November 30. Eight bass ten inches or more in length may be caught in any one day and 100 for the season. Undersized fish should be returned to the water with as little injury as possible. If the hook is deep, cut it off with a pair of nippers, the bass will get rid of it with little or no trouble, even though it has been swallowed.

The season on wall-eyed pike and muskelunge, those warriors of the deeper streams, opens on July 1, and stays so until April 15, 1938. Fishermen that like to take the occasional large fish can try their luck in Middle Island Creek, Little Kanawha River and the Elk River.

Muskies, generally regarded as "lakers" and only to be found in Wisconsin and Minnesota, are not a stocked fish in West Virginia, but are native to several of the larger streams.

Have you ever tried fishing with a barbless hook? The results in every way are satisfactory; the only noticeable difference being the ease with which an undersized fish is removed from the hook without injury. Their use indicates that hooking and holding power is about the same as that of the barbed variety, provided that the angler properly plays the fish with a tight line.

First Birthday To Be Marked By Night Club

Boulevard Farms Arranges Gala Celebration for Tonight.

By Chanticleer

Happy birthday to you. Happy birthday to you, happy birthday Boulevard Farms, happy birthday to you. Sure, my little friends, and it's the first birthday for the Boulevard Farms tonight. Dick Richards, mine host, has issued orders that no expense be spared to assure all the patrons who will journey out to the farms tonight, the best of times in helping to observe this happy occasion. First, a big double floor show has been arranged. There will be eight acts. Featured are Lee and Coty O'Neill, the St. Johns, the Parker Sisters, Ted Bucolo and Dot Lewis. Even the performers are all pepped-up and a lively show will greet the paying customers.

Everything from taps to acrobatics, the shim-sham-shimmy and Oriental dances, rhumba and carioca, singing and shouting, novelties, paper hats, confetti and streamers—a gay, gay affair.

If you have dinner, you may have wine, at no extra charge. Your girl friend will receive flowers. It's open house tonight and the sky is the limit, because even newspaper people have been invited. We'll be there.

Now we find out that Gwynne, the magician, who is appearing at the Shoreham Terrace, is a member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. The magicmen held their Pow-Wow down at High Point, N. C., last week. Even the tricksters award prizes, and Gwynne has won a silver loving cup for three years in a row.

All the original tricks imported from Germany which were owned by the late W. W. Durbin, registrar of the Treasury, have been purchased by Gwynne and incorporated into his show for the first time at the Shoreham Terrace.

Catch the latest thing on the first bounce and get it home while its hot. That might or might not mean a thing to you, but taken in the light of the fact that we are attempting to throw some light on the situation at Brinkley's as it affects your evening pleasures, the statement is significant and teeming with potential possibilities for your future enjoyment. Here's the dope.

This Brinkley's spot is located in the Southeast section of town at 533 Eighth street. To some people the thought of making a trip to such a remote section of America would conjure thoughts of packing trunks and strapping luggage on the old benzine burner. Take heart lads and lassies, for 'tis only faint of heart who are smitten in such strange manner, and they always manage to end up in the more prosaic spots and for that reason find time to wonder at the fact that they again have spent another prosaic night. Not so at Brinkley's . . . ah, me, perish the thought that the music, the crowd and the refreshments at this colorful and wideawake emporium of mirth would hide beneath a false mask of pretense.

At Brinkley's, there is a spice and dash to things that is distinctly a la Brinkley. So, if you are yearning for a little different thing to do some night, discover Brinkley's for yourself.

We told you earlier in the week of the formal opening party that was planned for the Nightingale Wednesday night. Now we are warning you, in case you missed that event that this same spot is planning a splendid week-end show and that in keeping with its policy, popular prices will prevail. Confidentially, if you are interested in a good spot to dance and enjoy good music, plus the added benefit of having a real floor upon which to give vent to your dancing expression take a run out to the Nightingale. It is located 3 miles outside of Alexandria on the Richmond Highway.

Have you noticed that Jack and Leo at the Mayfair are walking around with their respective chests blown up these days? The reason is the blow-up of their photo out in front of the Cafe of all Nations, and while we are on the subject, we had the head barkeep's picture in the picture some time ago, all wrapped up in an Esquimoux suit, and now he wants to go to Alaska for his vacation.

Here's one for the books. The Cork and Bottle, the cocktail lounge at the Commodore Hotel, has a customer who can't wait till he gets to the place to order his drink. He recently came back to Washington by plane after a trip to Chicago, and as soon as he alighted from the plane at the Washington Airport he rushed to a phone and called the Cork and Bottle and told them to have one mint julep ready for consumption right away. Sounds fantastic, but it's true.

These warm afternoons find the Madrillon's cocktail room getting a big play. Frank McNey is on hand as host, which is a big help, and one of the reasons that may enter. In the evening there is the band, Johnny Shaw, being on vacation. Alvin Spieldock, the drummer, is the head of the band. Al has a keen arrangement of Christopher Columbus, and it works out that after a bit of playing each of the musicians leaves his post, and pretty soon Al is alone beating on his drum. The trio consisting of Johnney Robb, George Kaufman and Helen Forrest do very good work in a pleasing manner.

And now the Three M's. The popularity which is theirs is justly deserved. These boys are without a doubt tops in their type of entertainment in this vicinity. Ask them for any number and you are seldom refused. They know more songs than are listed in the books. Because, they also know their own. If you haven't already been over to the Hi-Hat, at the Ambassador Hotel, drop in, and be impressed. And if you have been . . . we don't have to tell you . . . you know.

Shower for Boys Camp.

The Southeast Citizens Association will hold a linen shower for the benefit of the Boys Camp of the Police Boys Club tonight at the home of Mrs. A. H. Brybe, 217 E street southeast. Mrs. Alyse Thume is chairman of the committee securing equipment for the camp, and Mrs. Ernest W. Brown, honorary chairman.

Dance Scene at Boulevard Farms

Stengle Selects Wickware as Aide

Godfrey V. Wickware, president of the District of Columbia Division, Inc., Young Democrats, and a former member of the Democratic national committee speakers' bureau, has been appointed executive assistant to Charles I. Stengle, president of the American Federation of Government Employes.

Wickware is expected to serve the A. F. G. E. national office particularly in its current drive for members and in other matters concerning the national organization.

He is a graduate of Columbus University School of Law and an officer in the Naval Reserve.

China Budget Balanced.

Nanking, July 1 (AP).—China's budget for the fiscal year beginning today was announced as balanced at the record total of 1,000,649,000 Chinese dollars, or approximately $300,000,000. Military expenditures led the budget with an appropriation of 392,499,952 Chinese dollars, or approximately $125,000,000.

PoliceContinue Theory Bones Those of Miller

Wife Unable to Identify Clothing; Teeth to be Checked.

Washington police last night continued to work on the theory that the skeleton of a man found in a thicket near Grenebelt, Md., was that of Charles L. Miller, District cab driver, despite the fact that the missing man's wife, Mrs. Lucy Miller, was unable yesterday to identify clothing found at the scene as belonging to her husband.

Sergt. Ralph Brown, of the Prince Georges County police, said it was only guesswork to assume that the skeleton was that of Miller. He said that Mrs. Miller told police the initials on her husband's belt were C. L. M. On the buckle of the belt found with the remains there was only the initial C.

Washington police were to ask Miller's dentist to examine several filled teeth found in the skull in an effort to establish identification.

The skeleton was discovered Monday by workers clearing a tract of land near the Resettlement Administration's housing project. They made a report to county police.

Suspecting foul play, police began an investigation immediately after Miller's disappearance was reported. His car was found at Tenth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest, and police talked with witnesses who said they saw two colored men alight from the cab the night of Miller's disappearnace.

Gen. Peek Assigned To New Command

Brig. Gen. Ernest D. Peek has been assigned to command of Fort Francis E. Warren, Cheyenne, Wyo., the War Department announced yesterday.

Succeeding Brig. Gen. Charles Humphrey, jr., at Fort Warren, Gen. Peek until recently has been serving as North Atlantic division engineer, with headquarters at New York City, since May 5, 1936.

During the World War Brig. Gen. Peek participated in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. After serving as chief engineer of the First Army, A. E. F., he was appointed deputy director general of transportation, and served in that capacity until June 1, 1919.

Gen. Peek was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his World War service, and is also an officer of the French Legion of Honor.

Columbia Opera Group to Stage 'Sweethearts'

Final rehearsals will be held tonight and tomorrow night for the Columbia Light Opera Company's presentation of Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts," at the National Sylvan Theater, Washington Monument Grounds, next Tuesday, at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. Hanna M. Welch Funeral Held at Boston

Funeral services were held yesterday at Boston for Mrs. Hanna M. Welch, 80, who died Monday at Walter Reed Hospital. Mrs. Welch was the mother of Maj. John M. Welch, of the Surgeon General's office, Army Medical Corps, and made her home with her son at 2900 Connecticut avenue.

On the Air Today

When President Roosevelt failed to name a successor to Dr. Ervin Stewart, chairman of the Telegraph Division of the Federal Communications Commission yesterday, it created a condition that has never before existed in the three-year life of the commission. There are six members on the staff and it is expected that one of the five remaining members will be named by the chairman to sit as a member of the two divisions temporarily. Up to this time there have always been the six members to sit in conference.

Many names have been linked with the pending appointment, but the boys along radio way are looking for a "dark horse." Dr. Stewart retired on his own accord to accept a more lucrative job.

The first program of the Cincinnati Summer Opera Company will be broadcast at 8 tonight. This will be the first in a series of six broadcasts which are held in the famous Zoological Gardens. Bruna Castagna, Carlo Morelli, Norman Gordon and John Gurney will be among the renowned singers from the Metropolitan to take part in this operatic festival.

Now that Jack Pearl is vacationing Mr. Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra will have complete charge of the "prevaricator's" program. Tommy has promised to dust off the old trombone case and play a few tunes on the sliding instrument. Listed are "Marie," "Song of India" and a medley of old-time tunes. Morton Bowe, lyric tenor and Edythe Wright, vocalist with the band are due to sing several favorites. Station WMAL at 9 p. m.

• • • •

Other features:

1 p. m.—WRC. A description of the medieval Palio race at Siena, Italy.

2 p. m.—WMAL. "The Marriage of Kitty," a comedy, will be presented by the Radio Guild. Love and finances is the plot.

5:15 p. m.—WRC. The United States track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union.

7 p. m., WMAL—Irene Rich stars in "The Kind Miss Wilson," in which the story of the strange adventures of a lady explorer is told.

7 p. m., WRC—Cities Service salutes Independence Day. Lucille Manners will sing Kreisler's "Cradle Song," "Roses of Picardy," by Wood, and Hillian's "Cher Ami."

7:30 p. m., WJSV—Alice Faye, of movieland, joins with Hal Kemp to offer songs from her latest movies. This series originates in Hollywood.

8 p. m., WJSV—Dramatic highlights of the picture "Between Two Women," the story of a surgeon's devotion to his profession, will be re-enacted by Franchot Tone, Maureen O'Sullivan and Virginia Bruce on the "Hollywood Hotel" program tonight.

9:45 p. m., WMAL—Elsa Schallert flew out to Hollywood to interview little Bobby Breen.

Shortage Fear Rockets Wheat 8 Cents in Day

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, July 1.—Overwhelmed by a sudden outburst of feverish general buying, wheat soared 8 cents a bushel today with a speed recalling World War times.

The excited rush to purchase wheat was due principally to alarm over prospects that drought damage to crops in Canada, coupled with black rust ravages in the United States, may bring about acute shortage of supplies to meet a big increase of estimated needs of wheat exports to Europe. News of the strained relations between Russia and Japan added a touch of war scare to operations in the wheat pit.

Latest authoritative figures were that the United States would be called upon furnish Europe 96,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, as against nothing last year.

At the close Chicago wheat futures were 4⅞@7⅞ cents above yesterday's finish, July, 1.26@1.26⅛; September, 1.25; December, 1.26⅛; corn, 2⅞@3½ up; July, 1.28@1.28¼; September, 1.13⅞@1.14; December, 81⅛@82; oats, 1⅞@2¼ advanced; September, 39⅝@39½, and rye showing 1 cent to 4½ cents bulge; September, 91¾. Provisions results were 7 to 22 cents higher.

Brokers' Loans Drop $11,000,000 in Week

By the Associated Press.

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that last week's loans to brokers and dealers on securities held by reporting member banks in New York City totaled $1,206,000,000. The week ended Wednesday and the total represented a decrease of $11,000,000 when compared with the previous week.

Excess Reserves Rise $60,000,000

By the Associated Press.

The Federal Reserve Board reported last evening that member bank excess reserves totaled $870,000,000 on June 30, an increase of $60,000,000 over the previous week. It was the second weekly increase in these idle funds, a $60,000,000 upturn having been recorded last week. This week's increase was attributal in part to a $58,000,000 decline in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve banks.

When the Treasury withdraws funds from the Reserve institutions, they are paid out for salaries and goods, flow into the channels of trade and industry and find their way into commercial banks, increasing the supply of idle money available for lending.

Money in circulation increased to $54,000,000 for the week, to $6,448,000,000. This was $198,000,000 over the same week last year. Gold stocks, climbing $48,000,000, reached a new $12,318,000,000 high.

Tea Bureau Formed For Rising U. S. Trade

New York, July 1.—Announcement is made today of the organization of the Tea Bureau of the United States to handle and centralize the expanding activities of the industry in this country. Benjamin Wood has resigned as an executive of Good Housekeeping Magazine to become managing director of the Tea Bureau, at 500 Fifth avenue.

The organization of the new bureau follows the recent sharp increase in tea consumption in the United States. Imports of black tea were 32,049,143 pounds during the first five months of 1937, an increase of 4,699,227 pounds over the same period of last year. Teas from India, Ceylon, Java and Sumatra accounted for more than half of the increase.

Bituminous Production.

The National Coal Association estimates bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended June 26 as approximately 7,060,000 net tons. Production for the corresponding week: 1936, 6,867,000 tons; 1935, 6,515,000 tons.

Higher Broker Fees Are Urged By Committee

Increase in Costs and Drop in Trading Reported to Stock Exchange.

By the Associated Press.

New York, July 1.—Citing an increase in brokerage costs and a reduced volume of trading, a special committee of the New York Stock Exchange recommended today an increase in brokers' commissions, basing the commission rate on the total value of a transaction in dollars, instead of on the value of shares. The governors of the exchange referred the recommendation to its law committee. In submitting the recommendation, Edward A. Pierce, of the brokerage firm of E. A. Pierce & Co., chairman of the committee, wrote:

"There can be no doubt now that a broker's costs have increased heavily and much of the increase is quite beyond his control—as for instance expense incurred to meet direct requirements of Federal and State Governments. When the 1936 cost of these requirements to one house alone exceeds, as it does, $150,000, with the prospect of an increase in succeeding years under statutory requirements, the burden of the impost on commision houses generally is impressive."

Proposed Commissions.

The proposed new commissions are:

On transactions amounting to less than $100 the commission shall be 6 per cent of the amount involved, but not less than $1.

On transactions amounting to $100 and not more than $1,000 the rate shall be $5 plus 1 per cent of the amount involved.

On transactions amounting to more than $1,000, the rate shall be $15 plus 1-10 of 1 per cent of the amount involved.

The rate would be $6 for a $100 transaction increasing $1 a hundred to $15 commission for a $1,000 transaction. Starting at a $1,100 transaction, the rate would be $16.10 with an increase of 10 cents per $100 to $17 for a $2,000 transaction—and so up to a commission of $35 for a $20,000 transaction.

The present system, based on the value of the shares traded in, have a wide spread—such as 7½ cents a share on shares selling from $1 to $10; 12½ cents from $10 to $25, and up to 30 cents from $200 to $250—while the new system eliminates this spread.

For example, the commission on 100 shares of Republic Steel, selling around $35, would be $18.50. Under the old system—with its rate of 15 cents a share between $25 and $50, the commission would have been only $15. Similar increases were proposed for bonds.

Standard Electric Output.

Chicago, July 1.—Electric output of the public utility operating companies in the Standard Gas & Electric Co. system for the week ended June 26, 1937, totaled 108,366,797 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 12.5 per cent compared with the corresponding week last year.

The Market

Stocks Advance Slowly as Wheat Jumps Limit; U. S. Bonds Firm; Francs Break.

New York, July 1.—Stocks advanced in slow trading with a little raggedness here and there. Prices grew a shade easier toward the close, but the majority held above their previous last quotations. Stock turnover was around 700,000 shares. Government bonds were strong.

At the turn of the year a survey of the markets is expected, although July seldom is a critical period for business. The fall of 4.2 per cent in stock valuations in June, according to the Sun's calculations, was the most severe since April, when prices dropped 7.7 per cent, and it marked the fourth consecutive month of decline. Market value of the issued common stocks of 125 representative industrial and railroad corporations is now virtually at the level of July, 1936. A year's gains, in other words, have been wiped out.

While common stock prices are back to just where they were a year ago, on the average, that is by no means true of the conditions which ultimately govern prices. Corporation activity and profits are currently running at a higher rate than they were a year ago, for the most part, and the prospect is that larger dividends will be distributed this year than in 1936.

Investment Revives.

Were investors buying stocks on the old calculations of what should be paid per share for each dollar of profits, a strong demand for stocks would be seen. Signs are appearing that a reawakening of investment interest is taking place. What has dulled it during the past four months, it may be assumed without much strain, was the combination of labor troubles, which influenced more directly the home investors, and the gold-price scare, which had much to do with breaking up foreign purchases here and promoting some liquidation at home and abroad.

The first factor looks a shade less menacing than it did, and the second may be dismissed, for some time to come at least, even though the difficulties in French finance have added some fresh complications. The force of rearmament abroad, the good crops on this side, and the stream toward inflation that continues to flow in virtually all countries, seem just now to be in the balance on the side of higher prices for common stocks. On longer term the outlook is much less promising.

The French Front.

On the French front the developments were about as expected. Loosened from gold the franc continued to decline. The price of 3.75 cents was paid at one time, against around 4.50 cents yesterday. Probably little speculation in francs took place, notwithstanding the fact that the danger in a short position does not seem to be quite so great as the authorities would make believe.

It is easy to assume, as is done in official statements and in a section of the press, that, with France off gold and with the exchange controls leaving the franc alone, the dollar value of the currency would go to the 4-cent level at which it was stabilized under the Poincare regime. That is assuming an awful lot. It will be dead easy for the franc to go to 4 cents, as witness its fall below that price today. What will hold it that high is not so easy to see.

Best of Luck.

In a number of ways the economic position of France, its fiscal policies and its political canditions are far worse than they were a number of years ago, when 4 cents was found to be the pdoper level for the franc. Before the Pioncare financial dictatorship the franc sunk as low as 2.13 cents (in 1926), when the country's debt, exclusive of the railways and telephone systems, was around 290,000,0000,000 francs, when Germany had no army or navy, and when it looked to be a far cry from a communistic-socialistic premier.

The French debt now is around 542,000,000,000 francs, fears among the capitalist class of a Socialist government are widespread, the menace of war is considerable and the public has acquired a good appetite for high government spending. Confidence was quickly established under Poincare, gold flowed into France, prices rose, taxes increased and the budget was balanced—after a fashion at least. The trick this time can't be turned by pious sentiments of good will issued by the British chancellor of the exchequer and the American Secretary of the Treasury.

Commodities.

Commodity markets were again jubilant. Wheat prices on the Chicago market went the limit of 5 cents for a day's trading. The September future reached $1.25 a bushel, also because of the trouble between Japan and Russia, which not only threatens the world supply, but might easily lead to greater demand by nations which lately have been acquiring large stocks of wheat as wad measures.

Stocks opened a little higher, sold up quickly in the first hour, and spent the remainder of the day around their best levels. Steel crossed par, Chrysler moved up a point or two and a number of active issues hardened 1 to 2 points or more, but in late trading Chrysler broke badly. Metal stocks were well liked. Amusement stocks were especially active, and indeed with good reason. Most of the rails moved narrowly. Motors were somewhat disappointing.

Higher Commissions.

One section of stock exchange brokerage houses feels that the current slack in business should be overcome by charging the public higher commission rates on stocks purchases. It is accordingly asking the members to vote a constitutional change to give the governing committee power to shift commission rates. The new schedule of rates suggested, based on the total dollar value of transactions, would bring about a material increase in the cost to the public—in some cases on odd lots running to more than 300 per cent. Assuming that higher rates would bring in larger revenues to the commission brokers, whether the necessity exists for lifting charges is a matter about which the public can know little. The committee on rates which is suggesting the increase gives no evidence on that point. As some brokers term it, the higher rates are planned as an emergency tax for brokerage relief.

Hitting Speculation.

The stock exchange is a monopoly business, and consequently may be exempt in some respects from the ordinary economic laws, but in general to lower the cost is to increase the movement of goods and services, although no one can be expected to do business at a loss. The stock exchange members will decide whether they think higher commissions will cut down trading enough to overcome the larger income per unit of trading. Just the same higher rates (for the present schedule is the same as that prevailing during the boom years) will tend to reduce speculative activity in dull markets, which the committee evidently anticipates and for that reason expects approval from the SEC, already on record as wishing to reduce speculative activity.

Survival of Fittest.

Reduction of speculative activity on the stock exchange by action of the members appears to be somewhat inconsistent with what many members say in criticism of the SEC and other New Deal measures. The official stand of the exchange is the necessity of speculation as an insurance of liquid markets for the investor. Actually speculators won't care much what the commission rates may be when the market is moving up or down rapidly, but they probably will lose interest in stocks to a still greater extent when the price range is narrow. The new rates are designed to hit the investor—the buyer and seller of odd lots—harder than the operator in full shares. Few will dispute that there are now more brokerage houses than can find business to keep them going. It will be interesting to see whether measures now suggested, such as higher commission rates, supervision of branches and the like, will force closings and consolidations, leaving only the fit (and financially able) to survive.

Exchanges to Close Saturday and Monday

New York, July 1 (AP).—The board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange ruled today that the market would be closed on Saturday, July 3. The ruling was made in response to a petition by members. The Exchange will also be closed Monday, July 5, in observance of the Independence Day holiday. The New York Curb Exchange followed immediately with an announcement that it would be closed Saturday and Monday. All Canadian stock exchanges and commodity markets were closed today in observance of Dominion Day holiday.

Expert Replies To Critics of Life Insurance

By Thomas M. Cahill.

Critics of life insurance are answered by a new book in which various fallacious theories are scored by an actuarial organization leader. Declarations such as, "When I borrow my own funds you charge me 6 per cent interest," "You profit when insurance is surrendered," and "In event of death you confiscate the reserve," made in recent criticisms of life insurance are replied to by M. Albert Linton, recently reelected president of the American Actuarial Society, in his book, "Life Insurance Speaks for Itself," which has just been published.

WINTHROP G. BATCHELDER.

Discussing this volume, Winthrop G. Batchelder, first vice president of the District of Columbia Life Underwriter's Association, himself a nationally recognized authority on annuity investment insurance, explained that Mr. Linton, in his book, clearly emphasizes the fact that "we have to consider both the contingency of dying prematurely and leaving a dependent family, and the contingency of living to old age without means of support."

He said: "The prudent man will adopt a program which takes both contingencies into account, blending their respective costs in appropriate proportion according to his individual needs. Simple and sensible as this program would appear, the consequences of following it can be distorted to make it appear that gross injustice has been practiced upon the planner. Hindsight is cleverly substituted for foresight (by the critics) and utterly false conclusions are drawn."

Mr. Batchelder reminded that Mr. Linton is also a member of the special advisory council recently named by the Social Security Board, to aid in the consideration of the future of th old-age pension plans.

Bankers' Committees.

The new administrative year of the District of Columbia Bankers Association has been begun with the assembling of standing committees. Appointment of Hilleary G. Hoskinson, a vice president of Riggs National Bank, as chairman of the budget committee, one of the association's most important groups, was made this week by Thomas J. Groom, president of the organization. Other members of the committee are Ord Preston, president of Union Trust Co. and second vice president of the association; A. M. McLachlen, secretary treasurer of McLachlen Banking Corporation and third vice president of the association, and Albert S. Gaetly, executive vice president of Lincoln National Bank and association treasurer.

Selection of Lanier P. McLachlen, president McLachlen Banking Corporation, as chairman of the taxation committee, work of which is of great value to the association, was also announced by President Groom. Stanley D. Willis, trust officer, National Metropolitan Bank, has been named vice chairman, and other prominent banking officials appointed members of this committee are: Francis G. Addison, jr., Victor B. Deyber, H. H. McKee, Maurice D. Rosenberg, Corcoran Thom, George O. Vass and C. F. Jacobsen.

President Groom also announced other important committee appointments as follows: Law and legislation: Francis G. Addison, jr., chairman; C. F. Burton, vice chairman; Robert V. Fleming, Harry G. Meem, Corcoran Thom, H. Prescott Gatley, Roger J. Whiteford, David Bornet and George E. Hamilton, jr. Treasury relations: Sidney F. Taliaferro, chairman; C. F. Jacobsen, vice chairman; M. F. Calnan, Joshua Evans, jr., E. C. Gresham, J. R. McMullan.

Larson's Third Term.

Thought to be the youngest man in the country holding his kind of position, Donald W. Larson, 27, has begun his third term as secretary of the District of Columbia Bankers Association. Mr. Larson was born in St. Cloud, Minn., where he was educated in the public schools. He later attended the University of Minnesota; completed a course in Minneapolis Business College and took considerable special work in the American Institute of Banking.

He came to Washington as secretary to Representative Harold Knutson, of Minnesota, and prior to that had been chief clerk for two large manufacturing firms. Mr. Larson is a member of the State Secretaries Section of the American Bankers Association. He is also connected with the Credit Bureau of the local bankers' association, and the work of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking. His service was praised by President Groom of the District Bankers Association in his annual report.

Virginia Bankers' Officers.

Alex F. Ryland, of Richmond, was elected president of the Virginia Bankers Association at its recent convention at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. C. L. Robey, of Purcellville, was elected vice president; C. W. Beerbower, of Roanoke, was re-elected secretary and Thomas D. Neal, Richmond, was renamed treasurer. H. H. Cooley, of Round Hill, and T. H. Blanton, of Bowling Green, were selected for the association's executive council and T. E. Sebrell, of Clarendon, was appointed an alternate member of the nominating committee of the American Bankers Association, representing Virginia.

Banking Notes.

"Federal Control of Economics and the Banks" was the subject of an address this week by Charles Harrison Mann, associate general counsel of A. S. Pratt & Sons, Inc., before the Wisconsin Bankers Association.

Stuart S. Ogilvie, an assistant cashier of Second National Bank, has returned from Chicago, where he attended the convention of the National Association of Credit Men.

Steel Quotations.

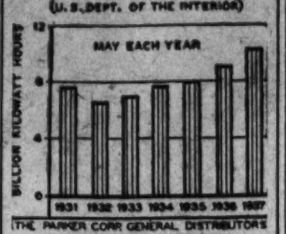
Electricity Output Highest in History



Boston, Mass., July 1.—For 32 consecutive months electric power production has exceeded the same month of the preceding year and is now at the highest monthly totals in the history of the industry. May production exceeded a year ago by 12 per cent.

4 D. C. Graduates Of Banking School

New Brunswick, N. J., July 1.—The graduate school of banking, conducted under theconducaed of Rutgers University and the American Bankers Association through its American institute of banking section, will hold commencement exercises for its first graduating class here tomorrow night in the college gymnasium. The school was established in 1935.

An address to the graduates will be delivered by Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University. Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the board, Irving Trust Co., New York, and chairman of the board of regents of the graduate school of banking, also will address the class and award the diplomas.

Washington students who will graduate are: H. T. Bisselle and R. E. Haycock, of the Riggs National Bank, and Ralph Endicott and George M. Fisher, of the Washington Loan & Trust Co.

Foreign Exchange.

By the Associated Press.

The French franc and Japanese yen broke sharply in foreign exchange dealings yesterday as most European currency units moved forward.

Following departure once more from the gold standard, the franc in New York dropped .29 of a cent at 3.84 cents. Tension between Japan and Russia over the Siberian-Manchoukuan border dispute sent the yen to 28.56 cents, off .14 of a cent.

The pound sterling moved up ⅛ of a cent, as dollars from the Continent were offered in volume, and was quoted at $4.94⅜. Netherlands guilders improved .04 of a cent at 54.96 cents and Swiss francs were .03 of a cent higher at 22.90 cents. Canadian dollars, at 99.81¼ cents, added ⅛ of a cent.

In London the dollar sagged 1¼ cents to close at 4.94⅛ to the pound, as compared with the New York overnight rate of 4.93¾. It finished in Paris at the equivalent of 3.837 cents against the overnight New York rate of 4.13 cents.

Bank Clearings Decline 3.5% From Year Ago

By the Associated Press.

New York, July 1.—Bank clearings this week dropped below those of a year ago, with the increase at the outside centers the smallest recorded since the week of September 30, 1936. Some of the loss may be attributetd to the fact that July 1 settlements were included in the 1936 week, but not in the current total.

The volume for 22 leading cities for the week ended June 30, as reported to Dun & Bradstreet, amounted to $5,815,932,000, compared with $6,027,895,000 for the corresponding week of 1936, or a decrease of 3.5 per cent.

In the year-to-year comparison for the preceding week, there was an increase of 11.4 per cent, which was the first rise over 1936 in four weeks.

New York clearings totaled $3,678,545, against $3,900,135,000 in the like week a year ago, or a decline of 5.7 per cent. The outside centers contributed a total of $2,137,387,000, in contrast with $2,127,760,000 for the same week last year, or a gain of 0.5 per cent.

From the total of the week preceding, the loss in clearings amounted to $388,724,000. Between the two similar weeks in 1936, there was an increase of $455,214,000.

D. C. June Clearings Highest in 7 Years.

Bank clearings in Washington in June totaled $124,009,738.44 in comparison with $104,841,034.71 in June, 1936, a gain of $19,168,703.73, the Clearing House Association reported yesterday. This is the best June total in seven years, and almost equals the 1929 record in the same month, when canceled checks amounted to $124,028,347.

The Washington Clearing House reports total clearings of $29,165,544.73 for the week ended June 30, which compares with $24,556,000.26 for the corresponding period last year, an increase of 18.7 per cent. Compared with a total of $27,024,726.79 for the previous week, clearings increased 7.9 per cent.

Turner Sentenced To 40-Year Term In Assault Death

Forty years in prison, one of the stiffest sentences ever passed out in District Court, was the term given Alonzo Turner yesterday following a plea of guilty to a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Marie Maier, 38-year-old housewife.

Elmer Fulk, a companion who pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to commit criminal attack, was sentenced to 3 to 15 years. Both appeared yesterday before Justice F. D. Letts, before whom they had admitted guilt after the prosecution had sought the death penalty.

Big Tower Marks Site of Edison Discoveries

Menlo Park, N. J., July 1 (AP).—Amid ceremonies watched by several hundred gray-haired associates and employes of the late Thomas A. Edison, the cornerstone of a 140-foot tower to mark the place where the great inventor created the first incandescent light and the phonograph was laid today.

The mosaic concrete shaft will be built around the steel tower bearing the "Perpetual Light," illuminated October 21, 1929, when Edison pressed a button at Dearborn, Mich., on the fiftieth anniversary of the electric bulb.

Wheat Soars 8 Cents In Broker's Scramble

Chicago, July 1 (U.P.).—The price of a bushel of wheat climbed 5 to 8 cents today while grain traders rushed about the wheat pit of the Board of Trade buying futures wherever offered.

In scenes approaching pandemonium, brokers scrambled to obtain supplies following reports of extensive damage to crops in Iowa, Nebraska, Indiana and the Dakotas.

July futures, which represent the first of the 1937 crop to move to market, soared to $1.26⅞ a bushel, up 8 cents, and closed at $1.26 a bushel. The July futures, being in the current month, are allowed an 8-cent limit up and down in one day's trading, and today's high was at the full advance.

10,000 in New York Cheer Soviet Aviators

New York, July 1 (AP).—Three Soviet aviators who spanned the Arctic from Moscow to Vancouver June 20, guests last night at an exclusive dinner, received their public accolade here tonight from more than 10,000 persons at the Seventy-first Regiment armory.

Shouts and cheers brought bedlam to the great hall as speaker after speaker praised the feat of Valerie Chekaloff, Alexander Beliakoff, and Georgi Baidukoff, the demonstration reaching its peak as the fliers mounted the platform in the midst of the program.

Two Women Drowned in Truck-Auto Crash

Annapolis, Md., July 1 (AP).—An automobile containing four colored persons sideswiped a truck and trailer on a narrow bridge near Riva Beach tonight and plunged through the guard rail into the South River, carrying two women to their death.

Grace Smothers, 35, of Camp Parole, and Ruth Johnson, 20, were drowned. Wayman Reese, 21, driver of the car, and his wife, Helen Reese, were saved. Patrolman W. A. Stallings said the car met a truck and trailer driven by Franklin B. Sams, of Harwood.

Funeral Service Held For Frank A. Vanderlip

Scarborough, N. Y., July 1 (AP).—Frank A. Vanderlip, sr., financier, who died Tuesday, was paid a last tribute at funeral services today at his Westchester County estate, Beechwood.

New Staff Starts Work at Gallinger

Fifty-five new staff members, of whom 28 are resident physicians and the remainder internes, began their duties at Gallinger Hospital yesterday, after hearing a talk by Dr.

A new staff of internes is put to work at the hospital every 18 months and a new resident staff each fiscal year. The group of 55 replaced nearly all the doctors who have served during the last fiscal year.

Bank Stockholders Ask RFC Collateral Checkup

Peoria, Ill., July 1 (AP).—Four stockholders of the defunct Central Republic Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago filed suit in Federal District Court today for an accounting of the collateral pledged for the controversial "Dawes loan" of $80,000,000 in 1932.

Acting in behalf of some 4,000 other stockholders, the plaintiffs asked the court to establish a trust fund of whatever assets of the old bank were still under the control of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The RFC loaned the money to Central Republic after receiving collateral which at one time was valued as high as $118,000,000.

Dred Scott Trial Site Deeded to Government

St. Louis, July 1 (AP).—Mayor Bernard S. Dickmann signed an ordinance deeding St. Louis' historic old courthouse, scene of the Dred Scott trial, to the Federal Government today.

If the structure is accepted by the Government, it will be maintained by the National Park Service and provide a focal point for the proposed Jefferson Memorial to cover 37 blocks of the riverfront. Litigation attempting to block the huge project is now pending in the Federal courts.

Thieves Batter 3 Safes, Get $4 at D. C. Theater

Three safes in the office of the theater were tampered with during the night, Lee Holland, manager, reported to police yesterday. Only one of the strongboxes was opened, however. It contained $4.

The thieves, who entered through a rear door, knocked the combinations off the other two safes, but were unable to open them.

Foreign Markets.

By the Associated Press.

London, July 1.—Franc developments diverted traders' attention in the stock market today. Price movements were uneven in light turnover. Transatlantics recovered substantially. Oils, metals and gilt-edged issues strengthened. There was little done in gold shares and European bonds were irregular.

Paris—The bourse resumed trading today following government suspension of all French market dealings on Tuesday and Wednesday. Prices advanced sharply at the opening but most issues eased from the best in confused trading. Bank of France closed 800 points net higher. Royal Dutch was up 575 and Suez Canal 1,545.

Liverpool, July 1.—Wheat futures closed irregular today, 1d lower to ¼d higher. After an early decline due to weakness in Winnipeg yesterday the market rallied partly on covering of July. There were no July contract deliveries. Cotton eased 8 to 10 points under July liquidation and general selling. Weakness at Bombay influenced sentiment and support was limited to scale-down buying. The closing tone was steady.

32 Saved on Ship.

London, July 1 (AP).—The crew of 32 of the Italian steamer Aida Lauro was rescued by lifeboats early today off St. Ives, Cornwall, after the vessel piled upon rocks during a fog.

CHEVY CHASE, MD., Near Rock Creek Park—By owner, unusually livable 7-room house with small study; large screened living porch at rear overlooking garden; many trees; Marr oil burner; weatherstripping, insulation, all electric. 503 East Thornapple st., Wisconsin 4879

HERE is a home for a family with vision. In its present condition it is most attractive, consisting of 7 large rooms (4 bedrooms) and 2 baths; wood-burning fireplace; G. E. refrigeration. Most important, however, is the fact that the beautiful large lot falls away at the rear, and will readily permit the transformation of the rear half of the basement into a complete summer kitchen or a delightful and unusual daylight playroom. Several natural springs in the rear yard suggest the possibility of a unique garden with natural watercraping. But the most pleasant surprise is the price—$9,500, and only $1,000 down, the balance can be financed for 15 years. Inspect this home and agree that it is one of the best values in the Northwest section.

"AMERICA SPEAKS" NEXT SUNDAY SHOWS JUST WHERE THE PUBLIC STANDS IN THE PRESENT CONTROVERSY

Just what is the public's attitude toward labor unions and strikes?

Next Sunday the American Institute of Public Opinion will present the results of a comprehensive survey of voters' opinions on the labor situation.

Tydings Seeks To Tack Rider To D.C. Tax Bill

stood, after a second afternoon's executive session. They are the motor vehicle weight tax and the inheritance levy minus the Dies' amendment.

The insurance levy and the 20-cent realty tax hike were said to be still subjects of debate, although a strong move was under way to revive the income tax rejected by the House. It was proposed to substitute it for the business privilege tax.

Chairman Kenney of the House sub-committee was called before the Senate committee and questioned as to his views of the chances of the House accepting the income tax at this stage.

He told the Senators that he did not believe the House would accept the amendment even though members of Congress are exempted.

Tempers Flare.

Kennedy, and subsequently Representative McGehee (Democrat), of Missouri, a member of the tax sub-committee in the House, urged the Senate committee to adopt the House bill in the form it was reported to the House, save for the substitution of the 20-cent realty tax for the income levy.

Tempers of the Senators were flaring slightly at the end of the second conference with District officials because of failure to agree.

Another meeting was scheduled for today, however, and hope was expressed by the committee members that an agreement will be reached before the week-end recess.

The committee snarl, together with the three-day holiday, will prevent the bill from coming before the Senate before next Tuesday. That will mean that it must pass the Senate, and whatever amendments are adopted must be accepted by the House before the end of the week if the District government is to avoid a fiscal crisis.

Auditor Daniel J. Donovan has told the Senate committee that the municipal government canot get its realty tax bills out on time unless the measure become a law by July 15.

Rate Fixing Delayed.

Although the commissioners customarily fix the realty rate on July 1 for the fiscal year, they are now being forced to postpone the action until they know what revenue the pending bill will provide.

A sales tax still loomed as a possible substitute for the gross receipts levy as the Senate committee sought a solution to the tax enigma.

The income levy, however, appeared to have more supporters.

While there were rumors that both new taxes might be added as a compromise move, it was considered doubtful that the committee would recommend new levies that would raise much more revenue than needed to meet a $7,000,000

The 1 per cent increase in the realty tax as applied to land values is believed to have been blocked as Senator McCarran was absent from yesterday's conference. The District Commissioners, it is understood, are outspokenly opposed to it.

The committee will resume its deliberations at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Frederick Assessor Gets Hearing July 7

Baltimore, July 1 (AP).—Alfred W. Gaver, supervisor of assessments for Frederick County, will be given a hearing before the State tax commission here on July 7 on charges filed against him.

The board of commissioners of Frederick County alleged in its charges to the commission that Gaver had not complied with the law in respect to his duties. The details of the charges were not made public.

A New 1937 Dog Tag Is Bought—by the Dog

The new dog tags went on sale for the first time at the District Building yesterday, but for some reason or other, the usual rush failed to materialize. Only 692 tags were sold, $1,384 collected. Jane Davis' dog appeared in person and handed $2 over to Cashier A. M. Wood. From now until the end of summer, it's the pound for any pooch the dog catcher finds without a license.

Steel Awaits Upswing With Labor Peace

By the Associated Press.

New York, July 1.—The vitality displayed by the steel industry under the handicap of strikes and other unsettled conditions leads the trade to believe an upswing in new business will develop once the labor situation has quieted down, Iron Age said today in its weekly review.

"While new orders continue to run behind shipments," the publication said, "the total volume of business booked in June was not much, if any, below that of May. For some companies the June volume ranged from 65 to 75 per cent of shipments.

New business is heaviest in sheets, plates, structural shapes and oil-country pipe, while tin plate booked some time ago continues to tax the capacity of mills, some of which are doing extra turns to supply customers' insistent demands.

"Outstanding in the week's business was a 240-mile pipe line requiring 16,000 tons of 8-inch pipe, placed by the Atlantic Refining Co., and 7,500 tons of 10-inch pipe bought by Shell Petroleum Co.; also 18,000 of fabricated structural steel to be furnished by Bethlehem Steel for a Mississippi River bridge at Baton Rouge, La.

"For the third consecutive week the Iron Age composite price on steel scrap is unchanged at $17.08, but the scrap market undertone is stronger."

Train Victim Identified As Richmond Resident

Newport News, Va., July 1 (AP).—A man, killed last night by a Chesapeake & Ohio freight, was identified today by Newport News police as Johnny Hines, about 35, of Richmond.

His severed head was found caught in the under framework of a freight car when the train reached here last night. The trunk was found about a half-mile from Roxbury Station in Charles City County this morning.

Tobacco Plants Stolen.

Leonardtown, Md., July 1.—For the first time on record thieves have stolen tobacco plants from the seed beds on some of the farms near here. One farmer reports that one of his seed beds was found stripped of several thousand plants several days ago.

Rock Salt Is Used For Building Road

Hot Springs, Ark., July 1 (AP).—Common table salt, in rock form, is being experimented with for surfacing a 21-mile road in the Ouachita National Forest near Mena, officials of the forest revealed here today.

Officials explained salt holds moisture and keeps down dust. It also enabled the road to pack down harder and cuts down maintenance costs, they said.

Staunton Boy, Stabbed, Dies; Waiter Sought

Quarrel Preceded Fatal Cutting at Valley Roadhouse.

By the Associated Press.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 1.—Stabbed in the neck at a Valley roadhouse three miles south of Harrisonburg, Mitchell Dahl, 22-year-old Staunton lumberman, died today before he could be taken to a hospital.

Sheriff J. W. Bazzle, of Rockingham County, said he wanted to question Tom Johnson, 24, a colored waiter, in connection with the killing which occurred after Dahl stopped at the roadhouse with a party of friends from Staunton.

The waiter had "some words" with members of the party, Ed Pickering, one of the roadhouse owners said, before the stabbing occurred, and was ordered not to return to Dahl's table.

Sheriff Bazzle said he found no eyewitnesses to the stabbing, and M. E. McAleer, a member of the party, said the first others knew of the attack was when Dahl stumbled out of a booth with blood pouring from the wound and asked to be taken to a doctor.

Dahl, oldest of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. M. Dahl, was associated with his father in the lumber and stave mill business at Staunton.

British Need U. S. Steel.

London, July 1 (AP).—Government officials indicated to the House of Commons today they were considering reduction of the duty on steel imported from the United States because the metal was needed so urgently for rearmament.

Bertha Sabine Funeral Is Set For Tomorrow

Widow of Revenue Bureau Attorney Dies Unexpectedly.

Mrs. Bertha D. Sabine, 63, prominent in charity work of Takoma Park, Md., died yesterday at Homeopathic Hospital. She was stricken early yesterday at her home, 507 Carroll avenue. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

The widow of William T. Sabine, well known attorney and official of the Internal Revenue Bureau, who died a year and a half ago, Mrs. Sabine was interested in dogs. She had captured several hundred prizes at shows throughout the country for French poodles she has raised for many years. Her latest victory was at the Morris and Essex show in New Jersey, when she came home with the sweepstakes for two of her dogs. She was a member of the National Kennel and the Washington Kennel clubs.

A charter member of the auxiliary of the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department, Mrs. Sabine was one of the largest contributors to the association. She has furnished rooms at the building and for more than ten years has given the doll and wagon to the luckiest boy and girl at the Christmas party in Takoma Park. She was a member of Takoma Park Women's Club and Trinity Episcopal Church.

Born in Toronto, Canada, Mrs. Sabine has beena resident of Takoma Park for 15 years.

Funeral services will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the Chambers funeral parlor, 1400 Chapin street northwest, where the Rev. Christian M. Young, of Takoma Park, Md., rector emeritus of Trinity Episcopal Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be at Pottsdam, N. Y.

Maverick Speech Used in Auto Union's Drive

Detroit, July 1 (AP).—Pending renewal of attempts to carry its unionization campaign to the Ford Motor Co. gates, the United Automobile Workers of America plans to use the mails to reach Ford employes.

Union officials said today 10,000 copies of a speech by Representative Maury Maverick (Democrat), Texas, at a mass meeting June 5, are being prepared for mailing in franked Congressional envelopes. The address has been printed in the Congressional Record, they said, and Maverick supplied the envelopes for its distribution.

Wood Alcohol Kills 2.

Morehead, Ky., July 1 (AP).—Two deaths and the critical condition of two other men was laid today by Police Chief J. H. Adams to drinking wood alcohol taken from Morehead College. He said the men admitted taking the alcohol, thinking it was grain alcohol. The dead were Robert Hoggs, 29; Edgar Holbrook, 27, both of Morehead.
